CAPONE FACES STIFFER TERM BY PLEA SHIFT

GRAND JURY TO HEAR NEW RUM EVIDENCE

Judge Insists That Gangster Understand He Can Not Bargain.

Chicago, July 31 (A.P.).—Heavier penalties than he bargained for threaten "Scarface Al" Capone because he elected to withdraw his pleas of guilty to liquor conspiracy and tax evasions.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson surprised Government and defense with a sudden summons to a morning court session today and acceded to part of the gangster's request.

Capone, the court decided, may plead not guilty, if he likes, to the charge that he dodged the Federal tax on his alleged $1,000,000 income. The trial date, probably late in September, will be set September 8, but the judge withheld a ruling on Capone's change of mind on the prohibition indictment and ordered the grand jury to hear anew the evidence and decide whether more serious charges bringing more severe punishment can not be proved.

Prosecutors interpreted his statement as indicating Capone must be indicted under the Jones law, entailing maximum sentences of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine on each of the specific offenses now alleged in the blanket conspiracy indictment.

Capone Not in Court.

This was the court's answer to Capone's protest that the Government had promised to trade a recommendation of leniency for his guilty pleas. Capone was not in court to hear it. Only his attorneys, the prosecutors and the grand jury, hastily summoned at 10 a. m., to receive the charge, heard the ruling, read quickly by Judge Wilkerson as though he wished to dispose of the matter without the bother and ado of yesterday.

The judge smoothed over with a single sentence the discussion of District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson's treaty with Capone for leniency.

"As the cases are to be tried," he said, "the interests of justice require that there be no further comment upon the proposed recommendation or the arrangement that was attempted with reference to it."

Judge Wilkerson has expressed confidence in the Government attorneys, insisting only that Capone understand he can not bargain with the court. The ethics of the pretrial arrangement was brought in question by U. S. Senator Thomas D. Schall, of Minnesota, who communicated with Washington authorities asking an explanation.

District Attorney Praised.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, head of the Chicago Association of Commerce and its "Secret Six" crime committee, added his indorsement of District Attorney Johnson today, praising his "devoted public service," and asserting he acted with complete knowledge of the Attorney General.

In passing the prohibition indictment back to the grand jury for reconsideration, Judge Wilkerson expressed himself as unwilling to believe the general terms of the conspiracy charges were used without cause to make Capone appear a flagrant lawbreaker.

Clara Bow Stories Carry Fine, Prison

Los Angeles, Calif., July 31 (A.P.).—Frederick H. Girnau, weekly newspaper publisher, was sentenced in Federal court today to eight years in prison and fined $1,000 for sending obscene matter through the mails in connection with the publication of articles concerning Clara Bow, film actress.

On condition he refrain from publication of obscene matter, the court suspended the last three years and ten months of the sentence, making the actual prison term four years and two months.

United States District Judge Harry H. Holizer said he had "more respect for the highwayman than for one who assassinated the name or character of another." Girnau filed oral notice of appeal and bail was set at $10,000.

Chicago Opera Singer Divorced From Doctor

Chicago, July 31 (A.P.).—Cyrena Van Gordon Munns, prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera, was granted a divorce today from Dr. Shirley Bogart Munns, physician. Circuit Judge Philip L. Sullivan approved the decree on grounds of cruelty.

The soprano was married to Dr. Munns June 18, 1913. They separated June 20, 1931. She charged her husband struck her with his fist last January and attacked her again after a quarrel in their home a month ago.

Gunmen Shoot Three; Police Arm for Drive

Shotguns and Kill Orders Issued in New York Gangster Hunt.

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—The second gang shooting of the day and the third in a week blazed forth late today, at the hour when rapid-fire shotguns were being doled out to detectives for a city-wide war to the death on gunmen.

The gunplay, in which two men, one a passerby, were critically wounded, started a new reign of fear in the upper East Side zone where, on Tuesday night, racketeers shot five children at play, one of them fatally.

It occurred only four blocks from the scene of the children's tragedy, in 103d street near Third avenue and claimed as its victim, besides the innocent bystander an alleged Harlem "policy game" promoter.

Whether it was gangland's defiance to the latest police department order to "shoot on sight and fire above the waist" any racketeers detectives encountered at their work in the city, it had the effect of heightening the indignation throughout the city which followed upon the shooting of the children of Harlem's "Little Italy."

As in the previous cases the gunmen escaped. They outran police who sped to the scene from nearby posts in time to glimpse them as they fled.

EDWARD P. MULROONEY.

Both of the latest victims were near death in a hospital while scores of detectives sought vainly again to pierce the silence of the neighborhood.

One was Joseph Ganzola, 27, described by police as "Dogs," a "policy game" man. The other, who was passing within the firing range, was Frank Christofo, 24, a resident of the section.

This foreman Guido Ferreri, a clothing manufacturer, was slain when fourteen shotgun slugs were

$250,000,000 CREDIT FOR BRITAIN IS FIXED

Final Details to Be Agreed On in Paris Today; German Needs Taken Up.

Paris, July 31 (A.P.).—Le Matin said today that a credit of 45,000,000 to 50,000,000 pounds (about $225,000,000 to $250,000,000) has been arranged for the Bank of England.

The newspaper said that after a conference today between Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, and Sir Robert Kinderaley, a director of the Bank of England, M. Moret telephoned to New York to complete arrangements for the credit with the Federal Reserve Bank.

Representatives of the principal Paris banks that will participate in the credit have been summoned to meet at the Bank of France tomorrow morning, to be made acquainted with the definite stipulations of the contract.

It was believed that an official statement announcing the agreement would be issued shortly after the session of the Paris bankers.

Basel, Switzerland, July 31 (A.P.).—Formation of a committee of bankers by the Bank of International Settlements, which was invited by the London conference to inquire into Germany's immediate credit needs, was announced officially today.

Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National Bank, New York, is the American member of the committee, which will study the possibility of converting part of Germany's short-term loans into long-term loans.

Other members include:

Emile Moreau, president of the

3 Children, 2 Women Lose Lives in Creek

Covington, Ky., July 31 (A.P.).—Five persons, three children and two women, were drowned tonight when a 6-foot wall of water swept down Banklick Creek, 8 miles south of here, while they were bathing, and carried them away.

The dead:

Mrs. Iola Lucas, 27, and her two children, Ruth and James, 7-year-old twins; Mrs. Martha Miller, 31, and Mary Lou Harvey, 5. All lived in Latonia. The sudden flood was caused by rains farther up the creek.

COOLIDGE MAY RUN, DECLARES COUPAL

Willing to Be Drafted for Nomination in 1932, Friend Avers.

Special to The Washington Post.

St. Paul, Minn., July 31.—Calvin Coolidge did not mean to be taken too literally when he made his famous "I do not choose to run" statement a few months before the last presidential election. Furthermore, he is willing to be "drafted" for the nomination in 1932.

This significant information is contained in a St. Paul Dispatch copyrighted news story, published today, quoting Col. James F. Coupal, former White House physician. Col. Coupal is vacationing at Lake Minnetonka.

In making the statement which was generally interpreted to mean that he did not care to be returned to office, President Coolidge merely wished, according to Col. Coupal, to cast aside any possible advantage his high position might afford and allow the country to choose another Chief Executive if they desired.

The story continues, quoting Col. Coupal:

"President Coolidge would have loved to be the first third-term President of the United States. He was not disgusted with political office, as some have intimated. He leaned over backward to be just and fair and wanted the decision to come from the people.

"President Coolidge was hurt and disappointed, but having been misunderstood he felt that possibly there was a stronger man and refused to correct the misinterpretation."

"Mr. Coolidge will run for President in 1932 if the people of this country evince an unmistakable and unquestionable desire to draft him to pull the country out of this period of depression and if he can have the Presidency without any political or other obligations attached to it," the Dispatch quoted Col. Coupal as saying.

'Fatty' Arbuckle Plans To Wed After Divorce

Millions Reported as Profits Of Two Men in Corn Corner

Coarser Grain Sent to 72 1-2 Cents Per Bushel in Shorts "Squeezing" as Wheat Drops to 48 Cents, Lowest in History of Chicago Board of Trade.

Chicago, July 31 (A.P.).—Corn for July delivery closed its market career on the Board of Trade today at the crest price of 72½ cents a bushel by reason of a squeezing of "shorts" during the last three days, while wheat dropped to levels lower than any ever before reached in the history of the exchange, even on the basis of the postwar inflated dollars.

Final sales of corn were 4½ cents a bushel higher than yesterday's close, and 15 cents higher than the opening prices of Wednesday, when it first became apparent that there was not enough corn outside the holdings of the "longs."

Wheat, for years the market leader, closed at 48 cents for the September option, or 3¼ cents cheaper than yesterday, while July wheat a fraction higher, or nearly 25 cents cheaper than corn. Nominally, wheat sells for approximately twice as much as the coarser grain, but during the last few years the tables have been turned, despite the holdings of more than 200,000,000 bushels by the Federal Farm Board supported agencies.

Farmers 35 years ago sought $1 a bushel for wheat and 50 cents for corn as ideal prices, but during the World War both were inflated to about three times these prices.

The unusual condition of the market in July corn was described as a "corner," credited in pit gossip to the dealings of Thomas M. Howell, well-known Chicago trader, and James P. Bickell, of Toronto, Canada.

Indications were that their foresight had netted at least $1,000,000 in profit at expense of short sellers. Officials of the board of trade explained that the rules prohibit a corner, which is the result of certain interests' holding a supply of a commodity greater than difference between the actual amount available for delivery and the amount sold by

HOOVER ORDERS DROUGHT, PEST RELIEF IN WEST

Areas in Six States Will Be Extended U. S. Aid After Survey.

$15,000,000 IS HELD AVAILABLE FOR HELP

(Associated Press.)

Drought and insect-ridden sections of the Northwest and Central States were told by President Hoover yesterday they would have the help of the Government in meeting the situation.

In a statement issued after he had left for his Rapidan Camp, Mr. Hoover said he had directed the Department of Agriculture to cooperate in meeting the problems caused by lack of rain and a plague of grasshoppers.

It is the second time within two years that drought in some section of the country has impelled Governmental assistance.

The President said the department was engaged in a resurvey in sections of Montana, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota.

$15,000,000 Held Available.

Presumably, necessary assistance will be given from the available residue of the $20,000,000 voted by Congress early this year for farm rehabilitation as a result of the drought which devastated portions of the Southern States. About $15,000,000 of this remains.

An apparently optimistic view of the situation was taken by Mr. Hoover. He said that the problem was minor compared with that of last year and added it would be taken care of.

The President said:

"I have directed officials of the Department of Agriculture to undertake, in cooperation with local and State authorities, such cooperation as may be necessary to meet the situation created by local drought and grasshopper destruction in the Northwestern and Central States.

Six States Affected.

"The department is engaged in a resurvey in the light of the changes in the last two weeks. The area affected embraces certain counties in Montana, North and South Dakota, and local sections of Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota.

"While suffering within the areas affected is acute, the extent of the drought and damage is comparatively minor to that which we confronted and surmounted last year. The Federal Government has already extended assistance in some portions of those localities and the Red Cross is actively engaged in relief work.

"Secretary Hyde is in touch with the situation.

"National and local resources are available and the problem will be taken care of."

The survey, under direction of extension directors in the States mentioned, may be completed within a week or ten days. Its findings will be the basis for further action.

Rains May Save Pastures.

An encouraging factor yesterday was report of rain in sections of North Dakota, Montana and South Dakota. Pastures may be renewed for the summer if rains continue, although some aid probably would be needed in the fall and winter.

Relief loans from Government funds have been made in North Dakota and Montana and a decision on requests from South Dakota may come soon. The loans outstanding.

Machado Planning Trip During Vote

Rumored Vacation Would Be Made to Prove That Elections Are Fair.

Havana, July 31 (A.P.).—The Associated Press was informed today from a reliable source that President Machado was planning to take a "vacation" of several months during the 1932 election period if constitutional reforms which provide for elections next year instead of in 1934 are approved by Congress.

The president, according to this source, is planning to go abroad while the elections are being held. This trip would fulfill the desires of several opposition leaders, including former President Mario G. Menocal and Miguel Mariano Gomez, former mayor of Havana, who not long ago asserted "elections supervised by President Machado could not be fairly held."

The president would go, according to the information, "to give the people of Cuba no grounds for suspicion that the elections might be fraudulent, or that he would try to use his influence in picking his successor."

France Offers $39,000 For New Distance Mark

Paris, July 31 (U.P.).—The ministry of air announced today prizes totaling about $39,000 for any French aviator who could recapture the world's straightline distance record broken yesterday by the American team of Boardman and Polando.

Joseph Lebrix, former flying partner of Dieudonne Coste, was scheduled to attempt a record flight before winter and Coste probably will try to regain the mark when his plane has been altered.

REICH AID MAY TAKE U. S. WHEAT, COTTON

(Associated Press.)

It has been suggested to President Hoover that the American Government might help Germany further and directly by selling some of the Farm Board's wheat and cotton stocks to that country on liberal terms and at reasonable prices.

This became known last night when the attention of administration officials was called to newspaper reports in Germany that such a plan was under consideration there.

The suggestion was advanced by Ambassador Sackett during the first moratorium negotiations. President Hoover, however, has felt the first move in this direction should be made by Germany and for that reason, it was said, has not officially mentioned the proposal to the Farm Board.

Such a step, some traders have said, might relieve apprehension that the Farm Board would unload its wheat and cotton stabilization holdings on the American market. The board now has about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat and 1,300,000 bales of 1929 cotton.

When the Farm Board agreed on June 30 to hold its sales of stabilization wheat during the new crop year to a cumulative maximum of 5,000,000 bushels a month its announcement of the policy added:

"This limitation, however, shall not apply to sales to foreign governments or their agencies now being considered."

That statement never was officially amplified, but it came less than a week after President Hoover announced his war debt-reparations moratorium proposal.

The Farm Board's pledge to withhold its 1929 cotton from the domestic market expired at midnight last night. A decision on how the 1931-32 crop would be handled probably will not be made for a few days.

Both the cotton and wheat holdings were purchased at considerably higher prices than the commodities now bring on the markets.

Automobile Hurts Of Woman Probed

Mrs. Sparks Is Alleged to Have Been Hit After Being Gagged.

District and Prince Georges County police are investigating the injury of Mrs. Ann Noble Sparks, 40, of 1101 Clifton street northwest, who was brought into Sibley Hospital early today from Lanham, Md., on the Defense Highway, 3 miles from Bladensburg. She is in serious condition with fractures of an arm and a leg and a possible skull fracture.

Claude Reese, county policeman, said that the woman was thrown from one car into the path of another, which struck her. She is said to have had a gag in her mouth. Police said they were balked in their efforts to learn the circumstances of Mrs. Sparks' injuries by her failure to say whom she was with or give any other details.

Mrs. Sparks, who is listed in the city directory as a stenographer for an insurance company, was brought to the hospital by a motorist, whose name was not obtained. He said simply that he picked her up where she lay on the highway.

10 Jurors Are Chosen To Try Col. Luke Lea

Asheville, N. C., July 31 (A.P.).—After definitely selecting ten jurors for the trial of Col. Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher, and three others on charges of conspiring to defraud the Central Bank & Trust Co., Asheville, of approximately $1,300,000 Buncombe County Superior Court adjourned late today until tomorrow morning.

English Woman Flier Forced Down in Siberia

Moscow, July 31 (A.P.).—A special dispatch to the Tass Agency says Amy Johnson, British woman flier, made a forced landing tonight near the small village of Diyazelnsk, 20 miles from Marinsk, Siberia.

She was flying from Omsk toward Krasnoyarsk, en route from England to Tokyo. The report said she landed at 7 p. m. (11 a. m. E. S. T.).

ARGENTINE OFFICE OF AMTORG RAIDED

The organization is headed here by Boris Kraevsky. Four large trucks conveyed to the police station 150 persons, reported to include 15 women, who were arrested.

The local Amtorg offices occupied part of two floors in a large office building on the Avenida Mayo, where hundreds gathered to watch the prisoners emerge.

The crowd grew so large it blocked traffic. Police took charge of a motorbus and after discharging the passengers used it to transport prisoners.

Simultaneous with the raid, which was directed by the subprefect, Dr. David Uriburu, additional police vans left for other destinations. It was reported other raids would be undertaken, following various reports of Communist plotting of a revolutionary character.

West Coast Steamer Runs Aground in Fog

The Prince David was en route from Victoria to Seattle. The steamer is in no immediate danger, and it is not believed she is badly damaged. The vessel struck at low water.

ISTANBUL HOP STIRS MOFFETT WARNING

(Associated Press.)

Proof that American cities could be bombed by attacking planes from Europe was seen yesterday by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett in the nonstop flight of Russell Boardman and John Polando from New York to Turkey.

The chief of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics pictured the possibility of similar planes carrying only one man with a bomb or two instead of the other passenger flying the Atlantic to attack New York and other major cities.

"As a result of this flight, America suddenly wakes up to the fact that it is within bombing distance of Europe," said Admiral Moffett, who had maintained previously that planes capable of attacking the United States coast would have to be based on airplane carriers part of the way across the ocean.

He added that a phenomenal development of aviation efficiency culminating in the record flight to Turkey has entirely changed the situation.

"At the time of Lindbergh's flight to Paris," he said, "the impression prevailed that a plane could not fly more than 3,000 miles and carry anything.

"Now we have a plane flying 2,000 miles more than that and carrying two men.

"In time of war a 150-pound bomb could be carried instead of one of the men or perhaps two bombs could be accommodated.

"It would be quite disconcerting to have foreign planes dropping bombs in Wall street.

"I am not trying to start a war. I am just calling attention to facts to give people something to think about.

"Perhaps now we have some idea how they feel in Europe, where territory no farther away than Baltimore is from Washington may be a foreign land."

Liquor Agents Beaten, Comrades Start Drive

Detroit, Mich., July 31 (A.P.).—Two Federal prohibition agents were beaten and kidnaped while investigating suspected liquor violations in suburban Wyandotte this morning, and before nightfall twenty agents were engaged in a counteroffensive which netted four stills and two prisoners.

Fire Hose Halts Strikers Storming California Jail

Police, Barricaded Inside, Hurl Gas Bombs in Vain as Cannery Workers, Half Women, Attempt to Liberate All Workers.

San Jose, Calif., July 31 (U.P.).—Tear gas bombs, police clubs and powerful streams of water were used today to repel 1,500 striking cannery workers, half women, who stormed the city jail in an attempt to liberate all prisoners.

The strikers assembled at St. James Park, in the center of the business district. Police interfered when a woman speaker called on them to march on the city hall and jail.

Policemen swung their clubs and exploded several tear gas bombs, but they were far outnumbered. The strikers marched four blocks through the center of the city, driving the police before them.

The officers barricaded themselves in the jail and city hall and tossed more tear gas bombs from the windows. Firemen finally were called and the strikers were forced back with streams of water from high pressure hydrants.

Estimates of the number who have walked out of the three canning plants here have varied from 700 to 1,800.

The strike was called Wednesday night by the Agricultural and Cannery Workers Union, recently formed and not associated with the American Federation of Labor.

The canneries have been employing 4,000 workers, a majority of them women and high school girls, at 30 cents an hour. Last year they paid 40 cents an hour and the strikers are seeking to reestablish that wage.

There were several minor disturbances yesterday, due primarily to the fact that only about 50 per cent of the workers obeyed the strike order.

Two of the plants affected are of the California Packing Corporation. The other is that of the Richmond-Chase Co.

WORLD FLIERS ARE TEN HOURS BEHIND RECORD

TAKE AIR AT MOSCOW CONFIDENT OF MARK

Next Landing Is Irkutsk, in Siberia, 3,000 Miles Away.

LINDBERGHS HOP OFF AGAIN AT NOON TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Outstanding events in aviation yesterday were:

Pangborn and Herndon were flying toward Irkutsk, Siberia, from Moscow, which they left practically ten hours behind the schedule of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

The Lindberghs are in Ottaway, hoping to get away by noon for Moose Factory on their leisurely vacation flight to the Orient.

Boardman and Polando were still receiving the plaudits of Istanbul, where they landed Thursday without stop from New York and established a new distance record.

Unfavorable weather was holding the giant DO-X at Rio de Janeiro, but it was hoped to take off for the United States by Monday.

Pangborn, Herndon Leave Moscow.

Expressing confidence they could reach New York in four days, barring accidents or unfavorable weather, they planned to make their destination in four jumps, the last of which would be nonstop from Nome to New York.

"Sure we can make it if we get any kind of break," said Herndon. "We'll make fewer and shorter stops and so make up the difference in speed. Our ship is slower than the one Post and Gatty used."

As they roared out of Moscow their next scheduled stop was Irkutsk, some 3,000 miles away in the middle of Siberia. Their route lay over the Trans-Ural Mountains, following roughly the Trans-Siberian Railway and almost the same course taken by their predecessors

Make Up Some Lost Time.

From Irkutsk they expect to fly to Kharbarovsk, thence to Nome across the Sea of Okhotsk and the Bering Sea.

They made up some of their lost time by remaining in Moscow only a little more than five hours today. Post and Gatty stayed longer.

They got in from Berlin before noon, had luncheon with officials of the Soviet Civil Aviation Society who acted as their hosts refueled and got away.

Both of them bought Russian blouses, Siberian skull caps and good luck charms as souvenirs of their visit.

They had excellent flying weather from Berlin and at the take-off good conditions were expected for most of the way to Irkutsk. They looked tired, but both insisted that they never felt better in their lives.

One advantage they have over Post and Gatty, they agreed, is that they can "spell" each other at the controls. Post piloted all the way on the previous flight while Gatty acted as navigator.

Arriving here from Berlin at 11:52 a. m. (3:52 a. m. Eastern standard time), some 70 hours from New York, Pangborn and Herndon were almost seventeen hours behind the time Post and Gatty took to Moscow, but gained about six hours by remaining here only a little more than five hours.

Equipped With Large Wheels.

Mindful of the sixteen-hour delay Post and Gatty suffered at Blagoveschensk, when their plane was bogged in a mudhole in landing, the airmen hoped to profit there also. They not only planned to miss Blagoveschenak altogether, but had equipped their single-motored monoplane with oversize wheels to avoid just such a mishap.

The fliers faced light headwinds, but exceptionally favorable weather for the first stages of their flight from Moscow. They hopped off at 5:20 p. m. (9:20 a. m. Eastern standard time), after having been guests of honor at a luncheon given them by civil aviation officials, who greeted them cordially and arranged for fuel and other facilities along the route.

The fliers took on 525 gallons of gasoline here and, despite the heavy load, requiring a run the length of the field, made an excellent take-off as three Soviet military planes flew in formation overhead.

With one sleeping on a padded gasoline tank while the other was piloting, the fliers expected to have 30 hours of continuous flying to Irkutsk, averaging approximately 100 miles an hour.

At the luncheon here, Pangborn displayed a rabbit's foot which he carries as a charm. Herndon then brought one forth, saying, "I didn't know you had one, too."

Along with packages of food and cigarettes, Soviet aviation authorities presented both with small stone rabbits as remembrances.

Polando, Boardman Rested.

Istanbul, Turkey, July 31 (A.P.).—Rested, well fed and happy, John Polando and Russell Boardman basked in the adulation of Turkey today and began to look around for more worlds to conquer.

Finding nothing quite so hazardous and daring as their flight from New York to Istanbul—approximately 5,000 miles—which apparently established a nonstop record, they were somewhat undecided as to plans.

But they were considering a homeward flight with stops over India to Tokyo and across the Pacific Ocean or the Bering Sea.

As Polando put it, "We have crossed the Atlantic, now the Pacific doesn't look so tough."

If the eastward route is adopted it is expected they again will take wing within a few days.

President Mustapha Kemal Pasha telegraphed to the Turkish Aviation League today to prepare two special medals, which the Gazi will present to the fliers when they go to Yalova, probably tomorrow, to be received in state.

Meanwhile they were feasted almost to the saturation point.

"If this continues much longer we will be so heavy old Cape Cod (their plane) never will get off the ground," remarked one of the fliers.

But at that they were enjoying themselves hugely. They said they would have many regrets at telling Turkey farewell.

The two Americans had the key that opened the City of Istanbul in their pockets today. They climbed out of bed after sixteen hours of solid sleep to find their hotel surrounded by a large and cheering populace.

Drink American Coffee.

The most pleasing surprise, however, was a percolator filled with steaming American coffee, which a Turkish girl, Fazile Shevket Hanim, niece of Bedi Bey, counselor to the Turkish Embassy at Washington, had especially prepared for them.

What they did to the coffee with a large breakfast, also American style, was easily imagined, for they were so tired last night after their arrival they ate no dinner.

The pair had no clothes except those they arrived in and had to borrow pajamas from the American Embassy, as Lindbergh did in Paris. Today they were outfitted with new suits and shoes, taking the only two pairs of American footwear in their size in Istanbul.

They sat for a pencil sketch by a young Turkish artist, Halid Bey, then made a sightseeing tour of the city.

Few high officials or diplomats ever caused so much excitement and interest in Istanbul as the Americans. Everybody in the city apparently was demanding to see them and shake their hands.

Business at the American Embassy virtually was suspended, with attaches and clerks spending all their time answering the stack of cabled communications from various parts of the world.

Boardman's family cabled to him to call them by radio phone, but there is no such thing thus far in Turkey.

Busy Day Ahead.

Boardman and Polando have a busy day scheduled for tomorrow. Besides meeting President Mustapha Kemal and receiving the medals, they are to call on the Governor of Istanbul, the military commander and the president of the Turkish Aviation League.

The medals they will receive are of gold, encrusted with precious stones.

The pair declined invitations to dinner tonight, dining alone instead, and going to bed for further rest.

They may leave Tuesday or Wednesday, although they still were uncertain of the time or route.

"A round-the-world flight is unlikely," Boardman said, "but still I should like to see some of the cities to the east, especially Calcutta. A return to London, stopping off at one or two cities, is likely, although we yet are undecided."

(Associated Press.)

The nonstop flight of Russell Boardman and John Polando from New York to Istanbul was seen yesterday by David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, as a tribute to American planes and engines as well as to the fliers' ability.

"Aside from the question of physical endurance," Ingalls said, "Boardman and Polando have demonstrated the reliability of American planes and American-built engines."

Colored Woman in Race For Post in Arlington

There appearing to be no end of candidates for the five seats on the Arlington County Board, which on January 1, 1932, replaces the present board of supervisors, was evident yesterday when Mary B. Harris, colored, of Nauck, Arlington County, filed her intentions with the county clerk to become a candidate at the election in November.

This makes a total of 34 persons seeking an office to which five are to be elected. Indications are that the total number of candidates will exceed 40.

LINDBERGHS STUDY CHARTS OF CANADA

Confer With Fliers and Plan to Continue Flight to Orient Today.

Ottawa, July 31 (A.P.).—The Lindberghs studied maps today and conferred with Canadian fliers preparatory to hopping off tomorrow across the bad lands of the Northwest on their vacation flight to the Orient.

"If weather conditions lend themselves to our plans," Col. Charles A. Lindbergh told newspapermen, "we will hop off by tomorrow noon for Moose Factory. If meteorological reports are not fair, the next day will do as well for departure."

Col. Lindbergh met reporters in the United States chancery office with Hanford MacNider, American Minister to Canada, with whom he and Mrs. Lindbergh are staying while in Ottawa.

Discounts Hazards of Trip.

Col. Lindbergh smiled broadly when told some aviators versed in subarctic conditions believed his flight unnecessarily hazardous due to the northern path he had chosen. He said adverse weather seemed to him to form the old hazard and that was negligible, as he and Mrs. Lindbergh are not traveling on any set schedule and if storm or fog is encountered can just stay on the ground and wait it out.

The Lindberghs arrived here yesterday from North Haven, Me., where they had flown from Washington to bid farewell to their baby and Mrs. Lindbergh's parents.

After they leave here they plan to keep in communication with the world by means of their powerful radio, which is operated by Mrs. Lindbergh. Should they get out of range of their home station at New York they still could be picked up by local stations or amateurs, who could give out their messages for publication.

The call letters of their plane are KHCAL and it is operated on frequencies of 333, 500, 3,130, 5,615, 8,450 and 13,240 kilocycles.

Learns Great Deal.

Col. Lindbergh said today the flight to Ottawa had been more than worth while, for from air and radio officials of the Canadian government he had learned a great deal that would prove of value in flying over the dominion's northern stretches to Aklavik.

The flying colonel said he could not venture a guess as to how long it might take to reach their ultimate goal—Tokyo. Neither was he able to say how they would make the return trip to the United States.

They were guests of honor today in the gallery of the House of Commons as the debate of the activities of the Beauharnois Power Co. opened. Col. Hanford MacNider and Mrs. MacNider, were with the Lindberghs.

Chicago Barber Loses Ruling on Extradition

Chicago, July 31 (A.P.).—Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry refused today to issue a writ of habeas corpus on petition of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, holding that the United States Supreme Court had ruled extradition to England proper in a similar case.

Factor is wanted for trial in London on a charge involving the alleged swindling of English investors of more than $5,000,000 in fraudulent stock manipulation and sales.

Chinese Rebels Halted By Manchurian Troops

Shanghai, July 31 (A.P.).—Heavily reinforced Manchurian troops of the Nationalist government turned the tide of battle today and halted the march of rebel troops northward toward Peiping and Tientsin.

The troops, which arrived by train from Peiping, stopped yesterday's retreat of 50,000 comrades and charged forward, recovering positions lost north of Paoting, Chihli province.

Gen. Shih Yu-San, rebel commander, however, rushed more troops into Paoting and the battle may rage several days before it is decided.

CAPONE IS GRANTED RIGHT TO SHIFT PLEA

the 5,000 specific offenses it alleges, while Michael Ahern, of the defense, regarded the ruling as favorable to Capone and requiring the Government to prove each offense separately.

(Associated Press.)

After consistently declining to answer all questions concerning the unexpected turn in the case against Al Capone in Chicago, Attorney General Mitchell yesterday left the Capital, to be gone until Monday.

Officials at the Justice Department said his destination had not been announced.

The Attorney General's departure left locked in the department a statement of commendation to Chicago officials and others who had worked upon the case against Capone. It was to have been made public after the Chicago gangster was sentenced.

Officials declined to comment upon reports that an agreement had been reached between Federal officials and attorneys for the defense prior to the withdrawal of Capone's plea of guilty, under which the gangster would be sent to prison for 2½ years.

Another Grand Jury.

Judge Wilkerson's ruling said, "The matters covered by that (liquor conspiracy) indictment should be presented to another grand jury. In the enumeration of overt acts the defendant and others are charged with substantial offenses * * * for which a heavier penalty is provided than that possible under the conspiracy indictment. The court will not believe unless forced to do so that the language of this indictment was chosen, without probable cause, merely for the purpose of creating the impression that this defendant had been a flagrant lawbreaker over a long period of time. This is a matter which must be inquired into fully."

If the trials go forward as scheduled, late September will bring exposure in detail of the operations of the Capone liquor syndicates over the Middle-West since 1924, as well as the trail, step by step, of his million dollar income from 1924 to 1929.

Annual Excursion Planned.

The Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department announces it will hold its annual excursion to Marshall Hall Saturday, August 15.

Lindbergh Refuses Bid To Join War on Dry Act

New York, July 31 (U.P.).—J. Goodwin Hall, New York broker who is seeking through speed and distance flights to attract attention to the campaign of the "crusaders" against prohibition, said today that while in Ottawa, Ontario, yesterday he invited Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to join the movement.

"I wouldn't even discuss it," Lindbergh told him.

2 RECEIVERS LEAVE PROTECTIVE GROUP

Peyser and Tumulty Resign From Bondholders' Body of Wardman.

Two members of the bondholders' protective committee for first and refunding mortgage bonds of the Wardman Real Estate Properties, who are also receivers for property and assets of the Wardman Co., resigned from the committee yesterday. They are Maj. Julius I. Peyser and Joseph P. Tumulty.

Maj. Peyser, in a letter to Leonard L. Stanley, of New York, chairman of the committee, said he was resigning because of his appointment as a receiver for the property.

"Since my appointment," he wrote, "certain proceedings have taken place in the District Supreme Court which indicate or foreshadow possible conflicting plans of reorganization, and as indicated by the decisions of the Federal courts, it is appropriate that I should now resign from membership on the committee."

An attempt was made in the District Supreme Court this week to have Maj. Peyser, Mr. Tumulty and Thomas Carson discharged as receivers. The attempt was made by Attorney Leslie Shaw, who charged that the protective committee was dominated by Halsey, Stuart & Co., who refinanced the Wardman properties.

Mr. Shaw did not charge that Maj. Peyser or Mr. Tumulty were dominated by Halsey, Stuart & Co., but said the bondholders' interests were jeopardized by their continuing both as members of the protective committee and as receivers.

Orientals' Influx By Quota Is Urged

Chamber Board Will Hear Plea, Which May Go to Congress.

(United Press.)

A proposal by business men that Japanese and other Orientals be admitted to the United States under quota immigration restrictions instead of being totally excluded was made public yesterday by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The recommendation, made by the chamber's immigration committee, will be placed before the board of directors, and recommended to Congress if the board approves it.

Pacific coast businessmen first proposed this action, which would admit only a small number, in order to eliminate the discrimination of the present law against Japanese, Chinese, and other orientals ineligible to citizenship as compared with European immigrants.

Hoover Guard Member Is Transferred North

Walter G. Ferguson, who since 1917 has been a member of the White House secret service detail, will leave his duties there August 15 to become chief of the Providence (R. I.) district of the service. He was appointed from Quincy, Mass., during President Wilson's administration.

The transfer, which follows closely on the recent investigation of "personal president news leaks," has no connection with that inquiry, according to Government officials. A similar denial was made two weks ago, when another veteran of the mansion detail was transferred.

Pastor's Slander Suit Is Dismissed

Bishop Mouzon Has Case Thrown Out of Court on Demurrer.

Asheville, N. C., July 31 (A.P.).—Federal Judge E. Yates Webb today sustained Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon's demurrer to a $50,000 libel and slander suit filed against him by the Rev. Rembert G. Smith, of Sparta, Ga., and dismissed the case.

Bishop Mouzon, a leader in the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church, was charged with making derogatory remarks respecting the Rev. Mr. Smith's church activities.

Counsel for Bishop Mouzon admitted today that the statements were made, but argued they were not libelous nor slanderous and Judge Webb sustained them. Mr. Smith was not represented by counsel today. Court attaches said he can appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, but no notice of appeal was filed today.

DISARMAMENT HELD AS DANGER TO PEACE

Institute of Politics Hears Speakers Paint Menace of Cuts in Arms.

Williamstown, Mass., July 31 (A. P.).—War instead of peace, said Frank H. Simonds today, might be the result of disarmament in the present stage of world affairs.

Mr. Simonds, well-known writer on political and economic subjects, was addressing the general conference on disarmament at the Institute of Politics. It was the first sitting of group sessions at the institute.

Armaments, Mr. Simonds said, have nothing whatever to do with the present situation between France and Germany, where two great peoples are at odds "over issues which to them spell life and death." Disarmament or reduction of armaments which would equalize the fighting force of the nations might precipitate war," he said.

Another speaker at the disarmament conference was Norman Thomas, director of the League for Industrial Democracy and Socialist presidential candidate in 1928. He also stressed the futility and danger of disarmament as a sole and sufficient means of peace.

Opening the disarmament conference discussions, Chairman James C. McDonald emphasized the importance and difficulties of the forthcoming disarmament conference. If the conference fails to secure "reduction of the present crushing armament burden," the world's efforts to build up an adequate peace machinery "will be retarded perhaps for a generation." He said "none the less, today the prospects for the first real disarmament conference in Geneva next February are not encouraging. Now failure seems more likely than success. The recent elaboration of the French program discloses how difficult her terms of acceptance will be. Great Britain and the United States, particularly the latter, are completely unwilling to give the guarantees demanded by the Quai d'Orsay," Mr. McDonald said.

Mr. Simonds visualized postwar chaos as a conflict between 200,000,000 people arising from peace treaty settlements.

Farm Board Declines Cotton Meeting Part

(Associated Press.)

The Farm Board has declined to send a representative to the conference of governors of cotton States, called by Gov. Sterling, of Texas, to consider methods for reducing cotton acreage.

Chairman Stone wired Gov. Sterling Thursday night the board's position, but declined to make public the telegram yesterday. The conference is to be held Tuesday at Austin, Tex.

Berlin, July 31 (A.P.).—The broad outlines of the government's offensive against the more acute problems of Germany's economic crisis began to emerge today.

It was announced that the Darmstaedter und National Bank, which recently collapsed, would be put back on a normal basis through the cooperation of the government and the heavy business interests of the Rhine and Ruhr Valleys.

It was disclosed also that the government was planning to participate in the Dresdner Bank to forestall a run on that institution.

MILLIONS REPORTED MADE IN CORN DEALS

shorts. At the end of the month, when all deliveries must be completed, the shorts must buy from the interests holding the grain.

Chicago, July 31 (U.P.).—The bears sank July wheat to a new record low of 48 cents a bushel today, while a solitary bull, believed to be Thomas M. Howell, sent July corn on a sensational rise.

Howell, man of mystery, was reported to have made millions in bringing the price of corn up 18 cents in two weeks on the Chicago Board of Trade.

The wheat traders apparently were so engrossed in the acrobatics on the corn pit during the last few sessions that they failed to realize how close the final trades in July contracts were approaching until the final 15 minutes of today's session.

Wheat's Low Record.

Holders of July wheat awoke suddenly to learn that September wheat had just set a new all-time record low price of 50 cents a bushel and that July had gone down to 48, the lowest price ever recorded in the 83 years that wheat futures have been traded in here.

Across the great, oak-lined trading room the corn pit found the single bull, apparently Howell, chasing all the bears to cover. July corn dashed wildly up more than 4 cents to close at 72½ cents a bushel. Corn thus cost nearly a quarter of a dollar more per bushel than wheat.

The stories in the brokerage offices are that Howell then bought more than 10,000,000 bushels, dumping some of it back on the market at 72½ and holding the rest while the bears scurried about trying to cover their commitments.

Fan Cuts Worker's Hand.

John W. A. Carroll, 73, of 1427 Foxhall road, suffered lacerations of the hand yesterday afternoon while working at the Potomac Electric Power building at Tenth and E streets northwest, when he fell from a ladder and was caught in an electric fan. He was removed to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Europe May Find Solace As Orient Sets Its Stage

By JOHN J. DALY

ALL quiet on the western front, not a peep out of Germany. The eyes of the world are now directed to the Far East.

Japan and China are about to stage shows of their own, over in the Orient. So says a congressional sojourner back from the Land of the Mikado.

The world is a theater, and life itself a continuous show. Plenty of action; there are as many acts as a vaudeville, with as much variety, as many rings as a circus; and there is something doing every blessed moment, as in a hippodrome.

That the orientals are getting ready to take the stage means a breathing spell for Europe, all worn out with conferences.

The representative bringing this advance notice of a stellar attraction appears like a press agent ahead of the shows, the Big Top. Step up to the red wagon and get your tickets. This way to the Big Show! Pretty soon you'll hear the ringmaster, mounted on the rostrum, announcing the next act: "Ladeez and jumpmen! The greatest show on earth presents for your approval the most marvelous act of its kind in all the world, the Japanese government walking the tight rope, and in the third ring, ladeez and jumpmen, the celebrated magicians of China turning four hundred million haythens from yellow to red!"

* * * *

ROLL of drums, and the acts are on the stage—in the hundred-ring circus of life.

There is only one way to get into the world—the greatest show on earth—and you may or may not have a reserved seat, but wherever you sit you see aplenty in this age.

Col. Lindbergh and his flying partner, in Maine one afternoon, are that night in Ottawa, winging their way toward the Orient, where all this trouble is brewing; where Japan and China, the serene ancients, are preparing for their places in the limelight.

It seems that Communism is stalking among the Chinese. More than 2,000,000 of the most peaceful people on earth—followers of the great teachers, Confucius and Lao-tse—are taking up arms. The coolies are parading under the red banner, the merchants are taking to the woods, and Hamilton Fish won't have a night's sleep during the dog days.

By the time the Lindberghs arrive at their destination, where the dawn comes up like thunder, there should be plenty of news out of the Orient, aside from the story of the flight, if what the observing representative says is true. When the colonel and his lady park their plane in China, or Japan, there'll be a big job for the Good Will Ambassador.

* * * *

LIFE depends very much upon the discretions and indiscretions of others. So, if Japan and China are getting ready to attract the attention of the world, it will be a show worth watching. The Chinese are master magicians. The Japanese are splendid showmen.

No truth to the saying that half the world does not know how the other half lives. The two halves make a double life.

The world moves fast, but the world keeps up with the world. All the world knows how the other half is getting away with it.

The stage manager of the Greatest Show on Earth shifts many scenes.

A New York newspaper printed today is dropped tomorrow forenoon in Paris, from an airplane; and the late extras of London afternoon editions will soon be read at breakfast tables in Washington.

Naturally, it makes for great confusion, especially in a time anticipated by Keats, 100 years ago, when in an "Ode to a Nightingale" he wrote: "The fever, and the fret, here where men sit and hear each other groan."

They are groaning, but it comes from growing pains. Withal, 'tis the only life we have; a fast one, a furious one, and sometimes a disconcerting one—as, for instance, this news from the Orient—but it is always a show.

NEW YORK GANGSTERS SHOOT 3 AS POLICE ARM FOR DRIVE

sent into his body by three men who drove past his Brooklyn home, where he stood talking to a friend.

The second shooting of the day caused only a speeding up of the plans of Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney and Mayor James J. Walker for harsh measures against racketeers.

Detectives Given Shotguns.

As fast as detectives could be equipped with repeating shotguns at headquarters they were sent out to patrol the city's streets all night and until the order is rescinded. They will work in relays, continuously riding about town on the lookout for "wanted" men and ready to open fire at the first signs of resistance to arrest, while hundreds of others will seek suspects in questionable resorts.

Meanwhile also, scores of newly assigned detectives went through the upper East Side trying to pry loose from the almost hysterical Sicilians any kind of information that would give them a lead to work on in their pursuit of the two bands of gunmen concerned in Tuesday's and today's affrays.

Tonight an excited crowd of nearly 5,000 residents of the 103d and 107th street areas gathered around the scene of the latest warfare and at the home of Christofo. Police reserves were called on to hold them in order, but there appeared no disposition toward violence.

District Mourns Child.

The whole district was in mourning for Michael Veneghallo, the slain youngster, and thousands of neighbors of the congested section visited the squalid home bearing flowers and bringing low-spoken words of sympathy to the parents. The child's funeral will be tomorrow and police have arranged for special measures to guard the neighborhood during its progress.

It was nearing 5 o'clock this evening when Gazzola turned into East 103d street from Second avenue in a bright yellow roadster when four men darted at him from the curb. He apparently saw them, for he stepped on the gas, but was too late.

One of the quartet drew a revolver and leaped on the running board, firing as he ran. Four bullets found their mark, two hitting Gazzola in the neck, one in the chest and one in the left shoulder.

The other three gunmen, running in the street, fired wildly at the car. Terror seized dozens of children playing in a public school yard. Others who thronged the busy sidewalk huddled against walls of tenements, too frightened to move.

Young Robber Is Shot.

The first of New York's police to act on Commissioner Mulrooney's order was Patrolman Joseph A. McFarland, who tonight seriously wounded one of three young men whom he sought for holding up a cordial shop.

Anthony Rizzi, 19, was shot through his right lung by McFarland as he and two companions left a cordial shop in Lexington avenue. McFarland seized Rizzi's gun, shot him and left him lying on the sidewalk while he pursued and caught Anthony Massaro, 19, two blocks away.

Police said they knew the identity of the third man and would arrest him shortly.

Commissioner Mulrooney hurried to the precinct station where McFarland made his report and congratulated him.

Two Latvian Cities Pay Honors to Washington

The George Washington Bicentennial Commission was notified yesterday that two towns, including the capital of Latvia, have renamed squares in honor of Washington.

In Riga, the capital, Hanza square has become Washington square. In Jelgava, Sluzu square has become Washington square and Damda street will henceforth be known as Washington street, in honor of the coming bicentennial celebration of George Washington's birth.

Dancers and Band Give Sylvan Fete

Colored Teacher Delegates Are Guesst at Festival on Monument Grounds.

Continuing the summer festival series sponsored by the Community Center Department and the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, the Community Center Band and the Mabel Jones Freeman dancers, local colored group, were featured in a performance at the Sylvan Theater on the Monument Grounds last night.

The visiting delegates to the convention of the National Association of Teachers for Colored Schools, now in session in Washington, were guests of honor at the performance, when a delightful program of dances and music was given by the two organizations.

The band was under the direction of James Miller, and used as principal numbers the march, "General Lejeune," by Taylor Branson; "Waltzen," by Lincke; "Atlantis," by Safranek, and "Light Cavalry," an overture by Suppe, concluding with "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Sousa.

Californian Acquitted Of Slaying Girl, 22

San Diego, Calif., July 31 (A.P.).—Moss Edward Garrison, 37, accused of the murder of his sweetheart, Hazel Bradshaw, was acquitted by a jury of nine men and three women late today.

The body of Miss Bradshaw, who was 22, was found with 17 knife wounds in the artificial Indian village in Balboa Park May 3. The jury deliberated less than two hours and "not guilty" was the unanimous vote on the first ballot.

Overeating Makes Starving Boy Ill

New Orleans Hitch-Hiker Collapses Third Time in Hospital Here.

Hunger twice overcame Robert Postell, 16-year-old hitch-hiker from New Orleans, yesterday, and last night he was in a hospital in a state of collapse because he had eaten too much.

The boy told police he had eaten his last good meal in Greensboro, N. C., the last jump of his hitch-hike to Washington. He was picked up after he collapsed on Fourteenth street, between G and H streets, by Policeman Hendrick Boese. The policeman gave him a breakfast of coffee and orange juice and took him to the First Precinct Station, where he collapsed again while waiting to be taken to Gallinger Hospital.

At the hospital he was found to be suffering acutely from hunger and was given liquid food.

HENDERSON ESTATE COLLECTOR URGED

Harry A. Seay, Secretary to Senator, Asks Court for Appointment.

Claiming an intimate knowledge of the late Mrs. John B. Henderson's affairs, Harry A. Seay, secretary to her late husband, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to appoint him collector for the $6,000,000 Henderson estate.

Making the initial move in what promises to be an extended legal battle, Mr. Seay, a residuary legatee and executor under one of the wealthy dowager's half dozen last testaments, contended a collector is necessary to conserve the income from her vast holdings.

Register of Wills Theodore Cogswell said no action can be taken on his petition by the court until notice has been served on all interested parties. It was indicated that executors under all of the other wills and codicils will be notified before the matter is presented to the court.

In support of his candidacy, Mr. Seay said that for more than twenty years he has been concerned in the management of Mrs. Henderson's affairs. He predicted a drawn-out contest before any of the wills are probated.

The Seay petition made a significant omission in listing the "only heirs at law and next of kin" as Henry Arnold, of New York, her nephew, and Frances Arnold, her niece. Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean, her foster granddaughter, was not mentioned.

Mr. Seay said her real estate holdings alone have an assessed value of $3,000,000 and that stocks and other property are estimated at the same figure.

Mr. Seay claimed to be a large creditor of the Henderson estate. He pointed out that under the will of November 17, 1930, he was named executor and one of the residuary legatees.

Republicans Cut Pay Roll, Report

National Committee Tries Economy, New York Paper Says.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 31.—The New York Evening Post, in a copyrighted dispatch from Clinton W. Gilbert, its Washington correspondent, today said that the Republican national committee, feeling the pinch of hard times, has cut down its pay roll.

The Post story said that recently seven minor employes of the committee at headquarters in the Barr Building, Washington, had been let out and that two more were scheduled to go.

Another economy, the Post said, has been dispensing with the services of a large clipping bureau, headed by Capt. Edward W. Deeters, which occupied almost an entire floor of the Transportation Building. This bureau, the paper said, cost the national committee about $3,500 a month.

COLORED TEACHERS CLOSE CONVENTION

Officers Elected and Talks Are Made by Educators; Reception Held.

The convention of the National Association of Teachers in Colored Schools, which has been held at Miner Teachers College and Howard University throughout the week, closed last night to meet next July at the State College, Montgomery, Ala.

Dr. Ambrose Caliver, specialist in Negro education for the United States office of education of the Department of the Interior, addressed the teachers yesterday on "National Surveys." A factual and critical survey of the present status of Negro education was presented by Felton G. Clark, president of Southern University, Baton Rouge, La.

The convention, through a series of resolutions, favored increased emphasis on vocational guidance because of economic conditions, expressed gratification at the decrease of national illiteracy, commended safety education and the school patrol, urged appointment of Negro supervisors for county and district schools as rapidly as competent persons are found available, and pledged support of the eighteenth amendment and laws enacted thereunder.

It also approved the general demand for higher standards in teacher training, along with the expression of belief that teachers should be paid according to training and experience, regardless of grade or race.

A musicale was given last night at the Miner Teachers College, following presentation of the Mabel Jones dancers at the Sylvan Theater, with the convention delegates as guests. The convention closed with a reception last night in the dining hall at Howard University where, earlier in the day, Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson had entertained visiting college presidents.

Officers elected for the ensuing year included as president the youngest Negro college president in America, H. C. Trenholm, 31, of the Alabama State College, Montgomery. Regional vice president, A. M. P. Strong, Arkansas; A. L. Kidd, Florida; L. F. Palmer, Virginia; W. H. House, Kentucky; Leslie P. Hill, Pennsylvania; W. E. Day, Oklahoma; treasurer, W. D. Miller, West Virginia, and executive secretary, W. W. Sanders.

'Old Ironsides' Visited Daily by Thousands

(Associated Press.)

"Old Ironsides" on her exhibition tour is receiving 7,600 visitors a day. The Navy Department said yesterday that at the first four ports visited, after starting from Boston, 106,857 eager sightseers went aboard in fourteen days. No admission is charged.

Portsmouth, N. H., has a population of 14,495, but in the five days the Constitution was there, 30,978 persons saw her. In a day at Bar Harbor, Me., 2,066 visitors were counted. At Bath, Me., whose population is 9,110, the total in three days was 11,904.

Portland, Me., gave the reconditioned old frigate an enthusiastic reception with 61,904 visitors in five days.

GOLD CLEARING FUND IS URGED FOR LATINS

Paul Warburg Revives Plan, Proposed in 1916, to Aid 21 Republics.

(Associated Press.)

Establishment of an international gold clearance fund for the 21 Pan-American nations has been proposed by Paul M. Warburg, New York banker, for discussion at the fourth Pan-American commercial conference.

Mr. Warburg's suggestion, officials of the Pan-American Union said yesterday, will be laid before delegates to the conference here October 5 to 13, at a plenary session devoted to studying financial problems of the participating countries.

Particular importance was attached to his recommendation in view of recent developments in the southern republics, and proposals for setting up an inter-American bank for international settlements which probably will be one of the high spots of the conference's sessions.

The proposals for creation of the inter-American bank drew neutral comment from Mr. Warburg, a former member of the Federal Reserve Board and of the inter-American high commission, who said, however, discussion might be advisable.

He considered study of the question of establishing a gold clearance fund as timely, and the plan "most adapted to the needs of inter-American finance."

Pointing to the Basel Bank for International Settlements, Mr. Warburg said discussion of the gold fund recommendation would cover whether its establishment would take the form of an American bank for strictly inter-American settlements or be connected with the Basel institution. Mr. Warburg reviewed his attempts at Buenos Aires, in 1916, to set up the gold fund, and said that although several South American governments entered agreements with the American State Department, the Government of the United States failed to ratify them.

UTILITY BODY PLANS TO FIX CAB CHARGES

Public Hearing Predicted if Diamond Company Fails to Join Accord.

Action of the Public Utilities Commission at its next meeting Tuesday in the taxicab situation will depend largely upon decision of directors of the Diamond Cab Co. Monday. But, though a public hearing may be averted, steps will be taken by the utilities body in any case to stabilize taxicab service in Washington.

This was admitted yesterday by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, although he said no definite prediction could be made pending receipt of an opinion from Corporation Counsel William W. Bride. This opinion, requested to clarify power of the commission, will not be submitted until Monday.

It is understood that Mr. Bride will inform the commission, however, that it has ample authority to establish taxicab rates, both minimum and maximum, and to fix boundaries of zones. The utilities body could even order installation of meters on all cabs, but it is not expected to do this for the present at least.

Commission to Fix Rates.

Under the new policy to be adopted by the commission taxicab operators will not be permitted to change their rates at will by merely submitting a schedule. All of these zone rates have been received but not approved by the utilities body. Hence the cab companies were able to start a rate war whenever the competition became strong.

The commission now intends to prevent recurrence of unregulated rate slashing, making it impossible for cab companies to change rates without obtaining permission. Even though the maximum and minimum rates adopted at a recent conference of 50 operators are accepted by the Diamond company, the commission intends to adopt them formally and order them effective until changed by order of the regulating body. It is supposed then that the scattering of independent operators who did not enter into the agreement will be required to accept the new rates.

May Hold Public Hearing.

If the Diamond company, with 750 cabs, decides to continue operating on a 20-40-60-cent basis, the commission will in all probability give notice of a public hearing, which could not be held for 20 days, and then proceed to establish taxicab rates for the District.

All of the cab operators who agreed to the peace pact are scheduled to begin operation under the agreement today though some of them had not filed their new schedules with the commission yesterday. Maximum rates agreed upon are 35, 60 and 85 cents, while mimimum are 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Gen. Patrick will not be present at the Tuesday meeting as he will leave tomorrow on a month's vacation in Ontario. Policy of the commission will be decided, consequently, by Harleigh H. Hartman, vice chairman, and Maj. D. A. Davison, acting Engineer Commissioner.

Eleanor Gunn Fashion Page Obtained for Post Readers

Notable Feature Dealing With Latest Modes and Trends of Milady Will Be Presented Every Sunday; Illustrated by Famous Artists.

Beginning tomorrow, The Post will carry on Sundays a fashion page by Eleanor Gunn, who is probably the best-known fashion authority in this country.

Eleanor Gunn has followed fashionable folk practically around the world, sending cabled reports from Paris and the many fashionable resorts of France, from London, Madrid, the Lido, from Havana, and even from Cairo, to say nothing of our own resorts, notably Palm Beach.

Miss Gunn is internationally known, both in person and by reputation, and is entirely concerned with presenting fashion facts. She regards fashion as news and reports it as such. Avoiding prophecies, she, however, reports trends and believes that all changes of fashion are natural evolutions and based on actualities.

For several years Eleanor Gunn fashions were broadcast and articles by her have appeared in innumerable newspapers and magazines throughout the country. While living in Paris she came to know the most important men and women connected with the fashion world and, of course, is very well known in New York, which is her headquarters.

The illustrations on her fashion page are not the work of one, but of many, artists stationed both here and abroad. While no effort is made to select models to be found locally, it frequently happens that the articles mentioned or illustrated in her page may be found in our better shops. Miss Gunn believes, however, more in the importance of what women have actually selected and are wearing, and follows the changes and notes tendencies among the better dressed women of the world.

Any personal service in the matter of advising her readers about their wardrobes may be had from Miss Gunn personally by addressing her in care of The Washington Post.

In addition to Miss Gunn, The Post will continue its other fashion features, Dare, Fifth Avenue Fashions and Vyila Poe Wilson, of The Post's editorial staff.

WET PLATFORMS HIT BY CANNON, M'BRIDE

Bishop Says Dry Democrats Will Not Be for Smith or Roosevelt.

(Associated Press.)

The assertion that Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob "are determined to write their antiprohibition views in the Democratic platform" in 1932 was made yesterday by Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

In a statement made public after he sailed for Europe to attend international church and prohibition conferences, the Methodist Episcopal churchman said that if the former New York governor or Gov. Franklin Roosevelt were nominated, neither would be supported by dry Democrats.

He added that Gov. Smith advocated the home control plan of the chairman of the Democratic national committee, Mr. Raskob, as "the most important suggested."

"Smith and Raskob," the statement said, "are determined to write their antiprohibition views in the Democratic platform, and they probably will control enough votes to do so.

"The Democratic candidate in 1932 will, in all probability, be Alfred Emanuel Smith, but if it should be Franklin Roosevelt he is openly and officially committed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He can not possibly be nominated without the consent of Alfred E. Smith, or without the votes of wet delegates, who will compel him to agree to run on the wet record he has made.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League, said in a statement yesterday delegates to the 1932 Democratic convention would not put a wet plank in their platform unless "the destruction of their party means less to them than the approval of a handful of wet millionaires."

Duplicate Key Robber Steals $59 and Flees

Awakened by a noise downstairs as of some one stumbling over a chair, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Stillman called police last night to their home at 734 Quebec place northwest.

A quick inventory revealed that the intruder had made off with $59 which was in a purse he removed from a dresser after he had entered the house by a duplicate key. In his flight he dropped a $10 bill and a watch, which were found on the staircase.

however, have a time limit of August 15 and their extension may be necessary.

Repeated requests to the Agriculture Department for funds to use in combatting grasshoppers have been met by the statement that no money was available for that purpose.

Western farmers will ship their wheat to market this year at lower freight rates than heretofore.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday cleared the road for new rates, ordered under the Hock-Smith resolution and opposed by the railroads. They went into effect at midnight last night.

The commission in a brief announcement disposed of all protests against the new rates. It said it had denied "all petitions and requests for suspension of rates, rules and regulations" in the case.

The battle was stubbornly fought. The commission, after a long inquiry, ordered the rates into effect early last June, but the railroads went to court in an effort to prevent the change.

An injunction suit was filed in Chicago Federal courts, the railroads claiming they would lose millions of dollars if the rates became effective.

Recently the court vacated the injunction and the commission issued an order making the rates effective August 1.

The railroads posted their rates and regulations ten days ago. A number of big shippers and shippers' organizations protested that the posted rates and regulations did not follow the commission's order. These protests the commission overruled yesterday.

Mrs. Jessie Wood Ends U. S. Service

Bringing to a close 34 years of service in the Library of Congress, Mrs. Jessie Porter Wood, one of the oldest employes in point of years at the institution, retired yesterday to the seclusion of her home at 2013 Klingle road northwest.

Appointed to the library on September 16, 1897, Mrs. Wood was first assigned to the department of prints. During her seven years in that department part of her work included the selecting and mounting of 1,200 pictures representing the history of engraving. She was later transferred to the reading room, where until her retirement yesterday she served as an assistant to the chief clerk.

Mrs. Wood is a native of Syracuse, N. Y. Her hobby is the study of genealogy. She is a member of the Huguenot Society, the Founders and Patriots Society, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the National Genealogical Society. Upon retiring when the library closed at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon she was presented with gifts and flowers by her fellow workers with whom she has been associated for nearly half a century.

Woman Uses Razor In Suicide Attempt

Throat and Wrists Slashed in Fourth Essay to End Own Life.

Despondent over a quarrel with her husband, according to relatives, Mrs. Mary Herring, 1514 Columbia road, made a fourth attempt to end her life yesterday afternoon. She was recovering at the home of her sister, Mrs. Edith Talbot, 1145 Twenty-second street northwest, from effects of poison she swallowed three days ago.

Mrs. Herring was foiled in her fourth attempt at suicide, when her sister discovered she had slashed her wrists and throat with a razor blade. The woman only suffered superficial cuts. She was taken to Casualty Hospital for treatment and later was transferred to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

The GIRL About Town

CYNTHIA and I drove over to the Little Tea House for a chicken dinner Thursday night. As we parked a big limousine flashed past and in it were Judge and Mrs. Wade H. Ellis on their way to Rippon Lodge, the historic house they have restored in upper Virginia. They waved a cheery greeting to us, and Mrs. Ellis called back: "The judge has some new limericks. Come over and hear them!"

We shouted our acceptance. I knew what she meant. Judge Ellis has composed thousands of biblical limericks for a pastime. They say he knows more about the Bible than half the preachers.

Caught a glimpse of Don Adolfo de Urquiza, first secretary of the Argentine Embassy, at the Shoreham at tea time. Strange as it may have seemed for a diplomat, he was drinking iced tea and reading over some proof sheets. Probably they are proofs of his new book on etiquette, on which he has been working for some time. Well, nearly everybody in town, except diplomats, has tried writing on etiquette.

• • • •

SPEAKING of diplomats, I forgot to tell you that when I was at Buena Vista during a recent week-end, I saw the Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi enjoying themselves highly in the big swimming pool at that popular resort. The Japanese are a water-loving people and their diplomatic representatives in this country are no exception to the general rule in aquatic skill. They always draw a gallery when they disport themselves in the Buena Vista pool.

I lunched with my aunt at the Mayflower yesterday, and she was talking about her daughter's debut. I advised her to take warning from the experience of poor Helen Ames Doherty and avoid the syndicated high-power press agent debut which has come to be so fashionable here recently. Helen Doherty was made too prominent in the very beginning. She is sweet and attractive, and was much embarrassed by all that publicity. Everybody liked her and she won out in spite of the brass band party evolved by hard-boiled advertising agents.

• • • •

Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, down from Tuxedo Park for a few days, was lunching across the way from us. I called auntie's attention to the way she successfully launches her bevy of debutantes without professional assistance. I'll wager Anne Archbold, with all her Standard Oil gold, will not need any one to put Moira on the list. Another thing I warned aunt against was the troop of amateur gigolos supplied by these social bureaus for parties at so much a head. Some of the most unfortunate elopements of the year have come out of this custom.

WHEN I read about the two daughters of the former Alice Meyer being with their grandmother, Mrs. George von L. Meyer, in Massachusetts, I understood why I have not been meeting them with their governess lately on my morning walks. Their mother has married again and is a Mrs. Coffin. I recall how, when I was a small child, I would wait for hours at Dupont Circle to see Alice and Julia Meyer ride by. They always dressed alike, and everybody called them "Those good-looking Meyer twins." But they were not the same age, at all. When their father was Secretary of the Navy they went to Annapolis on his yacht, and were so surprised to learn that the Naval Academy could be reached other than by water or by motor car. "Funny little things, street cars," said Julia, "I was in one of them once."

Man, Wife Are Seized In Police Liquor Raid

A man and his wife were arrested and a small quantity of alleged whisky and beer seized yesterday afternoon in a raid.

James and Myrtle R. Curtis, 22 and 19, respectively, were charged with illegal possession after Sergt. R. A. Johnson and his squad, equipped with a warrant, visited their apartment at 1760 P street northwest. The raiders confiscated about two quarts of alleged spirits and 21 bottles of beer.

Fortune-Telling Discredited By Smithsonian Scientists

(Associated Press.)

The scientific Smithsonian Institution believes the future of individuals generally is unpredictable by fortune tellers, spirit mediums or astrologers.

Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the institution, has so informed the Society of American Magicians, of New York, which is attempting to drive fortune tellers out of New York City.

Julian P. Proskauer, president of the Society of American Magicians, first wrote to Attorney General Mitchell asking a legal decision on the predictability of the future. The Attorney General turned the question over to other officials of the Justice Department, who referred Proskauer to the Smithsonian Institution.

Dr. Abbot's reply to Proskauer's inquiry was:

"The Smithsonian Institution has no evidence which it considers to prove that the fortune of individuals can be told by fortune tellers, spirit mediums or astrologers.

"The institution believes that the fortunes of individuals primarily depend on their own exertion, and secondly on the influence of future environment, and are in general unpredictable."

Dr. Abbot said the institution had no especial interest in the matter, but made it a practice to answer all inquiries.

WIDER STREET PLAN DROPPED IN FAIRFAX

Virginia Highway Chairman Accedes to Objections of Citizens.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245. Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

Mayor Thomas P. Chapman of Fairfax yesterday received a letter from Chairman H. G. Shirley, of the State Highway Commission, stating that because of the number of requests received from citizens of the town the State would not continue with the proposed widening of the Lee-Jackson highway within the corporate limits.

Several weeks ago the town council received a proposal from the State to widen this road to 36 feet through the business section and to 28 feet through the remainder of the town, provided the town would pay $5,000 as its portion.

The present roadway is only 16 feet wide and takes care of the traffic of both the Lee and the Lee-Jackson highways and the Chain Bridge road. The council, by private subscription, raised its portion of the cost and notified the State authorities. For the last two weeks engineers have been surveying the right of way and placing grade pegs.

The letter to Mayor Chapman stated: "We have received a number of requests from your people not to widen out streets through your town, but to build the cut-off road." The cut-off referred to is a proposed road from the Lee highway, about a mile east of Fairfax, through the county fair grounds to the junction of the Little River pike and the Lee highway near the Lantern Inn.

The State has secured the necessary right of way for this road, but has announced it did not believe the cutoff could be built this year. Chairman Shirley stated that the State Highway Commission had no desire to do anything against the wishes of the people of the town and had instructed the State's forces not to proceed with widening of the road.

Clarendon Woman Hurt in Collision

Miss Clair Raymond Is Injured in Auto-Bus Crash; Is Unconscious.

Miss Clair Raymond, of Clarendon, was seriously injured early yesterday morning when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a bus en route to Roanoke, Va., at the intersection of Columbia pike and Glebe road. Her companion, Edward Summers, of Ballston, suffered minor injuries.

They were taken to the Georgetown Hospital. Miss Raymond was in an unconscious condition and reports last night revealed that she had not regained consciousness. According to John R. Burke, Arlington County policeman, who was called to the scene of the accident and made an investigation, the driver of the bus gave his name as P. Kueykulsee, of 318 C street northwest, and said the automobile ran in front of the bus.

Jesse, Rust Speak At Political Rally

State Senate Candidates Heard by Cherrydale Gathering.

Speaking at a mass meeting held under the auspices of the Cherrydale Citizens Association last night in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall, Charles T. Jesse, of Arlington County, and John Rust, of Fairfax County, Democratic candidates for the State Senate at the primary on Tuesday, expressed briefly their views on the needs of the district.

Mr. Jesse, who served for sixteen years in the General Assembly, outlined the many acts affecting Arlington County, which he sponsored, among which were amendments to the constitution which has made it possible for a change in county government, relief for injured firemen, and free textbooks in the county schools.

Mr. Rust, asking for the support of the voters, said: "While I have never been to the General Assembly I feel that I can serve the people of the district equally as well as my opponent who has had sixteen years' experience."

He stated that he favored closer cooperation with the Federal Government in its plans for the development of the metropolitan area.

Arlington Polling Places Announced

Booths for Primary to Be Held on Tuesday Are Formally Listed.

Claude O. Thomas, secretary to the county electoral board, yesterday announced that voting at the primary to be held on Tuesday will take place at the following places:

Arlington precinct, the Arlington Firemen's Hall; Ballston precinct, the Firemen's Hall; Carne precinct, John Marshall School Building; Cherrydale precinct, school auditorium; Clarendon precinct, No. 1, last storeroom in the Hedrick Building, on Garrison road; Clarendon precinct, No. 2, the Firemen's Hall; East Falls Church precinct, H. H. Anderson's real estate office; Glencarlyn precinct, Firemen's Hall at Bon Air; Lyon Park precinct, the Community House; Rosslyn precinct, Dickey Co. Building; Virginia Highlands precinct, the Firemen's Hall.

Kiwanians in Program For Children at Camp

Entertainment sponsored by the Washington Kiwanis Club was given yesterday for 175 underprivileged children and their mothers who are spending a two weeks' vacation at Camp Goodwill in Rock Creek Park.

Charles Smith, a counsellor at the camp, sang a solo and led in group singing. He was accompanied by Miss Frances Stabler. Miss Frances Powell Hill recited a number of stories. A banjo selection was given by George A. Small. Fred A. Schutz closed the program with motion pictures.

CANDIDATE

JOHN C. MACKALL,

Col. Lucien Starke Expires in Norfolk

Publisher, 63, Succumbs to Brief Illness in Hospital.

Norfolk, Va., July 31 (A.P.).—Col. Lucien D. Starke, publisher of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, died tonight at 7:15 o'clock in Sarah Leigh Hospital after a brief illness.

Col. Starke was a native of Norfolk, 63 years old, and had practiced law in this city for more than 30 years. He negotiated the purchase of the old Norfolk Pilot for the late Albert Grandy in 1896, was made treasurer, and on the death of Mr. Grandy, in 1903, was made president.

The Pilot had consolidated with the Norfolk Virginian in 1898, and January 1, 1912, the company bought the Norfolk Landmark, taking control of the morning newspaper field. Col. Starke continued as president, and ten years ago gave up his practice of law to devote his entire time to the newspaper as publisher.

Arrests in Alexandria Show Decrease in July

Arrests made by the Alexandria police during July showed a considerable decrease from the June record, there having been only 365 arrests in July as against 471 in June. There was also a considerable decrease in the amount collected in fines for violations of the dry ordinance, Elliott F. Hoffman, clerk of the courts, reporting $1,707 collected in July as against $2,268.25 in June.

Many of those fined were unable to pay and are serving jail sentences in lieu of the fine.

Civic Body Changes Meeting Hour.

Because the Democratic primary falls on the date of the monthly meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation, announcement is made that the meeting will be called at 8:15 o'clock instead of the usual hour of 8. The meeting will be held in the Lyon Park Community House.

Alexandria Chamber Not to Meet.

The meeting of the board of directors of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for Monday afternoon, has been canceled, as has also the monthly membership meeting, which was to have been held August 10. This action was taken on account of the extremely hot weather.

$40,000 HELD FAIR FOR SLIGO PROPERTY

A Montgomery County petit jury early yesterday decided that $40,000 is a fair price for the 12½ acres of land needed to complete the Sligo Valley parkway development. Owners of the tract had asked $55,000, and the Park and Planning Commission had offered $21,000.

The price decided under the condemnation proceedings is a little less than $3,333 per acre, while the commission's offer was based on a price of about $1,700 per acre. Awards to the three owners of the property were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Howland, land and buildings, $19,500; L. S. Baggett, land and buildings, $12,500, and Frank M. Heath, land and buildings, $8,000.

The jury rendered its decision after more than 12 hours' deliberation, and the presentation of the case by expert witnesses and lawyers had taken from Monday morning until afternoon Thursday. Attorney John S. White, of Cottage City, represented the property owners, while J. Bond Smith, attorney for the commission, and Lucius Q. C. Lamar appeared for the commission.

Former Game Warden Fined in Big Seine's Use

Reuben R. Palmer, of Kensington, a former game warden of Montgomery County, was fined $25 yesterday in Rockville Police Court for using an oversize seine and catching undersized bass in the Potomac River. He was arrested by Chief Game Warden Carroll Waters.

Palmer told the court he had caught chub, which the game warden mistook for bass, but Judge Charles W. Woodward, who said he himself had caught several chub the day before, maintained that such a mistake could not be made. Three young boys, arrested with Palmer and charged with using the big net, were given suspended sentences.

Tar on Street Ignited And Burns 20 Minutes

Blazing streets became a reality in Takoma Park, Md., yesterday when tar being applied to Philadelphia avenue caught fire and burned for 20 minutes before it could be extinguished by volunteer firemen.

Tar in a cart was first ignited and then spilled on the street, firing the pavement. A dense crowd hampered efforts of the firemen, who finally overcame the blaze by flooding the highway with water.

Carnival to Open In McLean Today

Baby Show to Be One of Features First Day of Week's Event.

The annual McLean Day and Firemen's Carnival conducted jointly by the School and Civic League and the volunteer fire department of McLean will open this morning on the Franklin-Sherman high school grounds on the Chain Bridge road and continue each evening during the ensuing week.

Among the principal attractions today will be a baby show this afternoon in the St. John's Church parish hall, which adjoins the carnival grounds. A baseball game will be staged between the teams of Vienna and McLean and a tug of war between teams of Forestville and McLean. Regular carnival features will be open each evening from 7 o'clock until midnight, with dancing beginning at 9 o'clock.

J. H. Beattie, president of both organizations, is general chairman, assisted by Harry Farver as business manager, J. W. Preston and Jesse Dailey representing the fire department and R. R. Sherman and J. C. Storm the community league.

Former Fairfax Youth To Preach at Bethesda

The Rev. Charles Wesley Israel, of the West Ridge Community Church, in Chicago, a former Fairfax County youth, has notified friends in Fairfax that he will conduct services tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the Central Methodist Episcopal Church in Bethesda, Md.

Mr. Israel was raised in the vicinity of Oakton, Va., about 1 mile east of Fairfax, and received his early education at the Oakton school. For several years he was superintendent of the Sunday school of the Southern Methodist Church at Fairfax. Leaving Fairfax, he went to Chicago, where he studied for the ministry.

Indian Creek Company Receivership Is Asked

Alleging that the Indian Creek Co. of Branchville, Md., is indebted to them for $850, which they are unable to collect, Morris & Eikels, of Baltimore, yesterday filed suit in Prince Georges County asking that a receiver be appointed for the Branchville firm.

The Baltimore company is represented by Attorney Irving B. Grandberg, of Baltimore. The petition does not state whether the laundry company is involved in the action against the other firm. The Indian Creek Laundry is said to be operated by the Indian Creek Co., which is in the coal business.

Fairfax Church Plans Festival This Evening

The volunteer class of the Southern Methodist Church of Fairfax will hold an ice cream, cake and grab-bag festival this evening on the county courthouse grounds at Fairfax. The committee in charge consists of Mary S. Mickelson, Mary Cullen and Mavis Cobb.

The Herndon Chapter, No. 55, Order of Eastern Star, will hold an ice cream festival this evening in Railroad Park in Herndon. Only home-made cake and ice cream will be served. Mrs. Lavinia Harrison will have charge of the arrangements.

BUILDING CODE BODY CHOOSES OFFICERS

Robert H. Forman Elected as Temporary Chairman of Arlington Group.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Meeting yesterday in the offices of County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, the newly created Building Code Commission perfected its organization with the election of Robert H. Forman as temporary chairman. George D. Ricker was chosen temporary secretary.

Following discussion on policies of the commission it was voted to follow the building code of the District of Columbia so far as it does not conflict with the State laws. In that event the building code of the city of Richmond will be followed.

It was pointed out that work of the commission will be divided among the members so that group meetings may be held with different business firms and contractors.

It was voted to hold meetings every other Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the courthouse.

Members of the commission are C. L. Kinnier, county engineer; Robert H. Forman, zoning administrator; Dr. Norbert Melnick, county sanitary inspector; H. Bruce Green, attorney; A. J. Porter, contractor, and A. F. Thelander, architect.

Capital Man Asks Share In Pennsylvania Estate

Special to The Washington Post.

Ridgway, Pa., July 31.—Arthur T. Bennis, who made audits of both Dr. Russ' and Mrs. Claire Russ' accounts after their deaths, stated today that Dr. Russ left an estate valued at $300,000 to Mrs. Russ. It increased almost threefold since the death of Dr. Russ, in November, 1921, to January 30, 1930, when Mrs. Russ died.

The earnings on the $300,000 are claimed by Eben Russ, of Washington. Mrs. Russ' private property, jewelry, furs and furniture are not in litigation, as the petitioner, Eben Russ, does not claim them or the large stone residence.

Mussolini Asks Blue Laws Data

Opposition Society Will Furnish Information to Embassy.

Premier Mussolini of Italy is about to undertake a study of the Sunday blue laws of this country, according to the National Association Opposed to Blue Laws, which announced yesterday it has been asked to supply the Italian Embassy with data. It is understood the information will be forwarded to the Fascist dictator.

Officials of the organization said they also are keeping in close touch with blue law developments in the British Isles and Canada, where Sunday movies and baseball have caused controversy.

Marlboro Court Fines 2 for Rum

Oakland Man Is Assessed $200 for Possession of Nine Cases.

Raymond Clancy, of Oakland, Md., was fined $200 yesterday in Marlboro Police Court for possession of nine cases of liquor which police said they found in his house when they raided it. Thomas W. Collins, of the same address, was freed on the same charge when Clancy was convicted.

Lee Marshall, of Washington, was fined $100 for possession of five cases. He was arrested on the Southern Maryland pike by Sergt. A. W. Hepburn.

John Fleet, who was charged with nonsupport of his wife and two children, Aline and Morris, was ordered to pay them $30 a month and to rent a house for them. William C. Quade, of Cheltenham, was fined $1 for reckless driving, but was freed on charge of driving while drunk.

Chinese Flood Threats Fade as Yangtze Falls

(Associated Press.)

The State Department was advised yesterday that the level of the Yangtze River, which has threatened to flood Hankow, China, after spreading over the countryside, has receded a foot and is now down to 49 feet 4 inches.

The message, from the American consulate, said:

ALEXANDRIANS SEEK POLICE HEAD'S POST

Three Candidates Lined Up for Job Left by Deposed Capt. Campbell.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The question of the appointment of a captain of police, who is the active head of the department, to succeed W. W. Campbell, deposed captain, is now agitating many Alexandrians, and it is understood that, while there have been no formal written applications for the position, three "receptive candidates" for the position have already talked the matter over with City Manager Wallace Lawrence, and their formal applications may be expected shortly.

Under the ordinance adopted by the city council in 1922, shortly after the organization of council-manager form of government, the city manager has the sole power of appointment of "all heads or directors of departments." The impression seems to prevail that the appointment of the police head will be made by the council, but this is one of the prerogatives of the city manager which has been exercised in the past.

The names of several persons have been mentioned on the street as possible successors to the position, which pays a salary of $2,700 a year, among them being Everett Hellmuth and John S. Arnold. Both are World War veterans and both members of the American Legion, Mr. Arnold being the newly-elected commander of Alexandria Post No. 24, and a lieutenant of the Alexandria Light Infantry. He is now attending the State encampment at Virginia Beach.

The duties of the police head are now being discharged by Sergt. Heber Thompson, senior sergeant of the force, who was designated by Mr. Lawrence immediately after the suspension of Capt. Campbell.

Mt. Vernon Boulevard Binder Now Being Laid

The contractors for the Mount Vernon Boulevard are now engaged in laying the tar binder on the finished portion of the boulevard in the southern section of Alexandria and immediately after the completion of this, the final top dressing of sheet asphalt will be applied. This, it is understood, will be two inches thick and laid on the concrete base, will provide a perfectly smooth roadway.

The contractors have not yet, it is understood, fully determined the manner in which the work will be prosecuted on Washington street, but it is planned to do this work as rapidly as possible, so as to interfere with traffic as little as possible.

Right of Way Given To Road in Virginia

Pittsburgh Man Donates Land From Entrance of Mount Vernon.

Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, former president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday morning that he had received an agreement signed and sealed giving to the State of Virginia an 80-foot right of way for a new road leading from the entrance of the Mount Vernon estate to connect with the Washington-Richmond highway, near Woodlawn.

The right of way was the gift of August Buch, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and with it was an additional agreement restricting the adjoining land. No buildings are to be erected or maintained within 40 feet of either side of the right of way. The 40-foot strip on each side is to be landscaped in accordance with the plans laid out by the National Capital Park and Planing Commission. No buildings of a commercial nature can be erected or maintained on this land.

The agrement terminites successfully negotiations pending more than a year between the county chamber of commerce, the county board of supervisors and the property owners.

LAY EVANGELIST AT PEACE CROSS

Capt. Mountford, Church Army Head, Will Preach There Three Sundays.

Capt. B. Frank Mountford, head of the Church Army in the United States and an outstanding figure in the field of lay evangelism, will preach for the next three Sunday afternoons at the open air services held at the Peace Cross in Washington Cathedral Grounds at 4 o'clock. He will deliver his first address tomorrow afternoon from the text, "I am not ashamed, for I know Whom I have believed." The service will be broadcast over Station WMAL, of the Columbia Broadcasting System, and a brass quartet will lead the singing in the absence of the Cathedral Choir, now on vacation.

Capt. Mountford was born and brought up in South Yorkshire, England. He joined the Church Army of the Chuch of England 2 years ago, doing evangelistic work on caravans which penetrated to remote rural districts. Fifteen years before coming to this country, Capt. Mountford was assistant secretary for missions to prisons in England.

During the World War he served three years with the Royal Garrison Artillery in France, received a commission in the field and was twice mentioned by Sir Douglas Haig in dispatches.

He came to the United States in the spring of 1925, heading a group of laymen who made such a success of wayside evangelism that he was asked by the Right Rev. James DeWolf Perry, now presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, and the Right Rev. Thomas Campbell Durst, chairman of the national commission on evangelism, to come over again to help in the bishops' crusade, which was conducted with headquarters on Mount St. Alban. When the Church Army in the United States was organized a year ago last winter, Capt. Mountford was placed in command.

At the celebration of the Holy Communion at 11 o'clock in the Bethlehem Chapel tomorrow, the sermon will be by Canon Edward S. Dunlop. Other services will include celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m. and morning prayer and litany at 10 a. m.

Georgetown Will Hear Illinois Presbyterian

During the absence of the minister, the Rev. Frank S. Niles, the pulpit of Georgetown Presbyterian Church will be filled by the Rev. Edward B. Landis, pastor of the Fist Presbyterian Church of Mendota, Illinois.

In a note to his congregation Mr. Niles says: "The address of the pastor during the next six weeks will be in the hands of the session, and if there is any urgent need for his services during this period he may be reached through one of the elders." Dr. Landis will preach every Sunday in August.

Rev. La Rue to Preach In Rockville Tomorrow

The Rev. William E. LaRue, pastor of Takoma Park Baptist Church, will preach at the union service of the churches of Rockville tomorrow evening.

He leaves on his summer vacation about August 20, and will preach at a union service of the churches of Batavia, N. Y., on August 23, after which he expects to visit his former pastorates at Rochester and Weedsport, N. Y.

Dr. Melton to Depart For Northfield, Mass.

Dr. H. B. Melton, pastor Ninth Street Christian Church, will preach tomorrow morning, and immediately after he and Mrs. Melton will leave for Northfield, Mass., to spend their vacation. September 1 Dr. Melton takes up his new duties as State evangelist for West Virginia.

Metropolitan Baptist Will Hear Dr. Tiffany

Dr. Henry W. Tiffany, of Norfolk, Va., will preach at the Metropolitan Baptist Church tomorrow morning and evening. He is well known in Washington. "His philosophy of life is beautiful," says the church bulletin, "and he reads his commission clear."

Dr. John Compton Ball, the pastor, is spending two months at Lake Mohonk, N. Y.

Central Mission Speaker.

L. B. Magill, of Kendall Baptist Church, will be the speaker tomorrow (Sunday) night at 7:45 in the Central Union Mission Chapel at 613 C street northwest, and Miss Marie Klee will sing.

Organ Program Tomorrow.

Rolla G. G. Onyun, who is substituting at Luther Place for the regular organist, Mrs. Clarence Hammerness, will play, tomorrow, as the prelude "In Moonlight," by Kinder, and as the postlude, "Masetoso," by MacDowell.

Snow and Apple Blossoms

IN Brazilian forests, we are told by naturalists, no flowers are so gorgeous and brilliant as the orchids. Yet some of the most beautiful grow in jungles so thick and gloomy that they often escape notice, and it is indeed surprising that they flourish where they get so little light. So in dim and dreary places we often discover and welcome with surprise shining examples of integrity, tenderness, simple worth and sublime courage, not to be excelled by any who have what seem to be superior advantages.

It is marvelous how they flourish within the shadows; but as the sun acts where it does not shine, so the Spirit of holiness and power operates quietly and mightily in the souls of those, whatever their outward conditions, who constantly hide within the divine presence and influence. It is possible for this to become the habit of soul with us—the very atmosphere so surcharged with faith and love that doubt and gloom and hate can not survive within it.

It was so with the primitive disciples. Throughout the latter half of the New Testament the note of triumph rings unceasing. One might think the pathway of those saints had been one of primroses, but the fact is that the severity of the times was largely forgotten in the exulting joy of the soul.

I recall an automobile ride from Black Mountain to Asheville, N. C., and though the air was balmy and the apple trees were in bloom, there was a thick fall of snow but when we put out our hands again and again to catch a flake, it melted into a tear, almost before it touched the flesh. So lightly did the afflictions of their time affect the apostles and other early Christians, and this mainly because they triumphed over the tragic conditions of their age through their enthusiasm for the Lord Christ in whose presence they consciously lived. So may we abide in the presence of him who has promised to hide us till the storm be passed, and to keep us until the coming of the glorious day. The snow will melt as fast as it falls if we live in the atmosphere of the apple blossoms.

St. Margaret's Rector Departs for Vacation

Dr. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Church, has left for his vacation, which he will spend on the New Jersey coast and in other resorts. During his absence the Rev. Robert Shores, assistant rector, will be in charge of the parish. Mr. Shores has recently returned from a visit to the Middle West.

Takoma Park Rector Accepts St. Louis Call

The Rev. J. Manly Cobb, rector of Trinity P. E. Church, Takoma Park, has accepted a call to Emmanuel Church, Webster Groves, St. Louis, Mo. He came to his present charge in the early spring of 1929.

The new work will take him to one of the most attractive parishes of St. Louis and probably the second largest in the diocese. Mr. Cobb will assume his new duties on October 1. No selection of a successor has thus far been made by the vestry of Takoma parish.

Preachers Announced For Gospel Tabernacle

The Rev. Harry L. Collier, pastor of the Full Gospel Tabernacle, North Capitol and K streets, is away on his vacation, and during this month a number of speakers will fill his pulpit. Tomorrow morning the Rev. J. L. Harrison will preach, and in the evening the Rev. S. M. Croft.

After a membership crusade, the Sunday school has increased its enrollment to 756, and has set 1,000 as its goal.

The Feast of the Transfiguration will be observed tomorrow at the Church of the Transfiguration, Episcopal Church on Gallatin street.

The rector, the Rev. J. J. Queally, will preach ten-minute sermons during the summer months.

Dr. Braskamp Back in Pulpit.

Dr. Bernard Braskamp, minister of Gunton-Temple Presbyterian Church, has returned from his vacation spent partly at Lake Mohonk, N. Y., and partly in the Middle West. He will fill his pulpit tomorrow morning.

Dr. Kester Will Begin Vacation Next Week

Dr. Hirl A. Kester, pastor of the Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church, will preach tomorrow and administer the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Next week he leaves on his vacation. During his absence his pulpit will be filled by the Rev. H. Clyde Grimes.

NEW SPIRITUALIST CHURCH ORGANIZED

Longley Memorial Will Begin Services in September; Officers Chosen.

At a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Lena V. Leach, 3518 Thirteenth street northwest, on Wednesday, June 24, a new church, to be known as the Longley Memorial Spiritualist Church, was organized and temporary officers elected. At a second meeting held at the same address on July 28, a permanent organization was effected by the adoption of by-laws and the election of the following officers:

President, Samuel L. Grosh, 1214 Lamont street northwest; vice president, Mrs. Virginia Walker, 1423 R street northwest; treasurer, M. N. Leonard, 405 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park; secretary, Mrs. Lena V Leach, 3518 Thirteenth street northwest; trustees, Thomas H. Grathall, 6206 Georgia avenue northwest; Mrs. Emma F. Suit, 1414 Quincy street northwest, and Mrs. Rose L. Bennett, 33 Rhode Island avenue northwest.

The new church organization will apply to the National Spiritualist Association for a charter and will incorporate under the laws of the District of Columbia. The charter application has already been numerously signed and will be held open for further signatures until October 12, so that all those joining the organization prior to that date will appear on its rolls as charter members.

The new church will open for religious services after the middle of September with the Rev. Carol E. McKinstry, 4909 Fourteenth street northwest, as minister. A meeting place has not yet been obtained, but will probably be in the Mount Pleasant or Columbia Heights section of the city. All those desiring to affiliate with the new church organization may communicate with the secretary, Mrs. Lena V. Leach, 3518 Thirteenth street northwest, or with the minister, the Rev. Carol E. McKinstry, 4909 Fourteenth street northwest.

Moral Training By Example

Every reform was once a private opinion and when it shall be a private opinion again, it will solve the moral problems of the day.

Much evil can be traced to our disregard for the effect our actions may have upon others.

We believe that we see our ideals exemplified by some person. Immediately we attempt to follow his course of action.

Example is a great influence in the moral training of youth.

Every normal child looks upon his father or mother as the ideal on which to pattern his life.

Do you want your son or daughter to pattern after you?

It is not enough to tell a child what to do. The child's mind must have something tangible to guide its steps.

One person with a sincere purpose may lead a whole army but a whole army of indifferentists can not lead an individual.

One reason why people seem to be nonentities and why they are discontented with their progress is because they are indifferent to opportunities for self-improvement.

If the World Is to Advance Morally
We Must Pave the Way for it

BAKER ON THE TARIFF.

Newton D. Baker's deliberations on the tariff before the Institute of Politics at Williamstown are a credit to the Democratic party regardless of the fact that his principal suggestion is entirely impractical. The former Secretary of War is considered a candidate for the presidential nomination. Yet he indulged in none of the vagaries that are being heard from Democratic members of Congress and from the Democratic national committee. Speaking of tariff policies, he frankly admitted that "to ask a sudden reversal of these policies, or any drastic change in them, would entail more domestic disorganization than nations are willing to confront."

Senator Robinson and some of his Democratic confreres are determined to press for a reduction of tariff rates at the next session of Congress. Mr. Baker virtually admits that such a policy would be disastrous, because tariff walls erected by other nations would remain largely at their present level. Lower American duties would effect no improvement in export trade, but would result in an enormous increase in the flood of imports competing with domestic industry. One nation can not afford to open its domestic market while all others protect theirs.

In view of this fact, Mr. Baker suggests that an international conference be called to agree upon simultaneous reductions in tariff rates. He recognizes the impossibility of all countries enacting new tariff legislation at the same time. Hence, he suggests that the present status be assumed to represent each country's tariff policy. Beginning at existing levels, duties would be lowered on a percentage basis in all countries, the adjustment being made gradually, so as not to upset existing industry.

In appraising this suggestion it is necessary only to recall what happened to the European conference on tariffs. Two-thirds of the countries raised their duties before attending the gathering to give them greater advantage in bargaining. But in the end they were not able to agree even upon a tariff holiday. Every delegate recognized that uniform reductions were out of the question. It is difficult to imagine a more hopeless project than Mr. Baker's proposal that this purely domestic issue be solved by international agreement.

The American people would not be interested in such an arrangement, even if it were practical. No reduction in foreign duties could compensate American producers for the loss of tariff protection. Why open the vast American market to foreign competition in return for access to much more limited markets abroad? The United States would be the only nation to make any substantial sacrifices for the facilitation of world trade under this plan.

When Mr. Baker says that the erection of tariff barriers is a manifestation of war spirit he ignores what has been happening in the economic world in recent years. Every nation has gone to protection because the human race has suddenly found out how to produce much more than its purchasing power will buy. By erecting tariff barriers each country is trying to protect its own interests until an adjustment in productive capacity and purchasing power is made. So long as overproduction and underconsumption continue to perplex the world, governments can be expected to maintain their protective systems. It is absurd to suppose that a removal of tariff restrictions, so that each nation might dump its surpluses upon the others, would solve the world's economic derangement.

It is encouraging, however, to hear a distinguished Democrat admit that the movement toward higher tariffs is world-wide, and that Uncle Sam is not a villain who, like Atlas, is supporting all the tariffs of the world upon his own shoulders. Mr. Baker's analytical approach to the subject should commend itself to his fellow Democrats.

ARGENTINA'S DICTATOR.

President Uriburu of Argentina will be the next South American executive to run into trouble unless all the usual signs of Latin-American politics fail. It seems inconceivable that a man who succeeded to power in a revolutionary campaign against dictatorial oppression can be so blind to the consequences of action that is more despotic than that of his predecessor. The democratic wave that has been sweeping dictators from office may not spare him.

The executive decree issued last week, prohibiting the Radical party from presenting candidates at the forthcoming elections, would be an outrage against popular expression even if that party represented a minority, but when it includes probably 75 per cent of the voters the high-handed character of Uriburu's action is apparent. In addition to denying the party participation in the election he has exiled its leaders.

Among those facing deportation are former President Marcelo Alvear; the former Ambassador to Washington, Honorio Pueyrredon, and several others who were ministers in the Alvear cabinet. Pueyrredon was recently elected governor of the Province of Buenos Aires, defeating the presidential candidate by a large majority. When the result was known President Uriburu canceled the election and announced that he would not permit any Radical to take office.

Uriburu's press censorship has become so rigid that newspapers are in danger of being suspended if any political news is published without the approval of the prefect of police. Newspapers are warned that publication of anything that may "molest" the provisional government will result in their editors being sent to the penal colony. Since "molestia" is a very elastic term, virtually no political news is being published.

Apparently unmindful of the example just witnessed in Chile, and of a rising tide of resentment, led by student bodies and the Socialist and Radical majority, President Uriburu continues his repression of all opposition. He is determined to continue the rule of his ultra-conservative following regardless of the will of the people. Offices, even those of police officials, have been filled with army officers who support the executive. President Uriburu has not only announced that former President Alvear could not be a candidate for reelection, but has stated repeatedly that only those who have received his approval may stand for election. Such high-handed action in a country with the progressive tendencies and enlightened citizenry of Argentina can portend but one result.

PEANUT POLITICS.

The attempt to inject politics into the question of wage reductions indicates a paucity of party issues and the desperation of the Democrats in trying to find a new point of attack against the administration. No one favors wage cuts. There has been no general lowering of wages. It is well known that there have been specific instances in this prolonged depression in which individual concerns have found it necessary to cut wages. But such examples are not as remarkable as the resolution of many great organizations to maintain wages even after drastic retrenchment has been ordered in all other expenditures.

The early efforts of President Hoover to impress upon industrial leaders the necessity of such a policy and the constantly reiterated attitude of the administration in support of maintaining a high standard of living for American labor have been a powerful influence in averting a wage slump. The demands of organized labor have not been more insistent than those emanating from the White House, and the executives in control of the great operating companies have added their loyal support.

Secretary Lamont in a recent letter sustaining this general course expressed regret that in some special cases a factory might reach the alternative, after all other expedients had been exhausted, of reducing wages or shutting down and throwing its entire force out of work. After nearly two years of lowered market demands it is not surprising that such instances occur among the more than 200,000 manufacturing establishments of the United States. Department of Labor reports just issued indicate, in fact, that 25,000 workers were affected by wage reductions during June. But that is a small proportion of the 10,000,000 employed in manufacturing industries.

The Democratic national committee's publicity bureau, desperate for critical material in recent weeks, grasped the Lamont "confession" as a rescue straw. It seems more likely to become the one straw to break the back of their argument. The attempt to make such a frank acknowledgment of simple fact indicate a change of attitude on the part of the administration, a weakening by the President on the general policy of maintaining wages, is begging the question in petty terms of party politics. It is surprising that Representative Jack Garner would allow his name to be attached to the Democratic committee's attempt to capitalize this trivial incident. Has it come to a point where the Democrats must resort to gross misrepresentation to make an impression on the public? Such futile attacks upon the administration succeed only in making the critics ridiculous.

CAPONE'S CHANGE OF PLEA.

The public will find it difficult to understand why Judge James H. Wilkerson, of Chicago, allowed "Scarface" Al Capone to change his plea to a charge of evading the income tax law. Capone had admitted his guilt in open court. His attorney says the only reason he did so was because the Government's prosecutor had agreed to recommend leniency. Apparently Judge Wilkerson allowed him to change his plea because he had been promised something that was not within the power of the prosecutor to deliver. Responsibility for the whole muddled affair seems to fall upon the prosecutor, who attempted to take the administration of justice into his own hands.

The law grants many safeguards to accused individuals. If they plead guilty under a misapprehension the court may allow them to reverse their plea and stand trial. It is better that Capone should be tried for his actual offenses against the Government than that the prosecutor and defendant should be allowed to arrange for his punishment by mutual compromise. Such tactics become a mockery to justice. The courts are no place for bargaining. Either Capone is guilty or he is not. If so, he deserve a severe sentence for persistent violation of the law. If not, there should be no excuse for sending him to prison at all.

Judge Wilkerson evidently does not think much of the indictment of Capone on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act. A new Federal grand jury has been instructed to review the case, with a view to bringing more drastic charges against Capone. If the jury should change the indictment Capone will have to enter a new plea, and thus the question of being allowed to change his plea in the liquor case may not arise.

The reaction of the public to further delay in this case will probably be one of disgust. Capone has escaped the toils of the law for so long that his reputed immunity has an extremely unfavorable influence upon law enforcement. Yet it is well that he was not allowed to bargain with the court for a light sentence. The Government can not afford to compromise with crime on any terms.

Only one course is now open to the Department of Justice. It should prosecute this case with the utmost vigor until the ends of justice have been served.

Prof. John Dewey, head of the Peoples' Lobby, is organizing a committee to end conditions which create "Reds." The first blow ought to be struck at the dear professor and the second at his lobby.

Marriages fell off 8.5 per cent in the United States last year. It's encouraging to find some field in which there was no overproduction.

Oklahoma has its bridge war, Washington its taxicab war, Nebraska its fight with grasshoppers and Chicago its gang warfare, but Alabama still has Tom Heflin.

Lindy stopped in New York to fix his radio while less experienced pilots rushed on to break records. Better be safe than sorry.

THE FEDERAL CITY

By LIEUT. COL. U. S. GRANT 3D, Executive Officer, National Capital Park and Planning Commission, in the American Civic Annual.

"It is our national ambition to make a great and effective city for the seat of our Government, with a dignity, character and symbolism truly representative of America. As a Nation we have resolved that it shall be accomplished." From the President this statement gave the greatest encouragement to all those engaged in the work of developing the National Capital, and by this statement President Hoover squarely announced himself as the successor of George Washington and as ready to carry on the work inaugurated by his predecessor, with an even fuller understanding of the helpful part sound city planning might play.

During the last six years there has been one of those revivals of interest in the National Capital, which have occurred from time to time, to prevent this representative city of America, which began so well with a thoroughly thought-out plan, from falling into the haphazard growth, inspired solely by the energy of selfish interests greedy to draw the greatest immediate profit from every opportunity, which has spoiled so many of our larger cities and has deprived life in them of the amenities and social benefits that alone make life worth living. A long succession of persons and agencies, including many able officials of the Government and members of both houses of Congress, have striven through the years to achieve this purpose, with varying success, but without assurance that their efforts would endure. Such a great achievement as the plan of 1901, made by the Nation's foremost artists and city planners, so convincing as to secure the individual adoption and execution of some of its most outstanding features, had waited a quarter of a century without being given legislative sanction as a whole, and because of changes in transportation and building construction and architectural style, was by way of being relegated to the dead files of the Government, just another "scrap of paper." The efforts of individual officials, such as the officers in charge of public buildings and grounds, and of even such a highly considered governmental agency as the Commission of Fine Arts, had been unable to achieve systematic and persistent execution of the plan as a whole until conditions had so changed as manifestly to call for its revision and being brought up to date to meet modern requirements.

By the formation of a National Capital Park and Planning Commission in 1926, at the urgent request of the American Civic Association, the American Institute of Architects, the American City Planning Institute, the American Society of Civil Engineers and many other national organizations in cooperation with the director of public buildings and public parks, Congress gave legislative sanction to the part city planning is to play in guiding the development of Washington and provided a continuing agency to see that the Capital's growth should be controlled by the country's best knowledge and experience.

In Washington, even more than elsewhere, the trouble has been not so much due to a lack of plans but to the quality of planning and to the difficulty found in coordinating the projects fostered by a great multitude of governmental, semipublic and private agencies, so that work undertaken for the benefit of one set of interests should not ignore or stultify the development of others equally important to the city as a whole. Such projects were only too apt to be drafted to serve a particular purpose, without thought or study of their effect on other interests, and railroaded through Congress without a full presentation.

Without any authority for executive action, except to buy land for parks and playgrounds and to pass on changes in the highway plan, the commission's work has, therefore, been largely one of securing cooperation and coordination of effort among all persons engaged in adding to the structure of the city and its environs. Wisely, Congress had included in the duties with which the commission was charged by law the making of plans for the city and environs, and the making of recommendations in connection therewith to all the proper executive officers, thus making it the representative of the National Capital in connection with all questions relating to planning and developing the rapidly growing suburbs in Maryland and Virginia.

JUST FOLKS

NARROW VISION.

There was a man, a goodly man,
Who loved the right and true,
He could not see how men could be
So wicked, through and through
And find delight both day an night
In things he wouldn't do.

Upon himself he kept an eye
So watchful and alert
That circumstances nor careless chance,
Nor fancy could assert
In any hour their dreadful power
To cause him lasting hurt.

"I'll save my soul at any cost!"
This good man often cried;
"On sinners vile I will not smile,
I'll walk the world in pride,
Correct and sure, no whim or lure Shall make me step aside."

He stayed aloof from worldly men,
With rigid self-control,
He frowned away all mirth and play,
Hoping at Heaven's goal,
When life had passed, to come at last
A pure, untarnished soul.

I hold no brief for wrong and sin,
Nor years in folly spent
But blocks of wood are just as good
As men on safety bent;
Nor can I think so small to shrink
The soul was ever meant.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

At your age, nothing else in the world seems quite so important as romance.

It is your nature and your heritage to dream of a perfect man, young, handsome, brave and tender, who will have eyes for you alone.

It is the age-old dream of maidens, harmless while it remains a dream, but containing a subtle and treacherous element of danger.

The danger lies in the power of imagination.

Dreaming is pleasant, but it isn't enough. Impatience begins to suggest ways to make the dream come true.

And in her eagerness to make the dream come true, a girl loses sight of reality and trusts her imagination.

And because she wishes to love and be loved, she imagines herself wooed and won by the runt when as a matter of fact she isn't in love with anything at all except the adventure of being in love.

And because she is a poor little simpleton so blinded by love of romance that she can't tell the difference between a snow-white stallion and a rusty flivver, she doesn't realize quite what she is doing until she wakes up some morning and finds herself married to some little shrimp who hasn't wit enough to earn his own cigarette money.

Perhaps you are in no danger of spoiling your life by any such idlocy, but a word of warning will do you no harm.

The thing to keep in mind is that nobody except a moron signs a contract until he understands its terms, and marriage is a contract.

The terms will depend on the kind of fellow you marry, and the only way to understand the terms is to understand the fellow.

No matter how long or well people know one another they discover many things in the intimacy of marriage that they never suspected.

That risk must be run by all.

But any girl of sound sense can take the measure of a man in a year's time—and any girl who marries on shorter acquaintance is taking her big leap in the dark.

The only way to judge a young man fairly is to see him often among his own people, for there he feels at ease and acts himself.

There his selfishness and ill manners will appear, if he is that kind of fellow; and as he treats his own kith and kin, so he will treat the girl he marries.

The fellow who treats you as though you were a princess may be a selfish, spoiled and inconsiderate whelp who will make his wife a servant and howl when she asks for a dime.

Don't let love of romance blind you, my dear. Take your time and walk warily. And give your lad no answer until you see how he treats his mother and sisters when he isn't on parade.

Love,
DAD.

Opposition for Huey Long.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

The comparative political calm that has prevailed in Louisiana since Gov. Huey P. Long won his sensational victory in the senatorial race last year has been broken by the outburst on the part of Senator Broussard against the action of Long in continuing to hold the office of governor after he had been elected as a senator.

The outgivings from Senator Long's colleague seem to have been the greater shock to the senator-governor by reason of the fact that Broussard hitherto has been regarded as a stanch supporter of the Long cause in Louisiana. Now comes Senator Broussard with the intelligence that he doesn't like the Long slate for State officers, and furthermore, he thinks that when a man is elected to the Senate, he ought to quit the political job he already holds and be a senator.

To all of which Senator-Gov. Long gives the crushing reply that if it had not been for him Broussard never would have gotten into the Senate. This may be slightly unconvincing to the outsider as to why Long can hold two offices at once, but doubtless it satisfies the average Louisianan.

Senators and Gangsters.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

When "Diamond Joe" Esposito was buried with the pomp peculiar to gangsters and bootleggers, Senator Deneen, of Illinois, went from Washington to Chicago to be present. It was an act which brought him a great deal of criticism and later, when he ran for renomination, turned many votes against him, thereby contributing to his defeat. Now the voters of Illinois are confronted with the information that Senator Glenn, elected to fill out the term denied Frank L. Smith, secured an important Federal appointment for Clarence F. Buck, Illinois politician who interceded for Jack Guzik, reputed business manager for Al Capone. How this news takes with the people of Illinois can best be told next year when Senator Glenn becomes a candidate to succeed himself. Our guess is that it is about as pleasing as Senator Deneen's homage at the bier of the underworld leader who died with 50 shotgun slugs in his body.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Vigilante Urges Citizens to Organize and Cooperate With Police to Exterminate Gangsters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The murder of a 5-year-old boy and the wounding of four other children by gangsters in New York should make the citizens of that metropolis burn with shame. When sifted down this outrage to society is the fault of the citizens. Some individuals hold the theory that when gangster kills gangster it is a benefit to society. The theory is wrong, for with such a practice in existence it is inevitable innocent bystanders will be slaughtered. Five small children are now the victims of lead slugs intended for a gangster.

The citizens of New York should rise en masse and put a stop to these outrages. It is the citizens who really permit such horrible conditions to exist. Citizens can aid in uncovering and report all offenses of bribery. Citizens can purge corrupt courts. Citizens can rid this country of the gangster. The law-abiding citizens greatly outnumber the gangsters. With good American courage this mass of law-abiding citizens can put the gangsters behind prison bars or exterminate them.

The entire New York police and detective force is searching for the perpetrators of this horrible crime, but the police alone are unable to cope with the gangsters. There must be cooperation between the police and the citizens. The gangsters have many citizens cowed to such an extent that they are afraid to give the police information which might aid in the apprehension of the guilty. Citizens should organize and cooperate with the police. It is the gangsters who should be cowed by the people.

History Is Quoted for Gov. Ritchie; American Commerce Extended to All World Even in Washington's Day.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, in saying our day of isolation is over, forgets or ignores his history. For instance, we quote from C. A. Beard's "Rise of American Civilization:" "The revolution wrought by steam and machinery * * * widened the borders of economic empire by the extension of American commerce to the Far Pacific * * * The very year after Cornwallis surrendered to Washington at Yorktown the Empress of China * * * sailed from New York to Canton * * * Before the fathers completed the framing of the Constitution, at least nine voyages had been made to the Far East by enterprising Yankees.

"In the year of Washington's inauguration ten ships from Salem plowed the waters of the Indian Ocean * * * American captains were at home in the ports of Java, Sumatra, Siam, India and the Philippines * * * In 1797, the date of his retirement to Mount Vernon, a crew of 30 boys, the oldest of them not over 28, took the Betsy, a boat of less than 100 tons, on a voyage around the world by way of the Horn, Canton and Good Hope, netting on an outlay of about $8,000 the net profit of $120,000. These events, recalled by Beard, took place at the very moment, almost, when Washington delivered his Farewell Address, warning his countrymen against foreign entanglements.

GROVER W. AYERS.

Writer Suggests That One Way to Solve Prison Problem Is to Pass Fewer Fanatical Laws.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Wickersham report revealing conditions existing in our prisons is worthy of study and contemplation by all thoughtful citizens.

We read in your estimable paper a communication from an officer of a prison society stating that in a period of 50 years the prisons will solve their own problems. Why wait 50 years? At the present rate of increase in crime, prisons will not be needed, for crime and its cohorts will have become so rampant, that nothing decent will be able to survive.

No, we can not afford to let the prisons work out their own salvation. A remedy must be forthcoming and that immediately.

First, let us put a stop to intolerance and fanaticism which are large contributors to our prisons. Let our senators and representatives vote as their conscience dictates and not from expediency.

What our country needs today is a little more old-fashioned honesty, a renewing of the mind through spiritual channels, a rugged courage which is able to say "yes" and mean it and vice versa.

We are rapidly losing the virtues and inheritance of character left us by our forefathers and unless we reclaim them, a deeper plunge into the "Slough of Despond" is in store.

Subscriber Hopes That Low Taxi Fares May Bring About Reduction in Street Car Rates.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is my opinion and the opinion of many others that the public has and will continue to benefit even though the minimum taxi fare is to be 25 cents. It is amusing, if not ludicrous, to listen to the plaints of the street car companies about the taxis making inroads upon their revenues.

The car system is a public utility, and as such, should be operated for the benefit and convenience of the public, the stockholders to the contrary notwithstanding. It savors of "rubbing it in" that the public is required to pay a 10-cent carfare without universal transfers. It was a mistake in the first place to allow the increase, for the Public Utilities Commission must surely have known the public would rebel. All power to the taxis, for it may mean better service and a more equitable carfare.

Doaks Head Hoover List At Rapidan

Presidential Party Quits Capital for Week-End Rest at Camp.

The President and Mrs. Hoover left Washington yesterday afternoon for their Rapidan camp, taking with them a group of guests for the week-end. Secretary of Labor and Mrs. William N. Doak headed the list of week-end visitors, the others including Representative Parker, of New York, and Mrs. Parker; Representative Free, of California, and Mrs. Free; Will Irwin, novelist and special writer, and Mrs. Irwin; E. A. Yost, special examiner of the Radio Commission, and Mrs. Yost, vice chairman of the Republican national committee in charge of women's activities; Mrs. Marie Brown Meloney, New York editor; Thomas E. Campbell, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, and Jay Hayden, Washington correspondent of the Detroit News, and Mrs. Hayden.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Nesbit, who have been staying at the Farragut Hotel, Rye Beach, N. H., since the middle of July, will leave August 15 for Sugar Hill, in the White Mountains, where they will spend the remainder of the season, returning to Washington October 1.

North Hatley Draws Capital Folk.

North Hatley, that picturesque Canadian resort, boasts an interesting summer colony from Washington this season. Recent recruits to the group there are Mrs. John J. Whelan and her young son, John J. Whelan, jr., who will leave for Canada on Wednesday, and the former Norwegian Minister to the United States, Mr. Hjalmar Bryn and Mme. Bryn.

Mrs. Whelan will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lee Stuart, of Essex Fells, N. J., who have spent the summer in North Hatley for many seasons. Mr. Bryn, now Norwegian Consul General in Montreal, and Mme. Bryn will also go there early this month to join their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Winslow, of Washington, who have a cottage there for the season. Miss Inger Bryn is already the guest of her brother-in-law and sister.

Other Washingtonians at the resort are Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Parker, jr., and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Ash Claytor, and their daughter, Miss Louise Claytor. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Scott 3d are contemplating a visit there.

Little has been heard of the Bryns since their residence in Washington. After leaving the Capital about a year ago, Miss Inger Bryn lived for a time in New York, but more recently she has been making her home with her parents in Montreal. Miss Bryn and Mrs. Winslow, formerly Miss Laura Bryn, grew up in Washington in their father's long period of service here, and were belles in the diplomatic as well as the residential group in their debutante days. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Winslow resided on Lanier place, but more recently they moved to Georgetown.

Stanleys Entertain Prior to Wedding.

Capt. Emory Day Stanley, U. S. N., and Mrs. Stanley, of Lansdowne, Pa., entertained yesterday at dinner following the wedding rehearsal of their daughter, Miss Katherine Stanley, and Lieut. Frank Virden, U. S. N., whose marriage will take place today.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson entertained informally at dinner on the Shoreham terrace on Thursday evening.

Senator Robert F. Wagner and Representative Robert Low Bacon, of New York, were guests Thursday evening at the Long Island-Florida dinner given at the Canoe Palace Inn at Southampton Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith also was a guest.

Stotesburys Entertain Naval Officers.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury gave a large reception yesterday afternoon at their summer home, Wingwood House, near Bar Harbor, for the visiting naval officers.

Mrs. William V. Pratt, wife of the chief of naval operations, U. S. N., is spending a few days in New York, at the Savoy-Plaza, having gone there from her summer home, Primrose Hill, Belfast, Me.

Miss Anne Randolph and her sister, Miss Mary Randolph, who are making a series of visits in the mountains of New England, will go to Newport later in the season.

Lieut. Col. Morris E. Locke, U. S. A., is at Lenox in the Berkshires.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Carr, who are spending the summer at East Hampton, Long Island, entertained a company of 25 at dinner last evening at the Devon Yacht Club.

Minister of Panama Host to Sister.

The Minister of Panama and Senora de Arias will have as their guest for a few days the former's sister, Mrs. C. A. McIlvaine, wife of the executive secretary of the Canal Zone, who arrived yesterday from New York.

Mr. John A. Manning, of Wilmington, N. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Manning, of Washington, is visiting his parents at their summer home in South River Park, Md. Miss Elizabeth Hines, of Wilmington, N. C., and Miss Ann Brown, of Rocky Point, N. C., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Manning this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Coleman Fishback left Washington yesterday for a month's holiday in Santa Fe, N. Mex., where they will be the guests of Mrs. Fishback's parents.

Maj. Robert C. Goetz, U. S. A., and Mrs. Goetz, who have been guests of Mr. William Phelps Eno at Judah Rock, Saugatuck, Conn., are in New York. They will sail shortly for Brussels, where Maj. Goetz will take up his duties as military attache at the American Embassy.

Justice and Mrs. Oscar Luhring will leave today for their former home in Evansville, Ind., for a short stay before going to St. Jovite in the Province of Quebec, Canada, where they will be at Grey Rocks Inn. Justice and Mrs. Luhring will return to Washington in October.

Senator Bronson Cutting, of Santa Fe, N. Mex., will sail today on the Ile de France for Europe, where he will spend several weeks. Also sailing on the Ile de France for a sojourn abroad are Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wilkins.

Will Go Abroad

Harris & Ewing.

MRS. EUGENE MEYER, Jr., wife of the governor of the Federal Reserve Board, will sail on Monday for England. She will be accompanied by her daughters, Miss Elizabeth Meyer and Miss Catherine Meyer.

Former Navy Man Marries Miss Overley

Comdr. E. Langworthy Will Take Bride to New York City.

The wedding of Miss Carolyn Overley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Overley, of Louisville, Ky., and Lieut. Comdr. Elmer de Loss Langworthy, U. S. N., took place yesterday in the home of the bride's cousins, Commander Stuart S. Brown, U. S. N., and Mrs. Brown, the Rev. Irving W. Ketchum, assistant pastor of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, officiating. At the noon hour the guests assembled for the wedding, the group including only the members of the two families and a few friends. Commander Langworthy is the son of Mrs. Elmer de Loss Langworthy, of Minnesota, and the late Mr. Langworthy.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a gown of white satin gracefully molded to her figure and having a long train. The bodice was nnished at the neckline and had long fitted sleeves. Her tulle veil was arranged in cap effect and held by orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Hine, wife of Capt. William Hine, U. S. N., of Newport, was matron of honor and had a costume of figured chiffon in shades of yellow and brown, made with flaring skirt and short sleeves. With this she wore a widebrimmed Leghorn hat trimmed with brown and a corsage bouquet of gardenias. Commander Archibald Sterling, U. S. N., was best man.

An informal wedding breakfast followed for those who witnessed the ceremony, Mrs. Brown receiving the guests, assisted by Mrs. Overley, mother of the bride.

Later in the day Commander and Mrs. Langworthy left on a wedding trip, and on its completion will make their home in New York, where Commander Langworthy, having resigned from the Navy, will take up a business career. The bride, who is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Overley, was educated in private schools in Louisville, and is a graduate from the Ogontz School, in Pennsylvania. Commander Langworthy is a graduate of the Naval Academy, at Annapolis, and is a direct descendant of Andrew Langworthy, who settled in Newport in 1653.

Commander Langworthy was at one time attached to the U. S. S. Mayflower at Washington, when the craft was the President's yacht, and he was also an aid at the White House. He was in command of the U. S. S. Goff when that ship was detailed to meet Col. Charles Augustus Lindbergh off the Virginia Capes when the "Lone Eagle" returned from his famous flight to Paris. Commander Langworthy is a member of the Army and Navy Country Club, the Congressional Country Club and the Racquet Club in Washington, the New York Yacht Club and the Philadelphia Country Club and the Racquet Club of the Quaker City.

Representative and Mrs. Frank B. Bohn have as their guest at their home in Newberry, Mich., Miss Peggy Hauber.

Miss Ameda Sykes and Miss Esther Hauber are the guests of the former's mother at her home in Linden, Va.

Adams Leaves Capital For Week of Yachting

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Adams of the Navy left Washington last night to spend a week at his summer home near North Scituate, Mass. He planned to devote himself to his favorite pastime of yachting.

The Secretary has taken no other vacation thus far this summer except for occasional week-end visits to North Scituate.

Memorial to Navy Victory In War of 1812 Dedicated

Put-in-Bay, Ohio, July 31 (A.P.).—A group of American and Canadian dignitaries steamed out in Lake Erie today to the spot where Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry triumphed over the British 118 years ago and dedicated a memorial both to the victory and the peace which followed.

Represenatives of the United States, Canada, the States which helped erect the monument and others united in a triple commemoration of Perry's victory, the northwest campaign of Gen. Harrison in the war of 1812, and the Bush-Bagot treaty, which provided for the disarmament along the Canadian border.

The official party of 100 was carried from Sandusky to this village on South Bass Island aboard the U. S. S. Wilmington. Standing on the platform of the 352-foot granite shaft, they overlooked the site of the battle, the first in which an American fleet defeated the British.

The principal addresses were made by Govs. George White of Ohio and Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois. Case R. Howard, president of the Canadian Club of New York, spoke briefly.

A message from President Hoover was read, in which he said: "The dedication is an event of more than national interest and significance, and also commemorates a pioneer step in the maintenance of peace through disarmament.

"The Rush-Bagot treaty which followed this war provided for the permanent limitation of armaments maintained by the two nations on the Great Lakes. It stands not only as a symbol of victory at arms, but marks the establishment, for the first time in history, of the principle of disarmament in the policy of nations as a preventative of war.

"It is particularly appropriate that a table reproducing the Rush-Bagot agreement should be unveiled at the dedication. It comes at a time when the nations of the world are seeking solution of their common problems through cooperation and disarmament."

Misses Meyer To Go Abroad With Mother

Elizabeth, This Autumn, Will Enter Munich University.

Taking a little time for play, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, jr., of Washington and New York, artist, writer, politician, will set sail for England in a day or two and will go from there to Germany a little later. Mrs. Meyer will be accompanied by her daughters, Miss Elizabeth Meyer and Miss Catherine Meyer, the former now making plans to enter the University of Munich this fall.

Checking up the vast number of "jobs" which engage the time of the busy family of the governor of the Federal Reserve Board, their friends wonder sometimes how even the summer brings any hours of play. For there is nothing of the dilettante about Mrs. Meyer. If society is necessarily an important phase of her life, she takes the dual role of wife and mother quite seriously.

Mrs. Meyer's days are divided between her social duties, her family, her art and her devotion to politics. There is her all-engrossing collection of Chinese porcelains and there is her writing. And winter and summer her interest in music finds outlet in the opera presented at White Plains, N. Y., where, with Mr. Otto H. Kahn, director of the Metropolitan Opera Company, she was instrumental in bringing to a reality the ambitious plan of opera for the suburbs.

Imbued with ambition like their mother the daughters of the Meyer family have elected to go to college although sandwiching in at holiday time the festivities of the debutante set. Miss Elizabeth Meyer's selection of the University of Munich to top off her courses at Vassar are quite in line with the serious devotion to things worth while of this "little daughter of the rich."

Although gaiety reigned at the debut party of Miss Meyer last December when Mr. and Mrs. Meyer presented their daughter at their Washington home the pretty bud was eager, friends declared, to return to her studies and evidence of her academic "turn of mind" comes now with the decision to enter one of Germany's renowned universities.

Miss Florence Meyer, who made her debut several years ago, attended Bryn Mawr, later going to Radcliffe as an exchange student, an honor prized by all Bryn Mawr girls fortunate enough to win it.

The Meyers play, like they work, with concentration. While Miss Meyer's objective is a group of courses in Germany's excellent university, doubtless Mrs. Meyer and Miss Catherine Meyer have ideas and plans unannounced which will find their development perhaps in the art galleries and music centers of Europe and their outlet in the Washington and Mount Kisco homes.

Bostonian Will Marry Miss Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, of Belvoir House, The Plains, Va., have announced the engagement of their niece, Miss Mary Harrison, of Millbank, Lockerbie, Scotland, to Mr. John Irton Wylde, of Boston. The marriage will take place in Scotland on August 29.

Miss Harrison, who is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Harrison, has spent much time with Mr. and Mrs. Fairfax Harrison in their Virginia home. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Burton Harrison, of New York. Her grandmother was a notable writer, her works appearing both under the name of Mrs. Burton Harrison and Constance Cary Harrison.

Miss Harrison's father for many years lived in Scotland. After the wedding Mr. Wylde and his bride will make their home in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman and Miss Laura Wolcott Tuckerman have as their guests at their cottage in Shinnecock Hills, Long Island, Miss Helen de Peyster and Mr. J. Sheridan Blays, of Washington, and Mr. James Todd, of New York.

Modernized Ships Will Go to Pacific

(Associated Press.)

Newly modernized at a total cost of $14,800,000, the battleships Pennsylvania and Arizona will leave Hampton Roads, Va., today to rejoin the battle force on the West Coast after two years on the East Coast.

Upon their arrival at San Pedro, Calif., August 29, the Pennsylvania will replace the Texas as flagship of the United States Fleet. The Arizona will be assigned to battleship division 3.

Their appearance and strength as fighting ships were completely changed by modernization. Basket masts were replaced by tripod masts, guns were elevated, and new fire control apparatus was installed. Deck, waterline and torpedo protection was increased and new turbines were installed.

A SPARKLING DEFENSE.

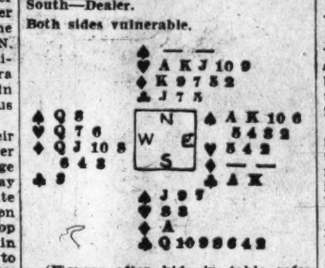
In chess the greatest masters are those who can fathom the endless complexities of that game and see what the future has in store if a certain line of play is decided upon. In Contract, when the defense is difficult or the play of the Dummy and the closed hand anything more than elementary, the same qualities stamp the player as great, average or mediocre.

The master player is the one who, in the test of actual combat, can find the way to make what appears to be an unmakeable contract. Equally, the master player on defense shows his title to mastership by discovering the only possible plan to defeat what appears to be a sure game.

Contract is much more than a game of Aces and Kings, important as these honors are. If that were all there were to the game then the public would soon tire as it would not present the endless variety which adds spice to games, as it does to life.

In today's hand the question of defense is uppermost. The play of the Declarer is forced, Wooden defense or, in fact, anything but the most expert defense, would result in a game and rubber. Thus it was not strange that when this hand went down, the Declarer felt that his troubles were over.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♥	4♠ (1)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Apparently East needs to find only 1 trick in his partner's hand to make certain the game and rubber. Of course, he does not consider a Slam as a possibility in view of his partner's pass and the Third Hand vulnerable bid by his opponent in the North.

Mr. Charles P. Cadley, one of the strongest Contract players in the world, was seated South and upon him rested the responsibility of making an adequate defense or rather building up a defense that was bound to win against almost everything the Declarer could do, provided only North cooperated. In response to his partner's bid, Mr. Cadley opened his highest heart, a small heart was played from Dummy and North won the trick with the Knave. Two more rounds of hearts were taken and on the third round South was faced with the selection of a discard. Average play would be to throw a small club, trusting to the kindness of the Gods of Chance that East held at least one diamond and that the diamond Ace would make the fourth and setting trick for the defense. Mr. Cadley, however, was not an average player. The length of the diamond suit in the Dummy, coupled with East's bid, made it probable that East held no diamonds at all. If that were true, then the diamond Ace was of no more importance than the diamond deuce would have been, but if the diamond Ace were not in the hand and North could be induced to lead a diamond, then, regardless of what East did, South must make one spade trick and thus defeat the contract.

In far less time than it has taken to describe this play, Mr. Cadley determined upon his course. When the third round of hearts was led and East followed, he discarded the diamond Ace. After this discard North could do nothing but lead a diamond. East ruffed, as a matter of course, but he knew his goose was cooked and the sauce with which it was served was not at all to his liking.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The Value of the Average Hand in Tricks.

In each suit, an Ace, a King, a Queen and a Knave, or one-fourth of total higher honors is the average share of each player before the hands are seen. Such an average hand is worth 1 trick for the Ace, and 1 trick for the King and Queen in different suits with a Knave as a "plus" value, making in all 2 honor-tricks plus a Knave—which is the working equivalent of the average hand in terms of honor tricks. This basic assumption furnishes the player with a simple yardstick to measure the relative honor strength of any hand and through honor-tricks assists materially in estimating the game or penalty expectancy of any bid.

Imogene Wilson Files Petition in Bankruptcy

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—Imogene Wilson, the showgirl who became Mary Nolan of the movies, today filed a petition of voluntary bankruptcy, listing liabilities of $92,796.03 and assets of $2,998.

Among creditors listed are Universal Pictures Corporation, Dr. E. C. Fischbough, the Good Samaritan Hospital, Dr. C. T. Surgeon and Dr. Harold Van Meter, all of Hollywood. The St. Moritz Hotel, where Miss Nolan resides with her husband, Wallace T. MacCrery, jr., a broker, also is listed for a debt of $750.

Infantile Paralysis Increase Is Reported

(Associated Press.)

The Public Health Service yesterday reported 307 cases of infantile paralysis for the week ending July 25 as against 221 for the corresponding week last year.

Of the 1931 total, 204 were in New York State as against 15 for the corresponding week of 1930. New York City's total was 195. Other States reporting more than 10 cases were Massachusetts, 16; Connecticut, 11; New Jersey, 14, and Illinois, 12.

Art Interprets the Mode

New York, July 31.

HO-HUM! there is nothing new under the sun—noddings, noddings. Tummies? Pouf! Old stuff, my deah—why, tummies have been in fashion in certain parts of the world, and very civilized parts, for centuries.

Maybe leaving a lovely lady's tummie exposed to the beneficial rays of the sun or electric lights is rather new in this part of the world, but it's nothing to be shocked over—backs, why not fronts?

Tummie-less bathing suits, and now tummieless sleeping togs! Some very daring lounging pyjamas, too, and soon—shh-h-h-h, a wee little bit of tummie in evening gowns, maybe! At the moment, we are sufficiently delighted with tummie-less sleeping things to have no need to speculate further.

There's an example sketched for you today—and isn't it cute? It's also the very latest, dahr-lings.

These new nightgowns and pyjamas for sleeping and lounging take the bolero and trouser or skirt form of the Turkish ladies, more often than not. Sometimes the upper part of the figure is covered with a brassiere-like sheath, instead of a bolero. Then the skirt or trousers hang from wherever the natural waistline of the wearer is supposed to be.

Well, whatever would your dear Dah-ray do about all of this for you? Nothing less than design the darling-ist ensemble you ever saw, no-o-o-o tummie and all. Of course, you can make a top to it if you wish, and still have a delightful set. The idea is a bolero that can be worn with a darling, full skirt tied with a sash at the waist, for sleeping, and the same bolero, worn with, guess? Lace pyjama trousers, for breakfast! The bolero is all-over lace, and the whole three-piece ensemble is the easiest thing to make you can imagine! Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for the illustrated directions, and see, for yourself—and make for yourself.

I just happened to think that I found it fatal to send a felt hat to the cleaners—to the extent of the utter ruination of my favorite hat for which I'd paid foolishly much! 'N' when I told the French-maid-who-was-Spanish about it, she didn't sympathize at all! She said I should have known better. So-o-o-o-o, I asked her what she would have done in a case like that, and she said she would have stuffed the hat with newspaper to keep it in shape, and then she'd have brushed it well with a stiff brush to get out the loose dirt, and then have dipped a lintless cloth in any of those refined gasoline preparations, such as naphtha, and gone over the hat, in a circular motion, beginning at the peak of the crown and working out to the edge of the brim. 'N' then, she said she'd go over the hat three times just the same way—and the hat would be cleaned just like new and preserve its stunning girlish shape!

Last call for the needle workers, crochet and sewing, of America to get Dare's illustrated leaflet telling all about the milyun-dollar hand touches that they can make. We're just waiting for ten more stamped, self-addressed envelopes sent to the Dare department of The Washington Post to send out our ten last leaflets in return!

• • • •

And then there's the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post. Watch for it.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE only radio commissioner at present in the Capital, Judge Eugene O. Sykes, is having things all his own way at the commission these days. A Southerner, from Mississippi, the judge likes this nice cool Washington summer climate.

The Radio Commission has been constantly turning down applications from stations that are on the air during the daytime for limited hours, which apply for an hour or two extra to broadcast certain special events.

However, at a meeting of the Radio Commission yesterday, attended only by himself, Judge Sykes took under consideration an application from station WPTF, of Raleigh, N. C., which made a special plea for two hours' extra evening time to broadcast a North Carolina debutante ball. The judge, after convening with himself, broke all precedences by granting the application.

Here's hoping that Sol Bloom's plug for George M. Cohan's new song written especially for the George Washington Bicentennial, which composition has not yet been heard over the radio, is justified, but it brings to mind the fact that such musical pieces written to order for special occasions never amount to much.

Commenting upon this, John Philip Sousa, once said that he believed the only composition dedicated to an exposition which ever lived was his, "King Cotton" march inspired by a cotton exposition of that day.

TWO familiar faces at the Ziegfeld Follies' opening in New York were Alfred J. ("Hollywood") McCosker, director of Station WOR, Newark, and Frederic William Wile, of Washington. As the performance progressed, there was one scene in which six elephants entered. Each elephant carried on his tusks a beautiful Follies girl, lightly clothed even for this season.

Gazing at the girls on the elephants' tusks, "Hollywood" leaned over to Wile and said: "I'd call that 'tickling the ivories.'"

On the theory that people are not as likely to listen to speeches or addresses over the radio in summertime as they are in cooler weather, Columbia has generally been cutting down on time of this character, particularly in the Washington studios.

Over in Africa people get up at 1:30 o'clock in the morning to hear Amos 'n' Andy, according to a letter received from a group of United Presbyterian missionaries in Ethiopia. Miss Viola Bayne, a Pittsburgh girl, writes that many Americans in that part of the world listen regularly to the blackface team, getting the program by way of KDKA's shortwave stations.

A friend asked Col. Stoopnagle: "What do you think of television?" • • • Just then the blonde Harriet Lee, Columbia contralto, passed by. • • • "I don't know much about it," returned Stoopnagle, "but I can certainly tell-a-vision when I see one."

A featured soloist tonight will be Mildred Hunt, contralto (WRC, 8:30 o'clock).

An all-Hungarian program is to be played by Erno Rapee's Concert Orchestra (WRC, 8 p. m.).

An all-Downey program will be broadcast during the regular period tonight (WMAL, 6:45 o'clock).

When Kate Smith went to high school here she substituted a domestic science course for one in music. She has never had a singing lesson.

"Gentlemen — Congratulations: As I was riding on top of a Fifth avenue bus today I heard a lady say to her children 'That's the National Broadcasting station.' The children gazed in awe at the designated building. It was the New York Public Library."

FROM the Toledo Blade:

"Ho, hum! We hardly know what cigar to tune in on this evening."

2 chickens (3 pounds)
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
4 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons hot water

Wash chickens and cut into serving pieces. Store in ice box until ready to cook. Roll in flour, sprinkle with salt and paprika. Heat fat and butter in frying pan, add chicken and brown quickly. Cover with lid. Cook fifteen minutes over low fire. Add water and cover. Cook until very tender, about 25 minutes.

Cream Gravy.

2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ cup cream
½ cup water
½ teaspoon salt

Remove chicken from frying pan and add butter to drippings. Add flour, blend well. Add rest of ingredients. Cook slowly and stir constantly until gravy thickens.

Raspberry Tarts.

6 small pastry cases
18 strips pastry
2½ cups red raspberries
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter

Mix berries, sugar, flour, juice and cinnamon. Pour into unbaked pastry cases. Dot with butter and criss-cross pastry strips across the tops. Bake twenty minutes in moderate oven. Top with whipped cream or ice cream.

Leftover peanut butter can be shaped into small balls and used with diced celery for salad.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Senusky

PASS THE BUCK

IN VARIOUS CARD GAMES A COUNTER IS PLACED BEFORE THE DEALER AND PASSED BY HIM TO THE NEXT DEALER TO PREVENT MISTAKES. THIS OBJECT IS CALLED THE BUCK, AND IT GIVES US THIS THIS SLANG EXPRESSION TO MEAN THROWING THE BLAME OR RESPONSIBILITY.

"YE" USED FOR "THE"

IN THE ANGLO-SAXON LANGUAGE THE SYMBOL Þ (CALLED "THORN") WAS PRONOUNCED "TH." IT LATER WAS REPRESENTED BY THE ENGLISH LETTER Y, BUT "YE" WAS ALWAYS PRONOUNCED "THE" BY OUR ANCESTORS A MODERN ERROR GIVES IT THE Y SOUND.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

AN INCAPABLE PEOPLE.

ONE of the most astounding demonstrations of the inability of a people to govern themselves has just come to light in a report found in the United States Public Health reports. The people concerned are the descendants of repatriated Afro-Americans.

As the result of the death of the American Minister to Liberia and of other Americans and Europeans from yellow fever in Monrovia in 1929, our Government joined with the British, French and German governments in protesting against the fearful sanitary conditions in Monrovia.

It has been demonstrated that yellow fever is a luxury which no nation is rich enough to afford. Furthermore, every country in the Western Hemisphere except Brazil has demonstrated that yellow fever can be wiped out. New vaccines have been discovered, and the use of them in Brazil gives promise of adding that country to the list of those free from yellow fever.

All around Liberia the United States and European nations are demonstrating the presence of yellow fever and operating efforts to eradicate the disease from its last stronghold. With these facts before them the Liberians entered into an agreement to make Monrovia a decent place to live in for their own people and, incidentally, for representatives of foreign countries. The Liberian president signed an agreement under which his government and that of America were to cooperate.

The United States Public Health Service was to supply the chief medical adviser without charge. He was to draw up the plan. The Liberians were to supply the money and the personnel, to pass the necessary laws, and to enforce them. They voted $18,000 a year to pay the expenses.

Dr. H. F. Smyth took up his duties as chief medical adviser in January, 1930. He found that the agreement was signed with "fingers crossed." The best that can be said is that the Liberian president signed in good faith, but he could not control his congress nor his people. Less than $4,000 was available. All kinds of impediments were put in the way of the work.

In spite of opposition, before the end of six months the death rate had been reduced 75 per cent. Then all financial support was withdrawn. An American foundation agreed to pay the expenses if the Liberian people would agree to otherwise back the original agreement. It being evident that they would not or could not do that, the chief medical adviser was ordered home and the effort to make Monrovia fit for human habitation was left in the hands of the Liberians.

Since these people took the position that they had no yellow fever, and whatever they did have they were satisfied with, the probability is that the condition of 1929 will shortly prevail again, and that Liberian health conditions will continue bad until some outside agency will act to end a world menace.

WARTS ON THE FEET.

Mrs. J. A. S. writes: What is good for warts on the bottom of the feet? Doctors have tried castor oil and also burning with acid. Another wants to burn them off with electricity.

1. Is this a common disease?
2. How can it be cured?
3. Is it liable to lead to cancer?

REPLY.

1. It is—very.
2. Plantar warts are not cured by simple wart remedies. As a rule, burning them with a spark or with other forms of electricity is best.
3. No.

TUMOR MAY BE CAUSE.

Mrs. D. D. J. writes: What are some possible causes of bloody urine? The person examined is a woman 73 years of age who is apparently well except for several attacks of this hematuria.

REPLY.

Close search should be made for a cause. The best guess is that there is a tumor somewhere. It might be nothing more than a vegetation, something like a wart. A varicose vein is another possibility. Also, ulcer. A possible cause is hypernephroma, a kidney tumor. Stone is a possibility.

NEW LAWS PLANNED ON DELINQUENT CARE

Proposal Would Withdraw Prosecution of Child Offenders.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Prison Bureau is drafting legislation to enable the Government to withdraw from the prosecution of juvenile delinquents.

Answering criticism by the Wickersham Commission that the Government is not equipped to handle the cases of child offenders against Federal laws, the proposed legislation is directly in line with a commission recommendation.

Sanford Bates, superintendent of Federal prisons, in a letter to Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, said the Justice Department was not waiting for adoption of the necessary laws, but was already working to "improve the situation so far as existing legislation will permit."

It was learned that Bates has been in conference with officials of the United States Children's Bureau, seeking the help of that organization in the handling of young delinquents.

Proposed Action Described.

Describing the proposed legislation, Bates notified Davis: "It would permit the Government to undertake the work and expense of returning minors who have been arrested in some foreign jurisdiction back to their own environment for whatever treatment the local community can exert."

The Wickersham commission contended it was only by "accident" that most juvenile offenders fell under Federal jurisdiction.

"Any State would apply to them the usual technique of juvenile delinquency treatment," the commission's report said. "Yet the Federal Government classes them with adult criminals and moves against them with the same machinery which it uses in dealing with hardened offenders."

Proper Facilities Lacking

The commission contended further that the Government lacked proper facilities for the care of children, asserting many of them were confined in local jails which "present a situation of filth and misery impossible to convey."

It told also of disciplinary action against them in some State institutions, including lashing with leather straps and confinement in dark "holes" with only bare planks for bedding.

Commenting upon his letters, Bates said the resources of some communities did not permit of the proper handling of juvenile delinquents. Thus, he said, if legislation was adopted to throw back to the localities involved the care of their own young offenders it would not entirely relieve the Government.

Bus Route Changed To Wesley Heights

Will Be Effective Today; Part of Former Line Is Abandoned.

Effective today, the terminal of the Wesley Heights bus line will be Seventeenth and K streets northwest inbound and Wisconsin avenue and Fessenden street northwest outbound, according to an announcement by the Washington Railway & Electric Co. The route south of Twentieth and Massachusetts avenue has been changed and the downtown trip will be made via Massachusetts avenue, Dupont Circle, Connecticut avenue, Seventeenth street, I street, Eighteenth street, K street and thence to the terminus.

The northward route will be via Connecticut avenue, Dupont Circle and Massachusetts avenue.

That part of the route along River road and Wisconsin avenue to Tenley Circle will be abandoned and in substitution therefor operation will be effected beyond Forty-fifth and Fessenden streets, via Fessenden to Wisconsin avenue.

Tree Funds Inadequate To Plant New Streets

The District highway department is opening up new streets so rapidly this year that the division of trees and parkings is kept busy planting new trees and has neither the time nor the money for replacements, Clifford Lanham, superintendent, said yesterday.

There are now about 5,000 vacancies in established lines of trees, Mr. Lanham explained, and these will ultimately have to be refilled. In the near future he hopes to devote an entire planting season to such work. About 3,500 young trees were planted during the spring.

Jury Insists Upon Pay Before Giving Verdict

Datto, Ark., July 31 (A.P.).—No pay, no verdict, said a jury in Justice of the Peace Edwards' court here.

Filing back into the courtroom, the jury, trying a minor civil case, announced to the justice and attorneys there would be no verdict until the jurors had received their fees. The justice threatened to lock them up until they changed their minds, but the jurors were obdurate.

Finally an interested attorney promised to guarantee payment of the fees if the party losing the suit failed to do so. This satisfied the jury. The verdict was for the plaintiff. The fees were paid.

PARLIAMENT ENDS TROUBLED SESSION

Drastic Economies Urged; Extra Sitting May Come Before October.

London, July 31 (A.P.).—Both houses of Parliament adjourned today, after one of the most troubled and strenuous sessions in recent history.

The weary members, as they trouped out of the House of Commons, hoped the holiday would last until October 20, the date for official reassembly, but the motion for adjournment provided that Parliament could meet before that date if the public interest required it.

This provision was made because it was felt that the still chaotic position of international finance as well as the uneasy outlook for Europe in general might make an extra session imperative.

The term just ended kept up its reputation for sensations to the last.

Today there was published the report of the government's economy commission, recommending cuts of the most drastic nature in the national expenditures, designed to effect a saving of £96,500,000 (about $482,500,000) in the first year of their full operation.

Reductions and other alterations in the "dole" system would account for £66,500,000 (about $332,500,000) of the total, and these recommendations are almost certain to meet with the vigorous opposition of large sections of the lower house.

Discussion of the whole question will be patponed until the house meets again, but meanwhile a committee of five cabinet members, including Prime Minister MacDonald and Chancellor Snowden, will consider the report during the recess.

The illness of David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, was one of the main topics of conversation in the lobbies as the session broke up, and there was considerable speculation as to what might happen if he were unable to return to active parliamentary life.

While the majority were not optimistic regarding the future of the Liberal party if the leader should have to retire, members of all parties expressed the hope and belief that the knowledge that his presence is needed would act as a tonic to restore the fiery Welshman's health.

Counsel for U. S. Start Section D Condemnation

Condemnation proceedings to acquire all of the privately-owned land in Reservation D, between Maine and Maryland avenues, Four-and-a-half and Sixth streets southwest, yesterday were started by the Department of Justice through Acting United States Attorney William H. Collins and Assistant Attorney General Henry H. Glassie.

It was stated that the Government has bought some of the land in the square, but has been unable to reach an agreement with other owners of property. Justice Joseph W. Cox ordered citations to all of the owners residing in the District, and against all other persons claiming any interest in the property, to appear in court and file estimates of the value of their holdings.

The decoration is being given by direct order of King Alexander of Jugoslavia and will be presented to Lieut. Benter by Dr. Leonide Pitamic, Minister of Jugoslavia.

What Today Means to You

"LEO."

IF August 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:10 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 5:40 p. m., and from 10:05 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger hours are from 7:15 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., and from 12:50 p. m. to 2:35 p. m.

A spirit of confidence and strenuous energy will possess you on August 1, according to the signs. Marked success awaits those struggling to attain it in mechanical pursuits. It will be auspicious for those, too, who are keen to break through the hard shell of existing limitations.

A child born on this August 1 will have very positive ideas and opinions, although it will be rather diffident, and slow to express them. It will be fond of sports and recreation, kind and affectionate at home, and generally good-natured. It will love with intensity—but only once.

Born on August 1, you care more for culture and refinement than you do for the grosser things of life. You are not easily adaptable to environment, unless it be of your own choice or creation. The signs denote that on occasion you will be forced by circumstances to "rough it;" owing to the uncongeniality of such conditions to one of your temperament, these hard times will, in your case, simply serve as a spur to urge you to attain something better. Consequently, they will be a blessing in disguise.

You always crave harmonious surroundings, and bend your efforts to secure them. You are not a good mixer, and frequently offend strangers by an air of "stand-offishness." In a rough-and-tumble business career, you will not shine; you should, however, succeed in any of the fine arts, or in a profession.

In the family circle, it is rather difficult to get along easily with you. Fussiness never breeds amiability. You always display a penchant for solitude and are never happier than when browsing over a good book. You are capable of strong emotions, but do not care to show them. You should not marry young.

Successful people born August 1:

1—William Clark, explorer.

2—Richard Henry Dana, jurist and author.

5—Robert T. Lincoln, statesman.

6—Robert Ticknor, author and educator.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MY large Boston fern has ceased to absorb much water, which leads me to believe that it requires repotting. I now have it in the largest-sized pot available. Will you please advise me regarding some sort of larger container for the plant, and tell me what kind of soil is needed?

ELLA G. W.

If you feel it is practical to have so large a plant, you can transplant your fern into a lawn tub. Usually so large a plant is a nuisance in a dwelling, and the plant is divided into three parts while being repotted. Ferns do best in a soil of leaf mold, sand and good loam in equal parts. Keep the plant in the shade for at least ten days after repotting.

Please tell me when to prune weigelia, also forsythia and snowball buahes. CARRY N.

Prune any of the shrubs you mention as soon as they have finished flowering, as they all bloom on wood made the previous year.

Please tell me how to eradicate oyster shell scale on a lilac bush?

JOSEPH P. A.

Oyster shell scale on lilacs may be eradicated with miscible oil or a whale oil emulsion. The larvae move about when they are first hatched, and June is the best time to kill them, though you can still spray for this trouble.

Please tell me if, when planting asters, I work a little tobacco into the soil you think that it will protect the plants from root lice. JULIA F. F.

Yes.

Please tell me how to control leaf hoppers, which are destroying my roses. Your formula for arsenate of lead has done wonders, and I am grateful for it, but leaf hopper is a different proposition.

MRS. FINLEY A. F.

Leaf hopper may be controlled by spraying the under sides of the leaves with any nicotine preparation containing soap. I am glad you find the lead arsenate spray so useful.

Please tell me when to sow seeds of cynoglossum for bloom next year.

LULA P. H.

Sow seeds of cynoglossum at this time.

Please tell me where to keep a plunged oleander in summer. My plant blooms in the conservatory in winter, so in summer it is resting.

JESSIE P. L.

I have an evergreen that, as a result of an injury, must be pruned. When should this work be done?

EMLEN D. P.

If it is necessary for any reason to cut back the leaders of evergreen trees, the work should be done in late June, when the wood is soft, green and watery. Leave at least an inch to give an opportunity for the setting of a new bud.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

After College.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Can you help me? When I went to school in this city I was very shy—in fact, I had an inferiority complex. The boys and girls I met belonged to our debutante set. I realize now that I might have gotten along very well with the boys if I had taken things a little less seriously. Every time I went to a dance, I kept wondering who would dance with me next. I went to the dances it is sure, but with left-over men. I did my best, but really tried too hard. I wish I had gone to the biggest public high school here! Now, I have been for four years in a large university. By that time I have recovered myself and have made a place for myself in this university. Any one who speaks of my appearances, pronounces them pretty. It seems to me I have every asset for social contacts now. At college I have all my best friends. I have many men friends. I haven't missed a dance of importance. I have a good time at the dances. I usually like the men I go out with, which is more than I did before. Have had proposals, but I don't take anything seriously, but laugh and flirt with the men. In other words, for me college has been a grand success.

But here's where the rub comes in. Every time I return home the old inferiority complex comes back. I don't think I go looking for it. I give myself credit for being an average human being. I occupy my mind with reading and music and my very few girl friends. But it is harder than ever to live here now that I am used to good times. What is your advice? CO-ED.

Girls limited to one small set in any city find themselves in the situation you describe. Worthwhile women of your age are concentrating on other than social interests. Just do the same and let the "man interest" present itself incidentally, which it always does. Plan to do something with your life. Half the secret of your social ease at college was due to the fact that you had other things on your mind, which gave balance to your interest in men. Men always happen. There never comes a time when the interesting woman ceases to attract. Only when her interests wane does her attraction cease. Fill your life, and fear not. It is the woman who empties her life to make plenty of room for man who finds no man seeking so much room.

Pick some city as your field, some work as your goal and man will break his neck trying to get your fleeting interest. It is a game—and a great one! Get started.

HOT WEATHER LURES TO WOODLAND BEACH

The Post's Summer Resort Is Ideal Spot to Spend Pleasant Sunday.

Come and see for yourself all the wonders of Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home colony on South River in Maryland.

That is the invitation The Post extends to all Washingtonians tomorrow, when the beach is open for inspection and competent guides are on duty all day to show visitors around.

Hundreds of Capital residents have purchased property at the beach, with many of them erecting homes there. Undoubtedly you have heard about Woodland Beach from them, but The Post wants you to visit the place and get your information first hand.

Bring the family along and make a day of it. Pack a picnic lunch and eat it along the South River or in the cool wooded portions of the beach development. Look over the entire site carefully and pick your location. There are many fine spots available where you can erect a cottage and enjoy the summer, not only this year, but for many seasons to come.

It requires only the expenditure of $9 plus the cost of a subscription to The Washington Post to make a choice, the remainder of the $93, which is the price of all lots at the beach, may be paid at the rate of $3.50 per month.

Woodland Beach is reached over excellent roads. The motorist uses the Defense highway as far as Camp Parole, turning right onto Maryland State Highway No. 2 across South River and then left onto Mayo road, which leads directly to the beach. Persons traveling by W. B. & A. electric cars will be met at Camp Parole by buses running to the beach.

Bank Robberies Thought Solved

Police Say Virginia Man Has Admitted Acting as Lookout.

Darien, Conn., July 31 (A.P.).—Police today believed they had uncovered a clew to a series of bank robberies in Ohio and Kansas as a result of questioning of Morris K. Moulis, of Salem, Va.

Moulis, arrested as a vagrant last night, admitted, officers said, that he acted as a lookout in a bank robbery at Columbus, Ohio, in the spring of 1930, and named Vernon Witt, of Roanoke, Va., as his companion on that occasion.

Witt, he said, escaped from the State Penitentiary at Lansing, Kans., December 18, 1930, while serving a life sentence for the murder of a policeman.

Wrong Products Blamed in Slump

Economist Says Business Forces the Purchase of Things Not Needed.

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—Dr. Herbert von Beckerath, German economist, who arrived here today to lecture at the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, Mass., said the world-wide industrial depression is largely due to a policy of big business to force the consumer to buy things he doesn't need.

"There should be less production for the benefit of the producer and more for the benefit of the consumer," Dr. von Beckerath said. "We have this well illustrated in the motor industry, where there has been more interest in output than whether there is a consuming public prepared to absorb the product."

Dr. von Beckerath, who is professor of political economy at the University of Bonn, declared comforts and luxuries of life "have been smeared over too wide an area."

Bay and Tributaries Suffer From Nettles

Seining as an industry has almost been discontinued in certain parts of the Chesapeake Bay and tributary rivers, due to the unusual "run" of sea nettles, it was announced yesterday by the United States Bureau of Fisheries. A reported seven and one-half tons of nettles were taken in one haul.

Bathing resorts have also suffered from the pestilence, said to be the greatest of its kind ever recorded in Chesapeake waters. The Bureau of Fisheries is receiving numerous protests from residents of the bay section. One official of the Maryland Trust Co. stated that summer beach resorts have been forced to erect expensive nettle screens, or have suffered heavy loss of patronage.

Hotel Cashier Is Robbed Of $5,000 by Lone Man

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—A cashier in the Hotel Roosevelt, one of the large hotels in the Grand Central zone, was robbed of $5,000 late this afternoon by a man, who apparently was unarmed.

Miss Mary Gilmartin, cashier, was waiting for an elevator on the second floor of the hotel, with a tin box containing $5,000 in small bills under her arm. A man who had been sitting on a lounge in the corridor slipped over to her, snatched the box, ran down three flights of stairs and escaped.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

As a result of the quick and unprecedented growth of their Nation-wide campaign to resuscitate the living stage and restore "the road" to the spoken drama, as well as take advantage of the diversity of contacts placed at the disposal of the "Save Our Stage" movement, the S. O. S. committee, originated by the Theatrical Press Representatives of America, have found it necessary to create a source of available cash to meet the growing expense of this rapidly expanding crusade.

To this end the S. O. S. committee has had itself incorporated for $200,000 in the State of New York under the name of Original Theater Activities, Inc., which will enable it to finance a group of members of the T. P. R. O. A., who will be sent over the country to arouse drama consciousness in the various communities zoned, and to cover a far-flung publicity campaign for a dozen attractions whose producers have contracted to send them out under the S. O. S. banner. The new corporate body also will finance the cost of producing and publishing several plays under option to the Original Theater Activities, Inc.

Under this new arrangement, O. T. A., Inc., will be enabled to follow up through personal contact by their representatives the huge volume of correspondence already entered into with civic bodies, cultural, fraternal and theatrical organizations in every section of the country, with regard to the movement to "restore the road and bring back the spoken drama."

At the same time they will put into execution their plan for the protection of their guarantees to the theatergoer in the smaller cities through their S. O. S. trade-mark.

The new corporation plans to have its first attraction on the road by the end of September, with others to follow as rapidly as possible.

Obviously, the boys are in earnest.

To provide a colorful interlude between two epic productions, Richard Dix will do "Marcheta," instead of "Frontier," immediately following his completion of "Secret Service."

"Frontier" has been moved back both because of the magnitude of the plans involved in the future filming of this pioneer sequel to "Cimarron," and because Radio is of the belief that in Lewis Stevens' original story, inspired by Victor Schertzinger's hauntingly popular song, they have a particularly suitable vehicle for Dix and Irene Dunne, his leading woman in "Cimarron," the Edna Ferber sensation.

"Marcheta" is a romance of Old Spain, with Dix in the role of a reckless and turbulent hero of the bull rings and Miss Dunne as the high-combed and mantillaed beauty he loves.

Now the public will have to begin all over again trying to find out how to pronounce "Marcheta" correctly—no singer I ever heard did, in rendering the song.

Complexion to the contrary notwithstanding, and admitting that press agents at times take startling liberties with birth records, it appears that this here now, Marian Marsh, the vivacious youngster who played Trilby to John Barrymore's bewhiskered hypnotist in "Svengali," and is to be seen opposite him again in "The Mad Genius," his last picture for Warner Brothers, was born in Trinidad, Barbados, B. W. I., way down at the other end of that semi-circle of Windward Islands that describes its graceful arc through the Caribbean. The date was October 17, 1913—ten days ahead of the swelliest birth date in the tenth month, if I may say so, who ought to know.

If you ask Miss Marsh her nationality—and why should you?—she will tell you, assuming that she overlooks your impertinence and answers at all, that she is a mixture of English, Irish, French and German and has spent most of her life in Springfield, Mass., before moving to Boston, that is, and thence to New York and Hollywood, and wouldn't it be nice if she'd light some place?

If that vague anxiety you've been experiencing lately has been occasioned by Kay Francis instead of the heat, I'll lift the load off your mind by telling you that her first starring vehicle under her new long-term contract with the Warner Brothers will be "The Rich Are Always With Us," an adaptation of the novel by E. Pettit, recently published by the Sears Co. The picture will go into production late this month in place of "The Hungry Wife," originally announced as her first.

It seems the wife grabbed herself a sandwich, and, since you didn't know, either, E. Pettit is none other—what do you guess?—than Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche.

I have it straight from the most colossal juggler of the verities this side of Baron Munchausen that James Cagney, that tough egg in "The Public Enemy" and "Smart Money," now that "Larceny Lane" is finished is practicing six hours a day on the piano in the hope of becoming a concert artist.

Now you tell one. And besides that, his hair is too short!

Poor old Welford Beaton, editor and publisher of Film Spectator and the erstwhile terror of Hollywood, what with the barbed tongue, vitriolic pen and all, is still guessing them wrong.

It was he, you know, who was so sure the talking screen was a bust that he prophesied its definite and permanent demise a year ago last February—or was it two years ago?

Now, in his review of Paramount's production of Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," the present subject of litigation in New York, he writes:

"And now we will wait with bated breath for Dreiser's verdict on Von Sternberg's work, and we will listen with interest to anything he has to say about the manner in which Samuel Hoffenstein prepared the great novel for the screen. I will be surprised greatly if he slaps Von Sternberg's face, and if he does not present Hoffenstein with a medal. The picture will do more for him than the book has or could."

Well, well, Welford, you can unbate your breath now. All Mr. Dreiser is trying to present Director Von Sternberg and Adaptor Hoffenstein with is an injunction in effect tossing their efforts into the ashcan, the big this, that and the other!

And since you ask, I'll bet from the looks of some of the downtown streets that our new traffic director, Mr. Van Duzer, lays out a mean tennis court!

FOX

"THEIR MAD MOMENT." Fox picturization of the novel, "Basquerie," by Eleanor Mercein, featuring Warner Baxter and Dorothy Mackaill, supported by ZaSu Pitts, Nance O'Neil, Lawrence Grant, Nella Walker, Mary Doran and Leon Janney. Directed by Hamilton MacFadden and Chandler Sprague. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Set against the picturesque French Riviera, with the ruggedness of the Basque country as a contrasting background, "Their Mad Moment" transpires with not much moment and considerably less madness. A traditional, jangled love story this, with Warner Baxter and Dorothy Mackaill enacting the principal roles.

While no great amount of enthusiasm can be generated over the story or the manner in which it is presented, it is, nevertheless, a program picture that forms an admirable interlude between stage shows.

In the feature, ZaSu Pitts steals the acting honors from the principals through her delightful interpretation of a small but thoroughly engaging serio-comic character. Miss Mackaill and Mr. Baxter, while adequately presenting their roles, fail to achieve their usual standards.

Nance O'Neill, as Mr. Baxter's grandmother, does an acceptable job and Lawrence Grant makes a rather good Sir Harry, stately and pompous. Nella Walker, Mary Doran and Leon Janney have small and acceptably drawn parts.

The outstanding contribution to the week's program is Fanchon and Marco's exquisite and colorful revuelet, the "Moroccan" Idea. In the quaint but dazzling splendor of an old Moorish street, there is paraded a series of specialties that from start to finish are entirely in keeping with the Oriental atmosphere. The effectiveness of the scene is greatly enhanced by an extraordinarily deft handling of the lighting.

In all this Oriental splendor Hadji Ali works feats of magic, while Ferdna levitates his charming foil in thin air. Gayl, Bert and Daro are a run-of-the-mill adagio trio. Ali Hassan's Bluestreaks furnish the acrobatics and tumbling. The soloists of the program, and better than average ones, too, are James Gaylore and Sherry Louise. Eva Nightingale and Gaylene do specialty dance numbers assisted by the dancing girls, who also are responsible for two very delightful line routines.

Easily his finest offering is Bob Hamilton's "An Organ Recital Miniature," a potpourri of standard numbers, including "Nola," "To a Wild Rose" and selections from "William Tell" and "Tannhauser," exquisitely played, that stopped last night's show in its tracks.

The orchestral offering, under the direction of Al Mitchell, is "Hiking Down the Highway" with interpolated "home" songs and "Little Gray Home in the West" as a featured violin solo by Leon Brusiloff.

A Silly Symphony, "The Busy Beaver," and a release of the Fox Movietone News are the subsidiary attractions.

Girl Breaks Arm at See-Saw.

RKO-KEITH'S

"THE COMMON LAW." RKO-Pathe picturization of the novel by Robert W. Chambers, adapted to the screen by John Farrow, with dialogue by Horace Jackson, starring Constance Bennett, supported by Joel McCrea, Lew Cody, Hedda Hopper, Robert Williams, Paul Ellis and Margaret Shilling. Directed by Paul L. Stein. (Second week.)

Tinged as it is with the exotic suggestion of opulent but unconventional life in the Paris studios, and peopled with players whose popular appeal has come to be almost infallible, it was a foregone conclusion that this deftly turned love story would score a decisive hit at the box office. The continuance of its run through a second week, ushered in yesterday by the customary capacity crowds, only bears out the prophecy made in these columns upon the occasion of its premiere a week ago.

The recent vehicles selected for the stellar purposes of Miss Constance Bennett have been concocted after the single formula of thwarted love and ultimate triumph over seemingly insuperable obstacles, just as Richard Barthelmess' stories are always patterned after the adventures of Jack, the Giant Killer. "The Common Law" is no exception—save that because its star is cast as the defecting chatelaine of a bachelor "husband" who forthwith seeks and obtains employment as model for a young American artist executing a canvas of nudes, it exercises the elements of excitement and suspense a little more vigorously than Miss Bennett's pictures are accustomed to do. Even so, while at times a bit flamboyant, this particular edition of the Chambers fiction is, in the large view, innocuous entertainment.

Miss Bennett, in her placid and unemotional way, a majority insist is at her best. She is at least thoroughly intriguing in a character that could scarcely be made to appear otherwise. Opposite the star, Joel McCrea is quietly and forcefully efficient—in evening clothes, awkwardly so. Among the supporting players, Lew Cody, Hedda Hopper, Robert Williams and Walter Walker are most in evidence, in roles that do not curb their talents.

Among the auxiliary attractions, Grantland Rice's Sportlight, "Poise," has been substituted for last week's comedy, and a new issue of the RKO-Pathe News takes the place of the old. The "Screen Snapshots" and Toby, the Pup, cartoon-comedy, "Aces Up," continue from last week.

DEVIL FOOD CAKE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)
Mixture No. 1.

½ cup sweet milk.
2 squares (2 oz.) chocolate.

Mixture No. 2.

1 cup brown sugar.
1 cup granulated sugar.
½ cup fat (if butter is used wash free of salt).
2 eggs.
2 cups Self-Rising Washington Flour.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
½ cup milk.

Cream the fat; add the sugar; continue to cream until the sugar granules are dissolved; add the eggs one at a time and beat vigorously; add Mixture No. 1, vanilla, and flour alternately with the milk. Pour into greased and floured layer cake pans and bake in a moderate oven. Let cool and put together with the following frosting:

Frosting.

2 eggs (whites only)
6 tablespoons cold water.
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Put the sugar, water and unbeaten egg whites in the top of a double boiler and place it over boiling water. Beat for seven minutes; remove from fire; add flavoring and cream of tartar, and continue beating until it stands in peaks.

PECAN HONEY PIE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 rounding tablespoon flour
1 cup Zirkle's Honey
2 eggs (whole)
¼ of a ¼-pound stick of butter (melted)
1 cup pecans

Drop eggs into bowl, add flour and beat well. Add honey, then melted butter. Lastly add nuts, crushed or broken. Mix thoroughly. Pour into pastry shell and bake in moderate oven about ten minutes until crust is set. Reduce heat and finish baking about one-half hour, or until a knife inserted comes out clean. This makes one large pie. Serve small pieces, for it is very rich.

MRS. A. A. M'GARVEY.
2145 C street northwest.

MARBLE CAKE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
3 cups flour (Washington Self-Rising)
4 eggs
2-3 cup milk
2 or 3 tablespoons cocoa or 1 square chocolate
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs and beat well. Add your flour, then your milk and vanilla. Stir to remove any lumps. Next take out about one-third of your batter and mix into this your cocoa or chocolate and your cloves and cinnamon. Next grease and line a cake pan (one with funnel is best). Put into your pan about half of your white batter. Next put in all of your dark batter, and then the last of your white. Then take a spoon, make a circle about half way between funnel and outside of pan. (This makes your slices pretty.) Bake in a moderate oven from half to three-quarters of an hour.

MRS. A. S. ROSSEN,
of 3304 Warder street northwest, photographed in her kitchen. Mrs. Rossen's recipe for Brown Betty, a popular dish with lovers of sweets throughout the country, was awarded the $5 prize offered by The Post every week for the best food page recipe.

Dish Made Additionally Attractive by Ingredients Employed.

A recipe for "Brown Betty," as made by Mrs. A. S. Rossen, of 3304 Warder street northwest, was awarded this week's $5 for the best method of using materials advertised on the Saturday Food Page of The Post.

Brown Betty is an old reliable dish in many sections of the country and has held its popularity with those who have a sweet tooth for several generations.

Brown Betty varies in composition when found in different sections of the country. Mrs. Rossen's recipe calls for bread crumbs, chopped apples, grating of lemon or orange rind and the juice of one orange. The recipe follows:

2 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups toasted Schneider's Dandee bread crumbs
4 chopped apples
Grating from lemon or orange rind
Juice of one orange or add enough water to make one-half cup liquid
1-3 cup sugar

Put the buttered Schneider's bread crumbs into a baking dish in alternate layers with the apples, making the last layer of crumbs, and sprinkle each layer of apples with fruit juice, water and sugar. Bake 40 minutes. Cover the dish the first half of cooking.

Spaghetti With Spinach Is an Attractive Dish

½ package spaghetti
2 pounds spinach
2 cups grated cheese
½ cup buttered breadcrumbs
1 hard-cooked egg, sliced for garnish
Tomatoes for garnish.

Cook the spinach and press through a colander.

In a well-buttered baking dish place alternate layers of the cooked spaghetti, spinach and cheese until all are used up, having a layer of spaghetti on top. Cover with the breadcrumbs and bake in a moderate oven, 25 minutes. When ready to serve, garnish with slices of egg and tomatoes.

SUMMER SALAD.

½ package elbow macaroni
1 large onion, chopped
3 firm tomatoes, cut in small pieces
¾ cup Thousand Island dressing
Head lettuce.

Boil the macaroni for 9 minutes in 2 quarts rapidly boiling water to which ½ tablespoon salt has been added. Drain and chill.

Combine elbows, onion, tomatoes and half of the dressing, tossing together lightly with a fork. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves, garnished with the remaining dressing.

The Hungarians are fond of well-seasoned food and freely use onions, chives, chopped parsley and always paprika in cooking. They seldom fry vegetables, but serve them frequently with a sauce made from butter and flour mixed with a little of the vegetable water, or, whenever they can afford to, with fresh or sour cream.

SALMON SANDWICHES.
(Honorable Mention.)

½ cup English or black walnuts
1 cup grated carrots
1 cup salmon
Mayonnaise dressing
Schneider's Dan-Dee slices bread.

Shred the salmon with a fork, then add the grated carrots and chopped nuts. Moisten to a spreading consistency with boiled or mayonnaise dressing. Spread between thin slices of Schneider's Dan-Dee slices.

MRS. J. L. O'CONNELL.

(Honorable Mention.)

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup milk
2 cups Self-Rising Washington Flour
¼ teaspoon salt.

Cream shortening and sugar together until light, add beaten egg yolks, flavoring and milk slowly, add one-half sifted flour and one-half egg whites, then the remainder of the flour and egg whites folded in. Bake in layer tins and put together with peanut butter icing as follows: 1 cup granulated sugar, 5 tablespoons milk. Boil five minutes, add 1 tablespoon Schindler's Fresh Roasted Peanut Butter. Beat until cool enough to spread between layers of the cake.

MRS. HELEN LOOMIS.

Pea Soup Made With Pods

2 quarts fresh green pea pods (2 pounds peas should suffice)
2 quarts water
4 large carrots, cut in long slices
2 large onions sliced
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour

Wash the pods thoroughly. Add the water, carrots, onions, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about one hour. Remove the carrots, drain the stock and discard the pods and onions. Melt the butter and cook until golden brown. Add the flour, mix well and to this add a small quanity of the hot liquid. Stir until well blended and then return this mixture to the soup stock and cook for a few minutes.

Dumplings

1-3 cup milk and water (half and half)
½ cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter

Add the milk to the flour and salt, stir in the butter and beat until well mixed. Drop the batter quickly into the gently boiling soup by one-half teaspoonfuls. When the dumplings come to the top, serve the soup at once.

YOUR FAVORITE RECIPE

NO matter what your favorite recipe may be, if it is prepared the modern way . . . Electrically, you'll be more enthused over it than ever before. Electric Cookery is flameless, odorless and sootless. You cook with Heat, not with fire. The present exceedingly low rates for "Matchless Service," among the lowest in the entire country, make it more economical than ever before. If your neighbor is now cooking electrically, ask her about it. She will tell you that she would never go back to any other method.

COCHET, FRENCH NET ACE, TO JOIN PROFESSIONALS

Tells Friends He Will Quit Amateurs in September.

HENRI COCHET

PARIS, July 31 (A.P.).—The professional tennis ranks received a valuable addition today when Henri Cochet, world's ranking amateur player, announced he would turn professional about the middle of September.

Cochet's announcement, made to some of his friends, was not much of a surprise, for the tennis world has had the former ball boy of Lyons deserting the simon pures since he led the French forces in their successful defense of the Davis Cup against England.

Tilden-Cochet Clashes Foreseen.

As the result of Cochet's decision, tennis fans may look forward to another renewal of the famous Bill Tilden-Cochet battles of amateur days. The old rivalry probably will be revived on French soil since Big Bill is scheduled to arrive in France the latter part of September.

Jack Curley, New York wrestling and professional tennis promoter, who signed Tilden and Frank Hunter when they left the amateur ranks last winter, is in France and is expected to get Cochet's name on a contract within the next few days.

Although refusing to make any definite announcement, Cochet has often intimated during the last few weeks that he was seriously considering turning his fame into lucrative financial channels. Tentative plans call for an extensive tour of the United States with Tilden and probably Vincent Richards and Karel Kozeluh.

Cochet's retirement from the amateur ranks strikes a severe blow at France's hopes of retaining for another year the Davis Cup. Since he joined with Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra to form the "three musketeers" and win the coveted trophy from the United States in 1927, the 30-year-old racquet wizard has been the mainstay of the French team.

FRENCH NET RULE SEEN AT END

Cochet, Now 33, Has Borne Major Burden for 2 Years.

NEW YORK, July 31 (A.P.).—Close followers of tennis were more pleased than surprised today at the word from Paris that Henri Cochet had decided to turn professional.

With Big Bill Tilden, his greatest rival as an amateur, playing in the same professional troupe Cochet is expected to join, a series of matches between the two is anticipated with pleasure by America's tennis fandom.

Reports that Cochet would turn professional following his recent spectacular display in helping France turn back the Davis Cup challenge of England have been accepted here generally as a forecast of Cochet's announcement today. Cochet's retirement from French Davis Cup play likewise is expected to end the international domination of the game by France since he joined with Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra to form the "three musketeers" and win the Davis Cup from the United States in 1927.

Has Borne Burden For Two Years.

With Rene Lacoste ill and Jean Borotra's speed departing, Cochet has borne the major burden of France's successful Davis Cup defenses for the last two years.

Cochet, now 30 years old, started playing tennis at the age of 7 in Lyons, France, where his father managed a tennis club. Within two years he was one of the best players in Lyons, but it was not until 1919, after the World War, that he branched out beyond the local tournaments. He won the regional championship in 1921 and then went on to win his first national title, the military championship of France.

From 1922 on Cochet rose sensationally through the tennis world. Within three years after gaining the military title he won the world's coveted court championship in both doubles and singles at St. Moritz, captured the world's hard court title at Brussels, won the French hard court singles championship, and was named to the French Davis Cup Team. He won France's lone Davis Cup victory from Australia in 1923.

He won several titles in 1923, including the world covered court crown again at Barcelona and the mixed doubles French championship with Suzanne Lenglen, and then a few years later defeated Tilden to win the American national singles crown.

Considered Greatest Fifth Set Player.

Since then Cochet, considered the greatest fifth set player in the world, has been almost unbeatable. Tilden conquered him when France took the Davis Cup for the first time in 1927, but he defeated little Bill Johnston in the deciding singles match. He was the "great artisan" of France's Davis Cup victories in 1928 when he beat John Hennessey and Bill Tilden; the mainstay of the 1929 defense when he conquered Tilden and George Lott, and the master in 1930 when again he downed Tilden and Lott. In all three years he also played in the Davis Cup doubles.

In his final Davis Cup appearance, against the British this year, Cochet triumphed over both Bunny Austin and Fred Perry.

Ambassador Natators In Baltimore Meet

A squad of five men will represent the Ambassador Swimming Club in the South Atlantic A. A. U. swimming meet to be held at Bay Shore today. The local group will be restricted to competition in the open events, as the class races are limited to members of the Baltimore Section of the Union.

The team from Washington includes Vincent Gomez, Roger Leverson and Norman Smith, who are entered in the high board fancy diving event, and Max Rote and Arturo Ballis, who will compete in the 200-yard free-style race.

Kremer Blanks Reds, 5-0; Drives in 2 Runs

Pittsburgh, July 31 (A.P.).—Remy Kremer, Pittsburgh right-hander, held Cincinnati to six hits and drove in two runs himself in shutting out the Reds, 5 to 0, here today. The Pirate hurler was in trouble several times due to wildness, but tightened up in the pinches, twice getting the last man out with three runners on the sacks. Cincinnati had eleven left on base.

Macks Invade Today; Face Marberry

Word Feud of Firpo and Simmons May Be Resumed.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

BEGINNING this afternoon and for the next three days the Nationals will be fighting with their backs to the wall, for they tackle the world's champion Athletics in single games here today and tomorrow and in a double-header in Philadelphia Monday. Although trailing by an even dozen games, and despite the fact that practically every one else concedes the 1931 American League championship, the Washington club refuses to give up yet.

However, even Manager Walter Johnson, trying to be an optimist, admits that, unless his team makes a sweep of the series, he will be just about willing to concede the A's the flag and to concentrate upon beating out the Yankees for the runner-up berth. The latter, by the way, gained half a game and pulled up to within three games of the Nats by winning yesterday.

But, irrespective of whether or not the Nats ever do manage to overtake the Mackmen before the curtain is finally rung down, fans are due to see some red-hot battles in this series. Connie Mack is expected to call on George Earnshaw, freshened up by several days' rest, this afternoon, while Manager Johnson will turn over his mound assignment to Fred Marberry.

Simmons-Marberry At Odds.

In addition to being heated rivals on the diamond, a certain amount of personal ill-feeling between some of the members of the respective casts has crept in, the result being that the teams battle each other from the first drop of the hat. During the past two seasons Simmons has been mighty hard to get along with. He and Shortstop Joe Cronin had words on one occasion last year, while he and Marberry almost came to blows in another, when the big Texan started for the Philadelphia bench after Simmons, only to be stopped by the umpires and players of both teams.

The Simmons-Cronin feud apparently died a natural death, but that between the Mack's great fly-chaser and the Nats' mound ace was reopened in the Quaker City last July 13 at a double-header played in Philadelphia. Thinking Marberry was trying to bean him, Simmons, instead of taking first on a fourth ball, made a bee-line for the pitcher's box. Marberry dropped his glove and took one of those "Jack Dempsey" fighting poses, giving Simmons a chance to get in the first lick. The latter merely said: "There's too big a crowd here for us to start anything, but I'll be seeing yuh." "That's O. K. with me," said Marberry, as the umpires and players from both teams kept them from getting too close to each other.

Both probably have too much sense to start anything in the way of a fight on the field, and fans need not go to this afternoon's game expecting to see one. They are sure to see the two teams battling each other hammer and tongs, though, in a baseball way, for these verbal wars

Herman's Double Beats Phils for Robins, 6-4

Philadelphia, July 31 (A.P.).—Stuart Bolen, Philly southpaw, gave just one hit after he relieved Clise Dudley in the ninth today, but that was enough to give the Brooklyn Robins a 6-to-4 victory over the Phils.

Dudley, who gave fourteen hits, left runners on first and third when he retired. Babe Herman greeted Bolen with a double that scored Johnny Frederick with the winning run, while Del Bissonette stopped at third and came home a moment later after O'Doul's fly.

Dazzy Vance started for Brooklyn, but was relieved by Heimach in the fifth after the first two men had hit. Heimach was credited with the victory. Vance hurt his right hand while batting in the third inning.

Ruth Defeats Red Sox by 2 Doubles

First Hit Scores 2 in Fifth, Breaking Tie in 4-1 Victory.

Gomez Allows Only 5 Safeties; Yankees Solve MacFayden.

BOSTON, July 31 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth's two doubles turned the tide of a close battle between the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox today and gave the Yanks a 4-to-1 victory in the first game of a series of seven, reducing Washington's second-place lead to three games.

The Babe's first two-bagger came with the score tied in the fifth inning and drove in two runs. In the eighth he opened with a double and went to third on an infield out and scored on Chapman's fly.

Lefty Vernon Gomez outpitched Danny MacFayden, giving only five hits and striking out nine. He got in trouble occasionally, passing six men. In the last of the ninth a walk and two singles filled the bases, but Gomez made Ruel take a third strike and Rothrock forced Russell at second for the final out.

Seibold Checks Giants, Braves Win in 13th

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—Socks Seibold held the Giants to six hits in thirteen innings today and did not walk a man as the Boston Braves pulled out an overtime victory over New York by a 4-to-2 count.

Red Worthington, young outfielder, provided the backing for Seibold. He tied the score at 1-1 in the seventh inning by clouting a home run, then doubled with two on base in the thirteenth to drive home Billy Urbanski with the winning run. An intentional pass by John Berly and a hit batsman forced in the final Boston counter. Fred Fitzsimmons opposed Seibold for eight tight innings before giving way for a pinch hitter. Joe Heving and Berly followed him.

Ball Player Can Slug Umpire, Court Rules

Atlanta, July 31 (A.P.).—The inherent characteristic of a baseball player "to relieve pent-up emotions every now and then at the expense of some umpire" was judicially recognized here today by City Recorder John L. Cone.

The recorder delivered the opinion in dismissing disorderly conduct charges filed against Johnny Dobbs, manager of the Atlanta Crackers, after he had hung a right cross on the chin of Umpire Ed Goes, in a dispute during Atlanta's first night baseball game, May 25.

National Net Champion Bows in 5 Thrilling Sets.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31 (A.P.).—Playing courageously to overcome a lead of two sets, H. Ellsworth Vines, jr., 19-year-old Pasadena youngster, scored his second victory of the season over John Hope Doeg, of Newark, N. J., national champion, in the final round of the forty-fourth annual Seabright invitation tennis tournament today. The scores were 10—12, 0—8, 6—3, 7—8—6, 6—1.

The tall, slender University of Southern California sophomore, who had beaten Doeg in the Longwood Bowl finals two weeks ago, perplexed the national title-holder today with a variety of strokes, many of which were so well placed that Doeg was left stranded, out of striking distance of the ball.

Vines in Top Form as Doeg Slumps.

Doeg's slump after his unbeatable march in the first two gruelling sets was just as striking as the suddenness with which Vines returned to top form. For that segment of the

LAUREL GATE FOR FIGHTS ATTACHED

Sheriff Serves Papers for Three Creditors of New Arena.

TO THE echo of the thudding fists of the fighters in the ring, another scene was being enacted in the office of the Midcity Boxing Club at Laurel last Thursday night when the gate receipts were attached by Sheriff George D. Day, of Howard County, on behalf of three creditors, it was learned yesterday by The Post.

Claiming payment for services and material used in the construction of the elaborate arena, located 1 mile beyond the Town of Laurel, the attachments were obtained by the Enterprise Electrical Co., of Baltimore, and Ferdinand Sabbath, of Washington, representing a group of laborers. Identity of the third creditor could not be learned.

Receipts in Charge Of Commission.

The receipts of the boxing show, estimated at $1,100, are in charge of the Maryland State Boxing Commission, under the laws governing fights in Maryland.

Payment to the fighters would not be affected, it was reported, as a result of a bond posted before the show guaranteeing the purses. The bond was demanded by the boxing commission, it was said.

Last Thursday's show was the club's third program. Although the fights have pleased the crowds, the enterprise has not been financially successful. Plans for continuing the shows were announced last Thursday, however, with the statement from the ring that Jackie Kid Berg, former junior lightweight champion, would appear within two weeks.

CUBS SECOND BY WIN OVER CARDS

Bush Keeps 8 Hits Scattered in 10-3 Triumph.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 31 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs climbed back into second place in the National League pennant race here today as they pounded three Cardinal pitchers for 15 hits and a 10-to-3 victory over the champions, while the New York Giants lose to Boston in an extra inning game. By winning, the Cubs evened up the two-game series with St. Louis.

Cards Score Twice In Ninth.

Guy Bush scattered his eight hits until the ninth when the Cardinals scored twice. In the sixth Jim Collins hit into the bleachers for a home run. D. Taylor hit two triples and a single in three official trips to the plate and scored four times.

"Wild Bill" Hallahan was charged with the defeat. Allyn Stout and Tony Kaufmann also saw some mound duty for the Cardinals.

The two teams move on to Chicago, where they open a two-game series tomorrow.

Pegler Finds Easy Money Becomes Scarce Long After Hard Cash Cuts and Runs

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Just what it means when United States Steel cuts the dividend rate from 7 to 4 and hints at a readjustment of salaries is not very clear to me, but when two Kentucky horse-track corporations decide to abandon their fall meetings and some of the New York and Maryland horse-track firms decide to curtail their purses, it is apparent that easy money is becoming hard to get.

This is a shocking realization. In a careless way of thinking, I had come to the notion that my friends among the habitually and resolutely unemployed would always be able to find plenty of easy money, come war, come famine, come panic and plague. Now, however, I hear that it is a good business policy to stay away from the little social gathering places of the habitually and resolutely unemployed. They all want to declare dividends on all the money that anybody has who has any money at all.

I am told that in one of the little clubs where the members of the h. and r. unemployed set are spending their time and nothing else these afternoons and evenings reading the horse papers and making mental four-horse parlays, a list has been posted on the bulletin board of all persons suspected of having funds. The heading on the list is: "All Members Are Advised That the Parties Listed Below are Reliably Believed to be Bites. All Persons Successfully Putting the Bite on any of the Parties Named Below are in Honor Bound to leave 20 Per Cent of Said Bite or Bites With the Treasurer." So far no per cent has been left with the treasurer.

Col. Edward R. Bradley, of Palm Beach, Fla., and Lexington, Ky., is listed as the One Best Bite of the current depression, but the colonel

Steele Downs Speers in 6 Minutes

3,500 Watch Body Slam End Bout in Quick Time.

Pojello Victor Over Maxos; Ginsberg Bows to Wilson.

By SHIRLEY POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

RAY STEELE might have had to catch an early train, or the evening may have been too warm for any prolonged session, or perhaps he didn't like the idea of being bunted out of the ring with a right hook attached to the gesture of Frank Speers' opening handshake, but whatever his motive, he made short shrift of Mr. Speers in the feature bout of the program at the Auditorium last night.

Exactly six minutes after Speers had roughed Jim Londos' foremost challenger all over the ring in the opening skirmish, Mr. Speers reposed on the flat of his back with Steele draped all over his features, the victim of a body slam that capped a series of airplane spins that knocked all the fight of the former Georgia Tech football star and set a new time record for a main event.

The 3,500 in the Auditorium, generously sprinkled with women, whose shrill shrieks greeted every bit of by-play while they ignored the really telling wallops, envisioned a startling upset as the brawl got under way and the roly-poly Speers handled Steele like a babe in arms.

Speers Gives Friendly Greeting.

The two giants listened intently to the detailed instructions of Referee Cyclone Burns before the bout, but nothing apparently was said about the opening handshake. As Steele advanced with hand outstretched in the conventional manner, the rough Mr. Speers, disdaining such formalities, brought his right hand up from behind his back and scored a direct hit that catapulted Steel into a neutral corner.

Speers scrambled after the fallen near-champion and with a few well-directed smashes with both elbows had Steel gasping like the veriest preliminary boy. He survived that first onslaught, however, and set about in very workmanlike style to uphold his reputation. He grasped Speers about the middle, held him high, picked out a couple of hard spots on the canvas and flung the former football player to earth. Steele repeated the process twice more and when the zealousness seeped from Speers he leaped up with all of his 215 pounds and rendered him hors de combat for keeps.

Pojello Does Job In 32 Minutes.

Italian met Greek in the semifinal and the good-looking John Maxos wasted a lot of energy with a lot of holds and took a bad beating around the head and body in the 32 minutes that Karl Pojello required to toss him on the mat with a crotch hold and body slam.

Pojello knew too many tricks for the younger Maxos and permitted the Greek to wrestle himself into submission until the proper moment arrived for the finishing gesture. He escaped from Maxos' leg scissors by the simple expedient of bouncing around the ring on the top of his head, thus avoiding injury.

"Doc" Wilson, perennial Indian University student, did not disappoint his adm...rs among the fair sex in his battle with Benny Ginsberg. Nineteen minutes after the bout started, and as Ginsberg glanced over his shoulder to count the half-filled house, Wilson brought his man down and out with a flying tackle.

Tiny Roebuck came in from his cottage in the suburbs for a mild workout with Lou Plumber, and in 13½ minutes had finished Plumber with a body slam that was heard by the patrolman on the beat. Ivan Victoroff, who substituted for Tiger Nelson in the first preliminary, succumbed to Son Jennings in 16½ minutes on one of the numerous flying tackles that marked the show.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

MR. PETE MARSHALL, no longer just a stylish stout, who is rounding out the best part of a half century at the telegraph key, is in a fair way toward winning an argument that has disrupted the tranquillity of this department for ten years within the tender memory of this column.

The obese Mr. Marshall, who can score a direct hit at any given cuspidor from a given distance, is of the old school of sports fans, who rears from his seat, dilates at the nostrils, and emits a short and ugly word at the mention of the prowess of a modern-day ball player.

Mr. Marshall has followed baseball for so long that it is now the accepted belief that he was present as third base coach on that memorable occasion when the game first saw light of day at Cooperstown, N. Y., in August, 1839, the invention of the ancient Abner Doubleday.

Ruth Not Excepted

Pete has held out these many years for Wagner, Lajoie, Crawford and the other sluggers of ancient vintage against the products of the modern era of baseball, not excepting even Babe Ruth and his record of 60 home runs in one season.

For ten seasons, the silver-thatched Mr. Marshall has waged a lone battle against the impressive batting averages of modern-day sluggers, unmoved by the gleeful taunts of the young upstarts who consigned him to the category of a confirmed old cynic, disappointed in love, mayhap, and venting his rage on all who chanced to say something nice about baseball or something bad about horse races. In that connection it is also the accepted belief that Mr. Marshall, claiming the racing background that he does, was the stable boy for Paul Revere, famous jockey of the Revolutionary War.

Aid Arrives for Pete

But succor has arrived for Pete in the form of the latest batting figures of the big league. In plain language it is written that Charley Grimm, of the Cubs, is now the kingpin of the National League batters, with an average of .347, a mark that would not have landed him among the first ten previous to the 1931 season, when the club owners wrought a change in the rabbit ball that sent batting marks soaring like a rocket to the moon.

The American League is still holding up with its high batting figures that find Babe Ruth maintaining a pace of .386, with two others in the .370 class. But the American League magnates did not do such an effective job in pinning back the ears of the rabbit ball as did the National owners, who not only raised the stitches but applied a heavier cover which the rival big league neglected to do.

The National League ball now in use is the closest approach to the ball that Cobb, Crawford, Burkett, Wagner, Lajoie, Baker et al., the accepted sluggers of their time, had to deal with, and

Kilmer Star In $25,000 Feature

Sun Beau Favorite in Rich Arlington Handicap.

Will Pass Fox's Earnings of $328,165 With Victory.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, July 31 (A.P.).—Topped by two $25,000 added stakes at Arlington Park, nearly $75,000 will be distributed to the winners of the feature races on the American turf tomorrow. Chief interest centers in the Arlington Handicap, in which Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau will attempt to pass Gallant Fox's all-time money-winning record of $328,165.

The 6-year-old veteran faces a difficult task, however, as he has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds and asked to give plenty of pounds to his nine rivals.

18 Classy Juveniles in Secondary Feature.

Secondary in interest only is the third renewal of the Post and Paddock Stakes at the Chicago track, for which eighteen classy juveniles have been named. Favored by the weights, the Dorwood Stable's Morfair probably will go to the post the favorite—although practically every youngster in the race has a record worthy of notice.

Empire City also offers a twin feature bill in the $5,000 Empire City Derby and the $2,500 added Wakefield Handicap for 2-year-olds, while Latonia has hung up a purse of $10,000 for nine 3-year-old fillies.

If the 3-year-old misses run true to form, a rank outsider probably will win the Latonia Oaks; but the Three D's Stock Farm's Canfil, winner of the Arlington Oaks, looms as the probable choice.

Although six second-class 3-year-olds will start in the Empire City Derby, at 1¼ miles, the race has been robbed of much of its color by Vander Pool's failure to stand training. Trainer "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons has entered a strong pair in Blenheim and Sir Ashley, and one of the two appears to be the most probable winner.

Mediocre Field to Start In Wakefield.

Eight mediocre juveniles, including C. V. Whitney's Fall Apple, have been named for the Wakefield.

As usual with Friday racing program, today's cards were just ordinary. Tetrarchal, a colt which had failed to run back to his morning workouts in previous races at Empire City, found his racing legs, and he beat a large field of shifty sprinters in the Consolation Claiming Handicap at the New York course. Cuties Boots, W. W. Vaughn's fainthearted and inconsistent son of Captain Cuttle and Puss-in-Boots upset the Latonia talent for the second time during the meeting, when he defeated a speedy band of sprinters in the Fountain News Shoppe Purse and paid $45.74 for $2.

At Arlington Park, the consistent 2-year-old performer Newgro, showed a flash of his famous stretch running ability to account for the Wauconda purse by three lengths over W. R. Coe's Jambalaya. Volta Maid, the filly which hung up a new track record of 59 seconds for five furlongs earlier in the week, finished sixth.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Arlington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., Aug. 1.—Climaxing its most successful meeting, the Arlington Park course will offer a double feature on its closing day program. The Post and Paddocks Stakes, a test for juveniles, at the 6-furlong route and the Arlington Handicap, for older horses, at the mile and a quarter route, will hold the center of attraction on one of the most interesting cards of the current meeting.

In the Arlington Handicap, W. S Kilmer's consistent SUN BEAU, will endeavor to surpass Gallant Fox's money winning record of $328,165. The Sun Briar horse has shown remarkable ability in carrying weight over a route and his impost of 128 pounds should not stop the Kilmer ace from surpassing the Fox's record. GALLANT KNIGHT, in receipt of 8 pounds from the top one, should offer stern opposition. MIKE HALL, the veteran campaigner, has shown a return to his best form and nicely weighted with 116 pounds, is capable of upsetting the calculations.

A field of eighteen potential juvenile champions will face the barrier to contest the six furlongs of the Post and Paddock's Stakes. MORFAIR, from the Dorwood Stable, displayed his brilliant speed in his only outing at this track and since then has turned in a five panel trial in :59 2-5 which attests his fitness. The chief contender will be TICK ON. This clever youngster scored impressively in his New York debut and has trained briskly for the Juvenile honors. The Coe entry of POLONAISE and OSCULATOR appear best of the others and should get into the money.

FIRST RACE—The opening dash, at 5 furlongs, attracted a limit field of juveniles, with RARA AVIS selected to score. This youngster has shown steady improvement and is ready. FLYING and CHU CHU are evenly matched.

SECOND RACE—A field of cheap platers will contest the purse over the mile route of the second. BUBOLA faltered over a route last start, but will favor the shorter distance and figures to outfoot his rivals. SAGE FIRE needed his last and is given the place call. BARNEY SEXTON has trained well and should finish in the money.

THIRD RACE—STONE MARTIN, a recent winner at this track, has the speed of seven rivals in the mile of the third, which is fashioned for 3-year-olds exclusively. WEIDELEEN has shown excellent form in recent efforts and will offer stern opposition. TRY IT showed a clever effort last outing, and in this class gets the show call.

SIXTH RACE—Eight platers will be dispatched over the 1¼-mile distance in the sixth, with LADRONE, a steady router, favored to gain the honors. BRIGHT DAY finished second in his last and against the same class should go as well here. COADY will appreciate the distance and has an outside chance to take down the major award.

SEVENTH RACE—In the concluding number a field of seven has been entered to contest the issue over the 10-furlong ground. DODGSON, a useful plater in the Everglade string, figures best of his six opponents. RUSHING has shown steady improvement in previous efforts and is the one to fear, with BUB McFARLAND favored to gain the minor award.

ARLINGTON PARK, ILL., CHART, JULY 31, 1931.

FIRST RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Special weights. For maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:16. Off at 2:18⅘. Winner, K. E. Hitt's ch. f. (2), by Bub Lerner—Rowesgold. Trained by T. Roderick. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:47, 0:59 4-5.

ALL ROWES was never far from the pace and, coming fast in the stretch, took command and held CHATTER QUEEN to the finish. CHATTER QUEEN was always close up and was going gamely at end. WESTY'S QUEEN set the pace, but tired.

SECOND RACE—About two miles (short course). Purse, $2,000. Deep Run Claiming Steeplechase. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:42. Off at 2:42. Two-dollar mutuels paid—AUTUMN BELLS, $2.82, $2.18, out; PROOF POSITIVE, $4.74, out; HILLOCK, out.

AUTUMN BELLS, jumping well and racing as if best, was always in front near the head and, shaking off PROOF POSITIVE when the latter challenged over the twelfth fence, won easily. PROOF POSITIVE showed improvement in his jumping and, while not capable of besting the winner, finished far in front of HILLOCK. Latter was content to trail the field throughout. QUEEN'S PAL lost his rider when he made a bad landing at the tenth fence and FAIR BOB also dumped his rider at the same obstacle.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:16. Off at 3:17. Winner, Jones Stock Farm's blk. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CELTIC PRINCE, $18.28, $9.44, $5.52; BLACK COMET, $9.56, $5.26; PHILLIP, $5.52.

CELTIC PRINCE, in a prominent position from the start, came strongly after entering the stretch and wore down BLACK COMET to win handily. BLACK COMET headed the field an eighth out and raced gamely to the end, but could not resist winner. PHILLIP displayed the most early speed and would have finished closer up but for meeting with interference in last quarter.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. For 2-year olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:46. Off at 3:48. Winner, Miss A. Pendergast's br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NEWGRO, $9.12, $3.80, $3.12; JAMBALAYA, $4.88, $3.84; ANUBIS, $4.36.

NEWGRO, always close up, passed ANUBIS and VOLTA MAID entering the stretch and led to the end to win under urging. JAMBALAYA came fast on the outside in the stretch and was gaining on the winner. ANUBIS showed much early speed and led briefly after passing VOLTA MAID at stretch turn, but could not last.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (Chute course, out of the chute). Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:26. Off at 4:29. Winner, F. M. Grabner's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHICAGO GIRL, $7.04, $4.60, $3.00; ANNIE REE, $11.10, $7.04; MATADI, $3.94.

CHICAGO GIRL headed ANNIE REE in the last quarter and took a good lead, but was forced to a drive in the last sixteenth to retain her advantage when the latter came again. ANNIE REE displayed good early speed and raced gamely to the end. MATADI was always close up and held BLACK BULL. Latter threw his rider en route to the post, but raced well and finished in courageous fashion.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward, colts, horses and geldings. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:56½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PELLEGRINO, $51.96, $23.24, $8.92; BATTLING ON, $11.18, $4.84; GRAND PRINCE, $2.76.

PELLEGRINO gained steadily in the last quarter and, catching BATTLING ON in the last sixteenth, was slowly going away under urging at the finish. BATTLING ON moved up strongly to catch GRAND PRINCE an eighth out and held on well in the final drive, but could not resist winner. GRAND PRINCE took a short lead after going a quarter and, although used up racing with DARK SIMON in the early stages, had enough left to draw away when CHANCELLOR challenged at the stretch turn, but had little left for the final run.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAKE BELIEVE, $7.06, $3.48, $2.88; WIRT G. BOWMAN, $3.12 $2.82; ORMONTIME, $4.40.

MAKE BELIEVE acted badly at the barrier and was placed outside the stall gate, but broke well and, reathing a contending position around the first turn, wore down WIRT G. BOWMAN in the stretch run and was slowly going away at the end. WIRT G. BOWMAN opened up a good lead in the early stages and had a handy advantage turning for home, but hung slightly in the final drive. ORMONTIME was well up throughout and raced gamely to the end. BEAR CRY raced forwardly and, finishing in courageous fashion, appeared to have got up in time to take third place.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 6:01. Off at 6:02. Winner, C. W. Ogle's b. g. (4), by Prince Pal—Dulce Tokalon. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48, 1:13 3-5, 1:39, 2:04 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRINCE TOKALON, $7.42, $3.28, $2.74; DUNMORE, $8.96, $2.48; PUNISHMENT, $5.96.

PRINCE TOKALON went to the front soon after the start and, withstanding the challenge of DUNMORE at the far turn, drew into a safe lead in the final quarter. DUNMORE was always closest to the leader, but was not good enough.

JOHNSON TEAM WINS IN PLAYGROUND CONFERENCE MEET

70-Pounder Is Star in Victory

Barnard Playground Second; Third to Happy Hollow.

THE Johnson Playground Track Team served notice on its rivals that it will have to be considered again before the city championship is settled late this month.

The Johnson squad, led by a little, dark-eyed boy named Adolfo Fernandez, almost doubled the score on Barnard yesterday to win the Northwestern Conference meet, one of the series of trials being staged by the Municipal Playground Department which lead up to the big city meet in which The Washington Post's medals will be at stake.

In triumphing yesterday the Columbia Heights boys ran up a total of 82 points to 42½ for Arthur Marks' Barnard group. Happy Hollow came through with 20 points to gain third place, while other scores were, Oyster, 11½; Cooke, 9; Bancroft, 6; Mitchell Park, 6; Lafayette, 5.

Fernandez Outclasses Opponents.

Fernandez, who holds the city record for the 50-yard dash in the 70-pound class, figured in victories in every event in his division yesterday. He won the dash and the broad jump and was a member of the winning relay and teehee teams. Jack Simmons, Camilo Osias and Speed Cusimano were other heavy scorers for Johnson.

85-POUND CLASS.

100-POUND CLASS.

115-POUND CLASS.

UNLIMITED CLASS.

Martinez and Tabler Play For Women's D. C. Net Title

Misses Crist, Jarrell Reach Consolation Final.

MRS. MARTINEZ.

AS a result of yesterday's play, finals in the singles and consolations were reached in the District of Columbia women's championship tennis tournament, being run off on the Columbia Country Club courts, and the title rounds will be played today. Due to the illness of Miss Frances Walker, she was forced to default her match to Miss Clara Tabler, while Mrs. Ruth Martinez defeated Miss Mary Ryan in love sets. The Martinez-Tabler final round match will feature today's play, being scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

In the consolations, Miss Goldie Crist, who won in this class last year, was extended to the limit to eliminate Miss Kismet Siri, while Miss Marie Jarrell downed Miss Elizabeth Kohner. These two winners meet in the final at 10:30 this morning, the early hour being set because Miss Jarrell plans to leave the city this afternoon.

Misses Tabler, Krucoff to Doubles Final.

Miss Tabler and Miss Frances Krucoff advanced to the title round in the women's doubles in a three-set tussle with Miss Ryan and Miss Helen Philpitt. Mrs. Martinez and Miss Walker already had reached this round in the other half and will meet yesterday's winners for the championship tomorrow afternoon.

As is indicated by the 6—0, 6—0 score, Mrs. Martinez was hardly extended in winning from Miss Ryan, the hardest-fought match of the day being that between Misses Crist and Siri in the consolations. The latter won in the first set, a deuced one, at 7—5, and then appeared to have lost her stamina when she dropped the second at 6—1. In the third, however, she came back strongly and eighteen hard-fought games were needed before Miss Crist finally won, 10—8.

Two first-round matches in the mixed doubles were played, and the committee in charge hopes to make considerable progress in this class today, although it hardly seems likely that the finals can be reached by tomorrow, as was originally planned.

Yesterday's summaries:

SINGLES.

SEMIFINAL ROUND—Clara Tabler defeated Frances Walker, by default; Mrs. Ruth Martinez defeated Mary Ryan, 6—0, 6—0.

have made each combination most unpopular with the other.

Since the Washington Club returned home from its last Western invasion, including a one-day jump to Philadelphia for a double-header there, it has played 24 games and has been victorious in 14 of them. Every other club in the league has been met, with three successive victories over the Red Sox being what saved the Johnsons from being beaten by their Eastern rivals. Unfortunately, they lost three of five games to the Mackmen, the team they wanted to beat most, while the Yankees downed them in their only meeting with the New Yorkers.

Against the West, the Nats did much better, winning nine of fifteen, and three of these defeats were registered by the St. Louis Browns. Against their collective opponents, they had a slight edge in all departments of play, as the following figure-picture shows:

Two Matches Today In Suburban League

The league-leading Standards Team will meet Lakeview on the Lakeview courts and Argyle Country Club will clash with Wesley Heights on the latter's courts in Suburban Tennis League matches scheduled for today. Standards has hopelessly outclassed its three rivals. Wesley Heights' battle with Argyle for third place, which is none too interesting, remains as the only feature of the race.

Gould Jones, D. C. Boy, Wins in Yacht Race

Gould Jones, 15-year-old local schoolboy, won the event for MB knockabout yachts in the opening race of the Cleon Yacht Club regatta held at Marblehead, Mass. The youth brought his Comet home ahead of a large field of veteran yachtsmen.

Young Jones, who is a student at St. Alban's Cathedral School for Boys, is an ardent yachtsman, spending the greater part of his summer vacation on the water. He resides at 3601 Newark street northwest.

Orioles, Caseys Meet Today in Insect Game

Only one game is scheduled in the Insect section of The Post's Capital City League today. That one brings together the league-leading Orioles and the K. of C. teams. It will be the "Little Caseys'" last game.

The Georgetown-Wonder Boy game was postponed out of respect for "Buck" Trundle, manager of the former, whose father died Tuesday afternoon. The game will be played at a later date.

PEGLER SEES EASY CASH SCARCE

Return of Widener's Millions Eagerly Awaited.

is not in New York at present, and it is difficult to bite by wire or mail. Mr. Joseph E. Widener, also listed as a very good bite, apparently heard the boys gnashing their teeth for the bite some weeks ago, because he went to Europe abruptly. There is great anxiety about Mr. Widener's return, and one hears such expressions as "I hope nothing happens to detain dear old Mr. Widener, as I am planning to go down to the dock to welcome him home. Goodness, how I miss dear old Mr. Widener."

Mr. Bill Dwyer, the beverage magnate, is known as an excellent bite, too, but one has to find him to put the tusks to him, and for some time now Mr. Dwyer has been, to put it tactfully, inaccessible. It seems that the prohibition people took over a big brewery on the West Side not long ago and want to ask Mr. Dwyer if he happens to remember off-hand whether it was his brewery. If it was his brewery, then Mr. Dwyer's biteability must have been greatly reduced, because it was one of the best breweries in the United States and the Government's takeover would represent not only a great loss of invested capital but a dreadful curtailment of income, with malt beverages quoted at 25 cents per hoist and the weather as hot as it is. Mr. Dwyer owns the Jacksonville, Fla., horse track and the New York Americans Hockey Club.

Some of the Boys Turn Cannibal.

I am told that in the absence of the three best bites on the list and with all the secondary and lesser bits maintaining a cautious aloofness, some of the boys in desperation have turned cannibal, so to speak, and are trying to bite one another.

It is very tragic, but there is one mitigating circumstance in the fact that, owing to the scarcity of working jobs, they are not confronted with the necessity of going to work, a fate worse than death. It is, also, almost incredible to me, because for some years I had been seeing the boys in Florida in the winter, in Saratoga in August and in other expensive haunts of pleasure and extravagance between times, always unemployed but always fairly well upholstered with easy money. If a party didn't happen to have easy money he had only to wait around the cigar counter or the key-desk at a good hotel until somebody came by who had some and declare himself a dividend.

Furthermore, the easy money continued to circulate freely long after reports began to come in from out-of-the-way corners of the world, such as Kansas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, that eggs were selling for a dime a dozen, oil for less than a dollar a barrel and roastin' ears of corn at a dozen for a nickel. Even while the Red Cross was rationing the lowlanders of Arkansas, Mr. Widener, or Dear Old Mr. Widener, to give him his full title, was promising to spend $1,000,000 to modernize the horse track at Miami, and reports came from Reno, Nev., backed by newspaper photographs, that money was washing back and forth across the gambling tables there like a sea between its shores.

Reno Flares and Goes Out.

Advices from Reno now are that the horse meeting there was a financial mishap and that after a few loads of excursionists had dropped their easy money at the track and at the tables no more excursionists came.

But, after all, I suppose one should not be too deeply depressed by all this. Horse racing, even to the customer, is a very expensive pleasure, and gambling against the house, whether in Reno, Monte Carlo or the politically nonexistent halls of Florida, is not really gambling, but merely a system of giving money to the party on the safe side of the table. At any rate, the easy money put up a game fight. It didn't give up until long after the hard money, which is the only kind of money that the farmer and the people who toil at vulgar working jobs ever handle, had cut and run.

I do think, though, that Dear Old Mr. Widener ought to hurry back from Europe and succor those who love him so.

VINES VICTOR OVER DOEG IN 5 SETS

match Doeg played with a steadiness that made it appear certain he would avenge his defeat in the Longwood Bowl event.

But at the opening of the third set, Vines started a glittering attack at the net, alternating low volleys with unreturnable smashes. Feeling a seemingly apparent victory gradually slipping from his grasp, Doeg softened his shots in an attempt to retard Vines' pace, which was fast gaining momentum.

The champion's maneuver did not have the desired effect and Vines kept on playing invincibly, scoring points freely with powerfully hit backhand drives.

The turning point of the match came in the tenth game of the fourth set. At this stage Doeg was leading, 5 to 4, in games and won the first two points from Vines' service in the tenth. Employing his powerful backband stroke, the Pasadena youngster pulled the match out of the fire by winning the next four points to take the game.

Doeg Employs "Cannon Ball."

Both finalists played sterling tennis in the first two sets. The play was just as close as the scores indicate. Doeg was playing his best tennis of the year. His "cannon-ball" service and sizzling slice shots were working beautifully on base line play. Even though Vines' strong backhand play was not working effectively for him, he was getting results with his straight, bullet-like shots to Doeg's baseline.

Suddenly finding his backhand stroke in the third set, Vines slowly worked up a lead over Doeg, who was growing weary from the terrific pace. Vines was indefatigable, playing at probably as fast a pace and stroking the ball with as startling accuracy and deadliness as he ever has in his meteoric career.

Tiring from Vines' change of pace, Doeg played a defensive game in the last set but was outmatched by his younger opponent's assortment of shots. Several times Vines cleverly drew Doeg close to the net, the champion's favorite spot after service, and then whipped across passing shots that left Doeg in the middle of the court.

Vines scored heavily on placements, having 49 against 22 for the national champion. The Pacific Coast player benefited by Doeg's 10 double faults.

RECAPITULATION.

	Vines—Nets, 77; outs, 79; placements, 49; service aces, 12; double faults, 7.

The women's doubles title was carried off by Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Calif., and Mrs. John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, who won by a score of 9—7, 0—6 and 6—4 over Baroness Levi, of Rye, N. Y., and Mrs. Laurence A. Harper, of Oakland, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Ryn gained the final round of mixed doubles by defeating Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., and Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., 6—3, 6—4.

The other finalists will be Vines and Miss Cruickshank, who eliminated Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., 8—6, 6—4.

California's Helens In 8th Meeting Today

Seabright, N. J., July 31.—Much interest is being shown here in the meeting tomorrow between California's two Helens, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, of San Francisco, and Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, in the final round of the forty-fourth annual Seabright invitation tennis tournament. They battle for top honors in the women's singles event.

Mrs. Moody entered the final by beating Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Thursday, while Miss Jacobs earned a semifinal round default from Mrs. L. A. Harper, of Oakland, Calif. Miss Jacobs, who holds two legs on the Seabright trophy, will be seeking to score her first victory over Mrs. Moody for the eighth time.

Tennis "Party" to Send Muny Team to National Roof Garden Manager Comes to Rescue of Netmen.

INDICATIONS are that Washington will be represented in the National Public Parks tennis championships, which start at Detroit on August 17, after all. Because of lack of funds, the Washington Tennis Association had about given up hope of sending its eligibles in quest of United States honors until Joe Robichaux, directing manager of the Arlington Hotel and Roof Garden, last night stepped in with an offer which, it is hoped, will result in the necessary funds being raised.

Next Friday night has been designated as "Washington public parks tennis night" on the Arlington roof, when a tennis party will be arranged. Tennis fans and the welfare booths at all public parks courts will sell "courtesy cover charge" tickets at $1 each, and all money received in this manner will be turned over to District tennis authorities.

The committee in charge is confident that the tennis enthusiasts of the Capital City will rally to the cause. The Washington players who earned the right to represent this city in the national event are: Dooly Mitchell, in men's singles; Eddie Yeomans and Thomas (Bud) Markey, in men's doubles; Miss Frances Walker, in women's singles, and Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Miss Walker, in women's doubles.

STOCKS AID DECLINE IN GENERAL VALUES

Bears Attack Many Issues Resulting in Small Losses on Selected List.

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—Stocks contributed to a general downward readjustment of values on the financial markets today. Unless it was the action of the leading speculative commodities, nothing came up in the news to influence the decline in stocks.

Bears found numerous issues vulnerable, and although there was an occasional rally the upward flurries lacked strength and final quotations were mostly lower for the principal trading favorites. Sales were smaller than yesterday's, only 1,173,910 shares changing hands. The average loss was less than a point.

U. S. Steel had a narrow escape from reaching the year's low during the morning reaction, touching 83⅜, where it was off 2½. At the close, however, the decline had been reduced to ⅝. American Can was weak and American Telephone had to take considerable selling; both lost 2 points net.

Targets for Bears.

Westinghouse and J. I. Case were favorite targets for the bears, the former losing 4 and the latter 4¾ net, although the extreme drop in Case was 6½ points. This stock is combating dividend uncertainty in speculative circles.

Omission of the Nickel Plate dividends was bad news for the rails, although the directors' decision was not unexpected. The common shares were down as much as 6 points, but came back 1 from the low, while the 6 per cent preferred broke 20½. Union Pacific, Atchison and New York Central yielded in the neighborhood of 2.

Miscellaneous firm spots embraced Drugs, Inc., Penney, National Biscuit and Bethlehem Steel, the last being helped by the earnings report. Tobaccos softened in response to the Federal Trade Commission's investigation of the rise in cigarette prices.

Wheat Drops 3 Cents.

July wheat lost 3 cents a bushel, establishing a new record low at 48 cents. The other months were down fractionally. Rains in the Northwest and Canada, as well as bearish crop estimates, contributed to the weakness. July corn ended the month with a 4½-cent jump, but September and December eased. Cotton concluded the 1930-31 season with active months at the lowest points of the crop year, off $1 to $1.20 net. Private crop estimates were bearish.

The weekly trade reviews were reasonably cheerful. Merchandise is being moved to meet, in the words of Dun's, "buying for replenishment that permits no further postponement." Much of the activity appears to be in anticipation of fall needs, but many of the reports to Bradstreet's sounds a more optimistic note, due in part to "an improved feeling about the business situation in general."

July closed without a firming in short-term money. The official call loan renewal charge held at 1½ per cent throughout the month, thus duplicating June's record. Credit is so plentiful these days that the familiar month-end tightening of interest rates is no more experienced.

Sterling exchange softened, cables closing at $4.85 25-32, off 9-32, but considerably above the day's low and still over the gold point. Nominal quotations on the German mark showed a decline of 1-5 cent. Other European moneys, including the French franc, drifted lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 31 (A.P.).—Up-to-date rivals of the patriarch Joseph, of ancient Egyptian renown, brought to success today grain trade operations involving millions of bushels of corn.

Thomas M. Howell, of Chicago, and James P. Bickell, of Toronto, Canada, were generally credited tonight with having emulated the achievement of Joseph of old in getting possession of the corn available supply needed in a crisis at a particular time and place. The crisis in this case was the expiration of Chicago July corn contracts which recently had not been settled, and which yesterday and today were largely adjusted at a price advance of about 15 cents a bushel. Willingness of Howell and Bickell to supply corn to all bidders today at prices in some cases nearly 5 cents below yesterday's peak price of 72¼ cents, deprived the dealings of any apparent semblance of a violation of trade rules. The fact, however, that the final price today was the topmost figure reached at any stage of the deal gave assurance to claims that the two men were in command of the situation at the finish, and were entitled to be hailed as victors in a notable struggle that was popularly estimated as netting them at least $1,000,000.

A dramatic circumstance was that while July corn soared to 72¼ cents a bushel, July wheat broke the all-time low price record and fell to 48 cents, the bottommost quotation ever known for any wheat future in Chicago. The sensational drop in wheat prices recalled acutely that Howell had been recently bearish on wheat, although bullish on corn, and that Government financial grain agencies had been operating on an exactly opposite basis.

Corn closed strong for July contracts, 4⅛@4½ cents higher than yesterday's finish. Other corn deliveries were ½@¾ cent down, with wheat showing ⅛@¼ cent decline, oats varying from ⅜ cent off to ⅛ cent up, and provisions at 22@30 cents setback.

Wind-up of July corn dealings began with an irregular start today, prices in the corn market as a whole ranging from 1 cent decline to ½ cent advance. Soon, however, a tightening of values took place, and July corn rose sharply from the day's initial quotation, 67⅞ cents, and touched 72 cents. Later, the price fluctuated between 70 and 72¼ cents, with market action tending to confirm reports that a private understanding had been reached with the principal trading firms were short, and that 72½ cents would be the maximum.

It was estimated that Howell and Bickell had taken in and paid for 7,000,000 bushels of corn this month without including further deliveries which were possible to be made at the Board of Trade clearing house after the market had closed. A significant development was that cash corn prices today advanced faster than July contracts. No. 3 yellow corn spot delivery commanding 80 cents, an advance to 6 to 7 cents over yesterday. Notice was also taken of an authoritative unofficial estimate that 1931 corn production would approximate 2,000,000 bushels less than the Government's July 1 forecast.

Wheat weakness was ascribed to meagerness of demand, rather than to any unusual selling pressure. Export advices regarding wheat were pessimistic. Oats followed wheat.

Provisions lacked support.

CAPITAL CLEARINGS OF BANKS DECREASE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

July clearings of local banks fell behind those of the month a year ago. The monthly report made public yesterday by Manager Charles E. Bright, of the Washington, D. C., Clearing House Association, revealed clearings in July had a valuation of $100,887,-167.37, as contrasted with $109,420,-638.23 for the month last year, a decline of $8,533,470.86.

July clearings were also lower than those of the previous month this year, which aggregated $115,114,393.13. With the exception of February's, clearings of last month were the lowest of the year thus far. July, 1930, was likewise the quietest business month of that year to date with the exception of January. Clearings for the year to-date total $750,681,265.11, as against $785,670,847.11 for the corresponding period of 1930.

Clearings by months for the first seven months of 1931 compare as follows with the corresponding months in 1930:

January	$109,764,614	$118,219,264
February	96,742,175	96,545,212
March	112,443,159	114,113,696
April	113,382,805	118,036,652
May	102,346,949	113,055,037
June	115,114,393	116,280,346
July	100,887,167	109,420,638
Totals	$750,681,265	$785,670,847

Gas Units Added.

Through dealer and company efforts, the Associated Gas & Electric System added 19,489 gas and electric refrigerator units to its lines during a six weeks' campaign from May 11 to June 27, according to latest figures. Approximate sales value of these units is $5,000,000, and the estimated annual revenue from their use, $673,000.

Of the above number of units dealers in the territory served sold 9,592 units, or 4,077 more than they sold during a similar activity conducted by the Associated System in 1930. The Associated Gas & Electric System sold 9,897, or 124 per cent of its quota of 7,814.

The Associated campaign, called the 1931 Refrigeration Jubilee, was part of a nation-wide effort to sell 1,000,000 electric refrigerators during 1931, which is being directed by the Electric Refrigeration Bureau of the National Electric Light Association, and which is being participated in by the electric light and power companies and refrigerator manufacturers all over the country.

Groups Compete on Quota.

Fourteen groups of operating properties within the Associated Gas & Electric System competed against one another on a quota basis. The Louisiana group sold the largest percentage of quota, reaching 209 per cent of their goal. The Pennsylvania-New Jersey group, which includes Metropolitan Edison Co., sold the largest number of units. Their total of 2,-264 units was 172 per cent of quota. More than 1,000 refrigerators each were sold by the northwestern New York (Rochester) group, the New England Gas & Electric Association group, the southern New York (Binghamton and Elmira) group and the Empire-New York (Geneva and Ithaca) group.

The selling was participated in by many of the 16,500 employees of the Associated System, in addition to 525 special Associated appliance salesmen who operate through 165 Associated appliance stores.

Curb Review

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—The curb market again found itself drifting listlessly today. The turnover was only 170,000 shares, placing the session among the half dozen dullest of the past few years. Prices moved narrowly, and without uniformity.

American Gas & Electric was a feature of the utilities, slipping back 2 points in a fair turnover for this issue. American & Foreign Power warrants and United Light A eased fractionally. North American Light & Power, however, pushed up a point to a new high at 69½, but then closed at 68¾. Associated Gas A was firm, moving up a major fraction to 13. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore gained nearly 5 points in a thin market.

Oils moved narrowly. Standard of Ohio gained a point, while Gulf and Vacuum sagged fractionally. Cities Service, Indiana Standard and Humble closed about steady.

In the industrials and specialties, Stutz Motor, which has been making new lows of late, recovered nearly 2 points. Deere dipped to a new low under 16, then rallied to close at 17. Affiliated Products and Aluminum Co. gained about a point. Ruberoid Co. a lightly traded issue, lost 2 points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, July 31 (A.P.).—The cotton season of 1930-31 closed today with prices for all of the active positions at the lowest point recorded during the entire crop year.

As far as the near positions were concerned this represented losses from the high points of the season of $18.75 to $19.75 per bale, or from 3¾ to almost 4 cents per pound. The December position today advanced a few points early to 8.89 on covering, but failed to encounter any substantial buying, later declining to 8.58 and closing at 8.59, a loss of 23 points, while the entire list closed barely steady at 20 to 24 points net lower.

The opening was steady 3 to 5 points higher and early in the session the market displayed a fair amount of stability on covering and trade buying and an absence of selling pressure which seemed to have been inspired by the prevailing belief that the market was in a firm technical position as a result of the recent heavy selling and on the theory that shorts would want to cover for over the week-end and also for over the bureau report due at the close of next week.

The news of the day, however, was not of a character to encourage new buying and included a private crop estimate indicating a yield of 14,300,000 bales, which compared with last year's final crop of 13,932,000 bales. Furthermore, weather conditions over the belt were favorable and, aside from some complaints relative to weevil activities, crop accounts were very satisfactory.

Trade interests were the most conspicuous buyers during the day, with some active buying by brokers who usually operate for Japanese account. There was also a fair amount of covering, but after the early show of stability and when the demand failed to develop as an aggressive character selling orders came into the market in volume and fairly overwhelmed the buyers.

The selling seemed to have originated in a number of sources including the West, Wall street and the South. It was thought that part of the selling was possibly in the form of hedging operations against the new crop, as new crop cotton is beginning to appear in the daily reports of receipts at the ports in southern Texas. The action of the stock market also contributed to the day's developments and the market continued to decline up to the close.

Exports today, 12,261, making 6,941,036 so far this season; port receipts, 22,905; U. S. port stocks, 2,786,941.

Record Humidity Relaxes After Hundreds Seek Relief in Parks.

ONLY 2 PROSTRATIONS REPORTED YESTERDAY

Gradual Recession Brings Low Mark of 79 Degrees at 6 in Afternoon.

Sun-seare 1 Washington went about its duties yesterday in comparative comfort, insofar as the weather was concerned. The same mercury which reached 97 degrees Wednesday and Thuresday mounted no higher than 91, according to the Weather Bureau. This was a few minutes before 3 o'clock.

The Pennsylvania avenue kiosk recorded 99 for 3 o'clock, 3 degrees under Thursday's high.

Hope that the downward sweep would continue was contained in the forecast of fair and somewhat cooler last night and probably today. Hospitals reported only two prostrations, neither of which was serious.

800 Sleep in Parks.

The humidity, which registered 95 in the early morning hours, was responsible, along with temperatures which never fell below 79, for more than 800 men, women and children taking to the parks to sleep. Hundreds of others spent the night on their lawns, porches and roof-tops.

Park Police stated that 334 heat victims sought relief in Judiciary Park and about 250 more retreated to Potomac Park. The others spent the night scattered beneath trees in all parts of the Capital. Withal, there was no disorderliness nor any disturbances whatever, police said.

Gradual Recession.

Starting at midnight Thursday, when the temperature stood at 85 degrees, there was a gradual recession, until the day's low mark of 79 was reached at 6 a. m. and persisted until 7 o'clock. By 8 o'clock there had been a climb to 81. From there the mercury plugged steadily upward until the peak, 91 degrees, was reached just before 3 o'clock.

The humidity, so intense early yesterday, relaxed as the day wore on until it was only 38 at noon and a few degrees higher at 5 o'clock.

SCENES FROM AN OLD-FASHIONED PARADE

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

And here, ladies and gentlemen, are some shots from what has come to be a rare event—a circus parade. Robbins Bros. Shows, which played Alexandria yesterday, still believes in the old-fashioned street parade even after many others have discontinued it. Much of the equipment now used in the parade was obtained from larger shows at bargain prices when they abandoned the practice. Upper left—An ornamental bandwagon, the United States. Upper right—The kids haven't forgotten to flock to the streets and follow the parade for blocks. Center left—Of course there is always the queen of the cowboys mounted on a calico pony with an American flag. Center right—A good example of another hand-carved wagon.

M'REYNOLDS WINS SUIT AGAINST BANK

Justice Rules That Material Facts Were Withheld on Security Notes.

The Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., as successor to the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., yesterday was directed to render an accounting to Joseph McReynolds, former automobile distributor, growing out of exchange of the McReynolds Apartments for proptrty allegedly owned by the D. C. Realty Co.

Justice Oscar R. Luhring held the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. concealed the material facts from Mr. McReynolds regarding notes on the security of which it had advanced him $50,000. He ruled the successor bank is liable to Mr. McReynolds for the sum of $125,000 represented by two notes figuring in the trade, less a credit of $50,000 loaned to him.

Cancellation of the note for $50,000 made by Mr. McReynolds and held by the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., was ordered by the court. Justice Luhring also ruled that the plaintiff is entitled to the return of $8,300 commission he paid to the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. on the exchange of the properties.

Mr. McReynolds, in his suit filed last October, charged he relied on information given him by the then president of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. that the maker of the $125,000 notes, accepted as part consideration in the apartment trade, was solvent financially, when the bank had information to the contrary.

Many Fail to File Personal Returns

Thousands Incur Penalty by Neglecting Report on Property.

Despite a last-minute rush by District residents to file personal property tax returns, between 12,000 and 15,000 became subject to fines last night for failure to make reports. Out of an estimated 42,000 persons who have sufficient property to pay personal taxes, only 26,000 had filed reports when the tax office closed.

Returns bearing the postmark of July 31 or earlier, however, will be acceptable, and it was estimated by C. A. Russell, deputy tax assessor, that a goodly number of these would be forthcoming.

The personal property of the remaining 12,000 or 15,000 will be assessed arbitrafily and a 25 per cent fine will be added. The tax rate on intangible property is 50 cents per $100. Due to the decline in the stock market, assessments this year will probably fall as much as one-third from the $500,000,000 of last year, according to Mr. Russell.

Police Hero's Pay Raised as Reward

Link Disarmed Boatman After Fatal Shooting of Sweetheart.

Private W. A. Link, of the Fourth Precinct, was granted $5 a month increased pay yesterday by District Commissioners for outstanding service on the occasion of the shooting of two young girls on July 2 by William Owens. The policeman disarmed the assailant on a flight of stairs a few minutes after the shooting.

William S. Newton, a private in the Seventh Precinct, was given permission to retire, as he has completed 30 years' continuous service and has reached the age of 60. He will be paid $100 monthly as a pension.

Commissioners approved the action of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, in suspending Privates E. W. Gore and F. J. Hospidor, of the Fourth Precinct, who have been charged with blackmail and extortion.

$88 in Loot Taken from Home.

A. K. Bojsen reported to police that his home, at 1720 Lanier place northwest, was robbed yesterday afternoon during his absence and clothing accessories and jewelry valued at $88 in all were stolen.

Contracts for School And Well Jobs Are Let

Contract for construction of a six-room addition to the Benjamin Orr School, Twenty-second and Prout streets southeast, was awarded yesterday by District Commissioners to the Lacchi Construction Co., of Baltimore. This concern, with an estimate of $68,597, was the lowest of nine bidders.

Job of drilling a drainage well in the Municipal Center area was given to the Layne Atlantic Co., of Norfolk, Va., on its low bid of $5,400.

Capital Speaker Escapes Poison

Washington Man Did Not Taste Suspected Food at Reading Picnic.

Ernest N. Smith, executive vice president of the American Automobile Association, who attended a picnic given by the Lancaster Automobile Club at Reading, Pa., Thursday, when more than 300 persons became ill from ptomaine poisoning, probably owes his present health to the fact that he was not hungry at the picnic.

Mr. Smith, who was principal speaker at the outing, came home yesterday morning to learn from news dispatches that many of the picnic crowd were violently ill.

Friends in Reading called him shortly after he returned to find if he was ill, but were told that he only had "a tomato sandwich and a glass of iced tea," and not the food suspected of being the cause of the trouble.

Girl Sues for $50,000 For Alleged Fall Hurts

Suit for $50,000 damages yesterday was brought against the District government and Goldie Stein, 482 Indiana avenue northwest, by 5-year-old Lena Riccoli, alleged to have suffered permanent injuries from a fall off a concrete wall projecting beyond the building line in front of 1709 North Capitol street.

The suit, brought through her father, Frank Riccoli, asks $25,000 damages from the District and $25,000 from Stein, reputed owner of the property. It was charged that the girl suffered a broken arm, which has never healed, when she fell from the wall October 10, 1928. Suit was filed through Attorney Harry A. Grant.

CAPT. J. H. PLATT RITES.

Six Marine Captains Pallbearers for Comrade at Arlington.

Funeral services will be held in Arlington Cemetery at 10:30 o'clock this morning for Capt. Jonas H. Platt. Full military honors will be accorded the remains of the Marine officer, who died Thursday at the Naval Hospital. He held decorations by both the Army and Navy for heroism at Belleau Wood.

Lieut. Comdr. Clinton A. Neyman, Navy chaplain, will officiate at the funeral. Six captains chosen from the Marine Corps will act as pallbearers. They are Robert C. Kilmartin, Glenn C. Cole, Carl S. Schmidt, William P. T. Hill, Charles T. Brooks and Thomas E. Bourke.

Auto and Whisky Seized.

Privates R. W. Valentine and S. N. Scott seized an automobile containing 93 one-half gallon jars of whisky yesterday on Eleventh street near Florida avenue northwest, after the machine's two colored occupants had fled on foot at the police car's approach.

Banker Thompson's Widow Wills Fund for Memorial

A memorial to the late John W. Thompson, former president of the National Metropolitan Bank, and to Mrs. Elizabeth Markward, the mother of his widow, would be erected in Washington under the terms of Mrs. Thompson's will, filed for probate yesterday.

The widow left the bulk of her $125,000 estate to her executors, George W. White and the National Metropolitan Bank, to be used in erecting the "Thompson-Markward Memorial." The form of the memorial was left to the discretion of the executors.

The petition for probate accompanying the will stated that Mrs. Thompson owned premises at 2957 Upton street northwest, assessed at $10,992, and had personal property worth $110,550.

She bequeathed $3,000 to Bessie R. Springer, $2,000 to Elizabeth Springer, $1,000 to Edward Springer, $500 each to Kenneth Markward and Blanche R. Dawson and $1,000 to Clara M. Linthicum.

A number of charitable bequests were made, $500 each to Tubercular Hospital, Central Union Mission, Home for the Blind, and Methodist Home for the Aged; $200 each to Salvation Army, Florence Crittenden Home, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Young Women's Christian Home, Indian Association, and Home for Incurables.

Bus Driver Guilty On Liquor Charge

A Washington Railway & Electric Co. bus driver was found guilty of driving his bus while drunk, reckless driving and failing to stop at a stop sign when he was tried yesterday in the police court in Marlboro, Md. Charges of possession of liquor were not upheld, however.

The man is John H. Tapley, who gave an address on M street northwest, near Ninth street. He was fined $100 for driving while drunk, $1 for reckless driving, and $25 for failing to stop at the sign. Tapley was arrested after his bus, with two passengers, had crashed into another car in Hyattsville. One of the passengers in the other car, Mrs. Lottie Flanagan, was badly bruised in the collision.

Policemen who investigated the accident said they found a half-gallon of liquor in the bus beside the driver's seat, but Judge J. Chew Sheriff decided there was no evidence to show that it might not have been left on the vehicle by another passenger.

Woman Seeks $25,000 For Alleged Taxi Hurts

Asking $25,000 damages for alleged personal injuries, Marian F. Baker, North Rosemont, Va., yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court against the Independent Taxi Owners Association and Harry E. Wolfe, 1831 Second street northeast, a member of the association.

She charged that while a passenger in Wolfe's cab February 17 last, she was thrown against a partition, when Wolfe applied the brakes suddenly to avoid collision. She said she sustained a broken nose, a cerebral concussion and other injuries. She was represented by Attorneys Douglas, Obear & Douglas.

2 More Policemen Draw Suspensions

Accused of "associating with bootleggers," two additional Fourth Precinct policemen were suspended yesterday by Inspector William S. Shelby, acting police chief. The men are Franklin S. Gue and Oscar L. Fisher.

Gue's personal automobile has been used for the delivery of liquor, Inspector Shelby said investigators told him. He said both Gue and Fisher would be taken bebfore the trial board.

Frank J. Hospidor and Edward W. Gore, two other Fourth Precinct policemen, were held for action of the grand jury Thursday by Judge Robert E. Mattingly on charges of extortion in accepting "protection money" from whisky dealers.

Silver Spring Driver Freed in Death Charge

Robert L. Tyler, of Silver Spring, was freed yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Floyd Graves, also of Silver Spring. He was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Charles W. Woodward in Rockville Police Court.

Tyler was driving a car which overturned, killing the Graves boy and injuring himself. Another youth in the car, Earl Day, of Silver Spring, was uninjured.

MOTHER OF AIRMAN KILLED OVERSEA ILL

Parent of Lieut. Fisher Is in Serious Condition at Home in Maryland.

The aged mother of Lieut. Thomas G. Fisher, U. S. Navy, who was killed Thursday when the wings of his plane collapsed over San Diego Bay, is seriously ill at her home in Oxon Hill, Md., following receipt of news of her son's death.

The body of the naval officer had not been recovered last night. In addition to his mother, Mrs. Naomi Hall, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Emery Valentine, of New York City, and two brothers, John and Adrian, the latter a lawyer practicing in the District.

The Navy Department yesterday was notified that Lieut. Fisher's plunge into San Diego Bay was "undetermined," but probably was due to structural failure in the plane. He was bombing the radio-controlled destroyer Stoddard when the wings of his plane collapsed.

He was born in 1894 in Rosencroft, Md. After being graduated from Eastern High School, he was appointed to the Naval Academy and starred on the Navy football teams in 1916 and 1917. He served on the U. S. S. MacDonough during the World War and, after the Armistice, was transferred to the U. S. S. Upshur in China waters.

In 1923 he was ordered to Pensacola, Fla., for aviation training and after graduating as a flier, was ordered to V. F. Squadron No. 1 of the Battle Fleet, where he served until July, 1926. From December, 1927, to July 15, 1929, he was a squadron commander at San Diego. He was executive officer of the V. B. Squadron on the Saratoga at the time of his death. In 1929, President Hoover awarded him the Schiff trophy in recognition of his squadron having flown the greatest number of hours during the year without injury to personnel or material.

Woman Hurt by Auto And Driver Is Arrested

A woman was slightly hurt and a motorist was arrested in connection with an accident on Seventh street near G street southwest yesterday.

Mildred Beavers, 26 years old, of 618 Eighth street southwest, was alighting from a street car when she was struck by an automobile driven by Garland W. Jones, 17 years old, of Roseville, Va., according to police. She was treated at Emergency Hospital for bruises and shock. Jones was charged with reckless driving and driving with bad brakes.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE TABLOID GOLF COURSE PROPRIETOR'S LAMENT.

(After Thomas Wood.)

I REMEMBER, I remember
This Tom Thumb course forlorn,
When it was crowded every day
By frenzied crowds and worn;
The fans that flocked each summer night—
The "bugs" that lingered late—
The days when I could talk about
The profit at the gate.

I remember, I remember
When silence vast and deep
Did not reign through the summer day
And put me fast asleep—
When putters merry music made
Throughout the widespread land
And I was offered for the lease
The sum of twenty "grand"

I REMEMBER, I remember
When I employed a force
Of men to help me with the work
Upon the crowded course:
The throngs that battled at the gate
To squeeze in one by one—
The days when people played the game
And thought that it was fun.

I remember, I remember
When no one was so rude
That he could think of coming here
In search of solitude;
When there was life and action, too,
On all the eighteen holes,
And no one ever thought 'twould be
As lonely as the Poles.

I REMEMBER, I remember
When almost any lot
Was like a gold mine if transformed
Into a Tom Thumb plot;
When one stood on each corner and
Each block held two or three,
And every course an emblem was
Of great prosperity.

I remember, I remember
The days when every "nut"
Was bitten by the urge to pay
Two bits to sink a putt;
When I could sit here busily
And count the daily "take"
And never have to pinch my arms
To keep myself awake.

I REMEMBER, I remember
The income swift and high:
I used to tell my bankers that
The limit was the sky;
It was a childish ignorance
And, realizing same,
I wonder where the people went
Who used to like the game.

Prisoner Walks Right Out On Court But Is Convicted

Police are beginning to think that Easy Smith, colored, 44, who eased out of a dock at Police Court, where he was on trial for a traffic offense yesterday, was not only well named by his mother, but has some of the powers of the late lamented Houdini.

When the court recessed for lunch yesterday Easy was returned to the dock. When court reconvened in the afternoon it was easy to see he was missing. Police, after searching the city, began to suspect it would not be so easy to find him again.

Despite Easy's absence, Judge McMahon ordered his trial to proceed, on motion of Assistant Corporation Counsel Welliver. After hearing the remainder of the testimony, the jury returned a verdict of guilty. It now remains for police to catch Easy, so he can be sentenced.

The man was brought to Police Court from the jail, where he was serving a term of 180 days for carrying a deadly weapon. He was arrested July 15 at Seventh street and Rhode Island avenue northwest and charged with driving without a permit, driving without lights and carrying a deadly weapon. On July 16 he was fined $5 on the light charge, sentenced on the weapon charge, but demanded a jury trial on the permit count.

COMMISSION HEARS FOURTEENTH STREET DEVELOPMENT PLANS

SCHEME WOULD RELIEVE TRAFFIC FOR TOURISTS

Underground Entrances to Railway Are Suggested; Coldren Honored.

A proposal for the development of Fourteenth street in front of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the Department of Agriculture annex was discussed yesterday afternoon at the July-August meeting of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The plan calls for the raising of the street considerably above the street car tracks and the provision of underground entrances to the railway.

The matter will be discussed with officials of the Department of Agriculture, as a service street would have to be provided. Under the proposal suggested both sides of the street would be raised, while the tracks would remain at about their present level.

The scheme would connect with the long-discussed plan for the development of Fourteenth street in the vicinity of Potomac Park so as to relieve traffic congestion during the tourist seasons. A detailed report was submitted to the commission yesterday by its coordinating committee on the development of this area.

Extension Is Considered.

It is the contention of the committee that the most practical solution to the problem would be the extension of Fifteenth street through the Washington Monument Grounds to connect with Fourteenth street near the outlet bridge of the Tidal Basin. District officials have inclined more to an overpass for Fourteenth street at its intersection with the East Potomac Park driveway outlet.

The commission was informed that the regional traffic survey, sponsored by the Bureau of Public Roads, the planning body and Maryland and Virginia agencies, has been started and will be well under way within another month. It is expected to require a year for completion.

Coldren Is Honored.

As an honor to Fred G. Coldren, its former secretary, of many years' service, the commission voted to name a hill at Fort Dupont in his honor. Mr. Coldren had always been fond of the hill, it was said.

Plans were also considered for the development of Fort Foote, recently acquired, and for Fort Hunt, which is expected to be turned over to the body shortly.

Probable sites for the proposed Jefferson memorial were discussed, but no action was taken. While the commission favors a location near the State Department, it was said that the matter of selection was up to the Fine Arts Commission.

Four Swimming In Reservoir Fined

Washington Residents Pay $5 Each in Court at Laurel.

Charged with swimming in the reservoir which supplies the town's drinking water, four Washington residents were fined $5 each in Laurel, Md.

The four are Louise Watkins, who gave an address on M street northwest near Ninth street; Evelyn Perkins, who said she lived on N street near Eighth street northwest; John G. DeVakos, of 813 F street northeast, and Frank R. Fasnacht, of 619 Eighth street northeast. They were arrested by town policemen and tried before Judge Samuel Scott, of Laurel, who fined them. The quartet was held in the Laurel jail for several hours until money for the fines could be sent. They said they did not know the body of water was a reservoir, as there were no signs posted.

The heat wave claimed two other victims yesterday when Wilmer Pinkney and Thomas Contee were fined $10 each for "bathing in a public place without clothes." They were sentenced in police court at Upper Marlboro, Md.

HIT BY AUTO

RAYMOND J. HENLEY.

Truck Hits Boy, 6; Skull Is Fractured

Lad Ran Into Path From Behind Parked Car, Driver Says.

Raymond J. Henley, 6 years old, of 934 C street southwest, was struck by a truck of the Union Wall Paper Co., driven by Clifton L. Yeatman, 22 years old, of 625 M street southwest, yesterday afternoon in front of his home.

He was placed in the truck by Yeatman and the boy's father, Joseph Henley, and removed to Emergency Hospital, where he was admitted in a serious condition with a fractured skull. According to Yeatman, the child ran into the street from between parked cars and he saw him too late to stop.

The driver was taken to the Fourth Precinct and later released after his brakes were found to be in a good condition.

BABY DIES, WEDGED BETWEEN BED, WALL

Rescue Squad and Ambulance Fail to Revive Infant Strangled to Death.

Beverly Albert Allen, 8 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Allen, of 440 Warner street northwest, was strangled to death late yesterday when she became wedged between the bed and the wall while taking his afternoon nap.

Mrs. Allen informed physicians and police that she had placed him asleep on his bed and went out to sweep up the back yard. Ten minutes later she returned and found the infant wedged between the bed and the wall, apparently suffocated.

She immediately called the Emergency Hospital ambulance.

The police from the Second Precinct were the firs tto arrive on the scene, followed by the Fire Rescue Squad and the Emergency Hospital ambulance. They attempted to resuscitate the infant, but all efforts were unavailing.

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt was notified.

Man Has Brief Respite From 18-Day Hiccoughs

Leslie F. Pitcher, former police informer, who has been suffering of hiccoughs for eighteen days in Gallinger Hospital, had an eight-hour respite yesterday from the paroxysms, according to Dr. Edgar A. Bocock, superintendent of the hospital.

The hiccoughs began again and hospital doctors reported they were less severe. An osteopathic physician who offered to treat Pitcher for the malady was unable to do so because he is not a member of the Gallinger Hospital staff.

Shot Fired Into House Starts Police Inquiry

Police are looking for the .38-caliber revolver which early yesterday morning fired a bullet into the home of Nicholas Bobys, at 4301 Fifteenth street northwest. The slug broke the glass in a dining room window and then buried itself in the wall.

It is believed that the gun was fired at considerable elevation, possibly from a housetop nearby. Mr. Bobys was unable to explain the incident.

Children Treated to Melon.

The squad room at the Tenth Precinct police station took on the appearance of a bathhouse yesterday afternoon when Detective Robert L. Jones gave a watermelon party for fifteen youngsters between the ages of 5 and 10. The center of operations was a melon weighing more than 60 pounds.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED AT GEORGETOWN U. BY JESUIT SOCIETY

Rev. J. S. O'Conor Is New Director of Seismology at Observatory.

GREATER PART OF STAFF REMAINS UNAFFECTED

St. Ignatius' Day Signal for Membership Shift in Organization.

Succeeding the Rev. Frederick J. Sohon as director of the Seismological Observatory at Georgetown University, the Rev. John S. O'Conor, who recently completed a special course in seismology at St. Louis University, yesterday took over his new duties in accordance with the annual changes among priests of the Society of Jesus, made each year on St. Ignatius' Day.

The official announcement of all changes in the Jesuit Order was made public yesterday by the Very Rev. Edward C. Phillips, S. J., provincial of the Maryland-New York Province of th society.

Father Sohon, relieved of his duties, will make his tertianship, completing the third-year course of studies at the university.

Made Prefect of Studies.

The greater portion of the faculty at Georgetown University will remain the same, with the exception of the following:

The Rev. John J. McLaughlin, who recently reutrned from Rome, where he received the degree of doctor of canon law at the Gregorian University, was made prefect of studies in the college and regent of the graduate school. He will also lecture on canon law in the law school. The Rev. Vincent J. Hart, formerly of Woodstock College, comes to the university as assistant prefect of studies, while the Rev. Francis E. Lucey was named regent of the law school.

The Rev. Francis J. Burke and Timothy J. Dineen, both of Woodstock College, come to the university, the former to lecture in philosophy and the latter to be assistant prefect of discipline.

The Rev. Charles J. Foley, of Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y., will lecture in philosophy in the prelaw course, while the Rev. Ferdinand Schoberg, formerly of Baltimore, who spent a number of years doing missionary work in the Philippine Islands, was named to succeed the Rev. Gerald Treacy as assistant director of the House of Retreats at Manresa-on-the-Severn. Father Treacy was appointed procurator and chaplain of the hospital in the Jesuit College in Philadelphia, Pa.

Studied at Oxford.

Following his studies at Oxford University, in England, P. J. McGowan, winner of the Gainsford prize for Greek prose, was appointed to the university as instructor in Greek.

The Rev. Thomas B. Chetwood and the Rev. J. J. Murphy, for a number of years attached to Georgetown, were transferred to the Canisius College, at Buffalo, as professors of philosophy. Having won his bachelor of laws degree, Thomas T. Coolahan was returned to Woodstock College to continue his theological studies. G. P. McGowan was also transferred to Woodstock to pursue the same course.

The faculty at Georgetown Preparatory School was changed only slightly, with the following transfers being made.

The Rev. George E. Kelly was sent to Fordham University, where he was appointed the father minister. Three new instructors were added to the faculty. They are the Rev. E. B. Berry, the Rev. J. T. Mulligan and S. J. Meaney. Father Berry will teach physics, and Father Mulligan will instruct the fourth-year high school class, and Mr. Meaney, who recently returned from Colombia, South America, will be professor of Spanish.

Back at Gonzaga School.

Returning to Gonzaga High School at North Capitol and I streets northwest, the Rev. Philip Clarke, having spent more than a year in Europe, devoted chiefly to the study of ascetical theology and hermaneutics, was named prefect of studies, succeeding the Rev. Joseph A. Canning, who was transferred to the Novitiate at Wernersville as the father minister.

The Rev. James McCarl and the Rev. John O'Hurley, also were returned to Gonzaga, where Father McCarl will teach the first-year high school class and Father O'Hurley will act as assistant pastor of St. Aloysius' Church. The Rev. E. J. Carpenter was transferred from Baltimore to instruct the first-year class of boys. The Rev. Alfred A. Purcell will make his tertianship.

Carnival to Close At Holy Comforter

The Holy Comforter Church carnival, which is being held at Fifteenth and East Capitol streets, will close tonight with the celebration of "Old Timers" night. All former parishioners have been invited to attend the fete.

There will be a general auction of all unsold goods at the seventeen booths, as one feature of closing night. Employes of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and the Lincoln Park Citizens Association will extend a community welcome to visitors.

The festival is held for the benefit of the church fund, and is under chairmanship of the Rev. Edward J. A. Nestor, assistant pastor of Holy Comforter. The Knights of Columbus, Sodality Union of Washington, Holy Name Societies and the Catholic Daughters of America have been extended a special invitation for closing night.

Worker, Hit by Pipe, Dies.

William Patterson, 35 years old, colored, of Pittsburgh, Pa., died at Emergency Hospital early yesterday morning from injuries received while at work on a building at 900 Pennsylvania avenue, on July 21. Patterson was struck by a piece of pipe which fell from an upper story of the building. His spine was fractured.
